HOOVER MAKES THIRD PLEA FOR SLUMP RELIEF

Asks Congress to Hurry Emergency Economic Measures.

SAYS NEED GREATER THAN AT CONVENING

Leaders on Both Sides Reply That All Possible Speed Is Being Made.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

For the third time in 26 days President Hoover yesterday sent an earnest plea to Congress for prompt action on the emergency economic program submitted at the opening of the session.

He warned that quick action on the nonpartisan rehabilitation measures is now even more urgent than appeared a month ago.

"We can and must replace the unjustifiable fear in the country by confidence," he said, in a special message recapitulating his recommendations for easing the prevailing acute credit situation.

"I should be derelict in my duty if I did not at this time emphasize the paramount importance to the Nation of constructive action upon these questions at the earliest possible moment.

Bills Called Nonpartisan.

"These recommendations have been largely developed in consultation with leading men of both parties, of agriculture, of labor, of banking and of industry. They furnish the bases for full collaboration to effect these purposes. They have no partisan character."

Hardly had the legislative machinery begun to move after the holiday recess when couriers presented the surprise message in both House and Senate. The chambers were almost empty when the reading began, but members on both sides hurried to their seats as the word was flashed that a special message had arrived.

Party leaders on both sides soon afterward pledged themselves anew to hasten action on the emergency measures.

Robinson Denies Delay.

"We are going to work out this program just as rapidly as we can," said Senator Watson, of Indiana, the Republican leader. "The general principles of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation bill are agreed upon and I believe the Senate will dispose of it promptly."

Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, denied vigorously that members of his party had delayed action on any vital measure.

"Everything possible is being done to secure prompt disposition of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation bill and I expect favorable action on it in a short time," Senator Robinson said. "Democrats in neither house of Congress have delayed or avoided action on the prominent measures referred to by the President. Some of the proposals already are well on the way to final disposition."

Hoover Lists Eight Needs.

The President's message listed the following eight points as the principal objectives of the emergency legislative program:

(1) Strengthening of the Federal Land Bank System to ease the pressure on farm debtors.

(2) Creation of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to liquidate frozen commercial credits.

(3) Establishment of a system of home loan discount banks, to stimulate home construction.

(4) Enlargement of the Federal Reserve discount system to expanded sorely needed commercial and industrial credits.

(5) Special legislation to facilitate distribution of deposits tied up in insolvent banks.

(6) Revision of the laws regulating railroads to rehabilitate the credit of the carriers.

(7) Revision of the banking laws to afford better security to depositors.

(8) Increased taxation and rigid economy all along the line in Federal expenditures.

(9) Drastic economy in expenditures.

(10) Restriction of issues of Federal securities.

The Federal Land Bank bill was passed in the House before the holiday recess. The Senate banking committee plans to take up today the

Chicago Is Forced To Shut 9 Schools

Several Thousand Pupils Affected by City's Lack of Funds.

Chicago, Jan. 4 (A.P.).—Twelve thousand students of Chicago public night schools tried to attend classes tonight only to find them closed because the city has no money to operate them.

Nine schools were affected by the closing order, pupils being told they might attend classes at other schools. Most of the other schools announced, however, they were full to capacity and could accommodate no more students.

Elementary schools in three suburbs, Glencoe, Brookfield and Western Springs, also failed to open today. School boards were seeking additional finances. Several thousand children whose Christmas holiday was extended were entirely satisfied.

Banks' Stake In U. S., Kahn Tells Senators

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

Wall street repudiated its internationalism yesterday when two of its most eminent figures appeared before the Senate finance committee and showed how American bankers are in business for America first. Otto H. Kahn, gray-haired Maecenas and senior partner of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., stopped off on his way to Palm Beach long enough to tell the committee that the stake of American bankers in the United States is immeasurably greater than any they might have in Europe. Commodore Winthrop W. Aldrich, son of the former Senator Nelson Aldrich, who was in his day chairman of the finance committee, which Senator Reed Smoot presides over, today told the committee that his firm, the Chase National Bank, carried on 84 per cent of its business with domestic firms.

The finance committee was sitting in hearings on the resolution of Senator Hiram Johnson (Republican), of California, to determine the extent of foreign financing by American banks. The high light of the day

DEMOCRATS AGREED ON TARIFF MEASURE

Policy Called Radical Move in Procedure; Expected to Pass House.

By J. B. McDONNELL.

Democrats of the House and Senate yesterday agreed on a tariff policy which would revise radically the historic American procedure of tariff making.

The declaration of the House-Senate joint policy committee of the Democrats was phrased in a bill introduced in the House by Representative James W. Collier (Democrat), Mississippi, chairman of the ways and means committee, following an approving meeting of the policy committee.

The Democratic tariff declaration was based on international tariff conferences, designed to remove tariffs, as much as possible, as a weapon in the economic warfare which eventually leads nations to declarations of war as commonly understood.

It is expected that the bill will be passed by the House before the end of the week and sent to the Senate. What will happen there is doubtful.

Democratic leaders of the House are divided in their guesses about the future of the measure. Some believe the Senate will pass it and the President veto it. Some believe the Senate will kill the bill by means of debate. None was so confident as to believe that it could be passed over a presidential veto.

Whatever the future of the bill, after it is passed by the House, as now seems assured, Democratic leaders hoped that it would prove a double-edged sword which would cut, no matter how it was picked up by the Republicans.

The measure is to be called up in the House as soon as the first deficiency appropriation bill has been passed. General debate on that was begun yesterday and its consideration will be continued today. Passage of the Collier tariff bill is expected before the end of the week.

The bill will be taken up under a rule drafted by Representative Charles R. Crisp (Democrat), of Georgia. This provides for consideration under the general rules of

2 DEAD, MANY HURT, 30 HELD IN INDIA CLASH

Police Charge Crowds and Tension Prevails Througout Nation.

DRASTIC ORDINANCES DECREED BY BRITISH

Gandhi Pleads for Boycott; Patel Accuses MacDonald of Misstatements.

Bombay, India, Jan. 4 (A.P.).—The renewed struggle between India's Nationalist millions and the British government, brought to a head with the arrest of Mahatma Gandhi, drew its first blood today.

In a clash between police and Nationalist demonstrators at Allahabad, two men were killed, one of them trampled to death. Many others were injured and 30 were arrested.

The British government armed itself for the renewal of the fray with a group of drastic new ordinances, one of which authorized a declaration that the working committee of the All-India National Congress was an organization wholly without the law and could be so treated.

At Cawnpore, city of a tragic reputation for successive outbreaks and disorders starting with the Indian mutiny, police armed with lathis (staves) twice charged crowds of demonstrators, and throughout India there was great tension and anxiety, for many more clashes between the forces of the government and the unyielding believers in Mr. Gandhi's policy of nonviolence were expected to follow.

Issues Boycott Command.

Meanwhile, in his cell at Yeroda Jail, near Poona, the mahatma issued a set of commands to the Indian people, directing them to withdraw every form of cooperation from the government, to discard every trace of violence and to boycott every article of British goods, for "the boycott is the weapon which will bring England to her knees."

The government showed its strong hand by sentencing Jawaharlal Nehru, second only to Mr. Gandhi among the Nationalist leaders, to two years at hard labor for his anti-British activities. Rajendra Prasad, who was nominated to succeed Vallabhai Patel as president of the National Congress because Mr. Patel was arrested at the same time Mr. Gandhi was taken into custody, was himself made prisoner by the government.

Both Mr. Patel and Mr. Gandhi were confined in the Yeroda Jail. Bombay still was sleeping at 4 o'clock this morning when the mahatma's captors took him from the tent in which he was living and rushed him through the dark, tortuous treets on his way to Poona, 150 miles away. He took the arrest smilingly, apparently surprised that they had not come for him sooner.

Gandhi Will Not Be Tried.

In the language of the official warrants Mr. Gandhi and Mr. Patel were "placed under restraint during the pleasure of the government for good and sufficient reasons."

The mahatma will not be tried, but will be kept interned. He spent his

Former Consul Is Held To Answer Rum Charge

Los Angeles, Jan. 4 (A.P.).—Leopold Lacayo, former vice consul in this district for Nicaragua, was held today to answer before the Federal grand jury on a charge of violating the prohibition law. The United States attorney's office said the case probably would be presented to the grand jury Wednesday.

Lacayo, who with Pedro Velez, radio dealer, was arrested by Federal agents when they found 40 gallons of wine and 6 gunnuts of whisky, said he would see kimmunity on grounds he had been appointed vice consul by his government during a previous administration and his commission never expired.

President Is Opposed To Federal Pay Cuts Proposed in Congress

Two House Members Seek Shorter Week as Solution of Wage Problems While Senator Borah Asks Reduction in Salaries of Cabinet and at Capitol.

Federal workers, organizing to oppose the rising tide of congressional pay cut proposals, will find a champion in President Hoover, it was learned yesterday.

In authoritative quarters it was said the President will oppose any lowering of present standards. Though no formal statement was issued administration reports left no doubt as to the White House position that present rates of remuneration are essential to obtaining competent public servants.

Two others moved to silence the pay cut clamor.

Representative Andrew L. Somers (Democrat), New York, asked a reduction in regular working hours everywhere, to safeguard wages against decline and to cut down unemployment.

Representative Fiorello H. LaGuardia (Republican), New York, proposed closing postoffices Saturday as well as Sunday, putting Government departments on a five-day week, and letting contracts only to firms that operate on that basis.

Meanwhile agitations for reduction of Federal salaries broke out anew on Capitol Hill with introduction of two new pay-cut measures and revision of a third put forward before the holidays.

Developments were:

Representative Harold McGugin (Republican), Kansas, suggested "emergency reductions ranging from 10 per cent on incomes from $1,200 to $2,000, to 20 per cent on salaries over $5,000.

Senator William E. Borah (Republican), Idaho, sought to reduce pay of senators and representatives to $8,000, and salaries of the Vice President, the Speaker of the House and Cabinet members to $12,000.

Representative Milton C. Gerber (Republican), Oklahoma, who earlier

FARM BOARD WHEAT IS VOTED FOR RELIEF

Senate Passes Bill Taking 40,000,000 Bushels to Give to Needy.

(Associated Press.)

The Senate voted yesterday to take 40,000,000 bushels of wheat from the Farm Board's bulging bins and distribute them to the needy.

Its action climaxed a day in which criticism of the administration's relief policies resounded through the Senate chamber and committee rooms. In one of the latter, Gov. Pinchot of Pennsylvania, whose name is linked with speculation on Republican presidential possibilities, denounced the Hoover program as "vicious."

The Senate acted, without a roll call vote, after a vigorous debate. Democratic leaders asserted the appropriation of wheat was the equivalent of a dole, firmly opposed by President Hoover. The vehicle of action was a resolution by Senators Capper (Republican), Kansas, and Wheeler (Democrat), Montana. It had the approval of the Farm Board, which nevertheless contends it should be compensated for the wheat.

Testifying before a Senate manufacturers subcommittee in hearings on proposals for unemployment relief by direct Federal appropriations, Pinchot launched upon a caustic criticism of the administration's program of relief through local charitable contributions.

"It takes money from the little fellow," he said. "It doesn't take it from the big fellow. It is an attempt to get by without increasing taxes and letting the big fellows come in to share the load."

Without prompting by the committee, Pinchot went on to speak his views against the "Republican machine" which he blamed for defeating his State unemployment program; against Secretary Mellon for not lending $1,000,000 for the State unemployment fund; and against Senator Reed, of Pennsylvania, for saying Pennsylvania can take care of her own problem.

Pinchot estimated Secretary Mellon has an annual $10,000,000 income.

Hawaiian Governor Urges Crime Quiz

Favors Special Legislature Session After Attack on Woman.

Honolulu, Jan. 4 (A.P.).—Recent acts of criminal violence here were followed today by a statement from Gov. Lawrence M. Judd that a special session of the Hawaiian Legislature would be called if leaders of the House and Senate could agree on a program of constructive action.

The governor's announcement was the outstanding development in events following the attack on a young woman in her home Saturday by Lui Kaikapu, one of two men who escaped from Oahu Prison Thursday.

Representatives of nearly 100 civic organizations have been invited by the League of Women Voters to confer Wednesday on the crime situation in Honolulu. This includes the attack on the white school teacher Saturday, the slaying of a Filipino by a traffic officer last night, the hunt for the murderer who escaped from prison with Kaikapu, and the attack on the wife of a naval officer in September.

Cabinet of Zivkovitch In Jugoslavia Resigns

Berlin, Jan. 4 (U.P.).—A telegraph union dispatch from Belgrade, Jugoslavia, tonight said Premier Gen. Pera Zivkovitch had announced the resignation of his cabinet because the task for which it was formed originally, the holding of elections, had been accomplished.

It was believed in political quarters, however, that the resignation was because of loan negotiations of the Jugoslavian government.

GRAIN FREIGHT CUT CANCELED BY COURT

Hughes Opinion Holds Conditions Changed After I. C. C. Order.

(Associated Press.)

The Nation's $25,000,000,000 railroad system saw fresh patches of blue yesterday in the skies lately so darkened by shrunken earnings.

The Supreme Court of the United States set aside reduced freight rates on grain which went into effect in August, Chief Justice Hughes delivering the opinion, and pointing to changed economic conditions since the Interstate Commerce Commission ordered the reduction.

The emergency increase in freight rates, designed to produce $100,000,000 or more additional annual revenue, took effect, representing a compromise between the carriers and the Interstate Commerce Commission on the roads' demand seven months ago for a blanket increase of 15 per cent.

The Railroad Credit Corporation began to function as an agency to collect the increase in revenues resulting from the higher rates, from which it will make loans to carriers having difficulty in meeting their fixed charges.

The Southern Pacific officials expressed fresh hope regarding the prospect of general voluntary wage reductions, as result of unconditional acceptance of a 10 per cent cut by 8,000 employes in Texas and Louisiana, representing about half of the system's employes in those States.

F. E. Williamson, president of the New York Central since January 1, in his first public statement since assuming that office, regarded the outlook for an agreement on wage reductions as hopeful.

The Interstate Commerce Commission prepared to begin hearings on Wednesday on the four-party Eastern trunkline consolidation plan. Mr Williamson, of the New York Central, however, expressed the opinion that it would take some time to work out the complex consolidation problem in its finality.

The commission made its investigation of the grain rates under the Hoch-Smith resolution of 1925, which in effect directed that the lowest possible rate be given agricultural products.

The Santa Fe and other grain-carrying railroads asked a rehearing, claiming the steady decline in railroad traffic made them unable to bear the loss of revenue.

"There can be no question as to the change in conditions upon which the new hearing was asked," Hughes said. "Of that change we may take judicial notice. It is the outstanding

2 Killed, 5 Injured In Head-On Crash

Special to The Washington Post.

Fredericksburg, Va., Jan. 4.—Two persons were killed and five others injured, three of them seriously, in a triple automobile collision 7 miles below here on the Washington-Richmond highway tonight. One of the injured men was a Marine private, who, officers said, was apparently hitch-hiking his way back to the base at Quantico.

A State prohibition inspector and a Fredericksburg patrolman who had gone to the scene of the wreck captured a liquor truck and 3,600 pints of bottled-in-bond whisky, valued at between $10,000 and $15,000, on their way back to Fredericksburg.

Earl Tuttle, 24 years old, of Massaponax, Va., suffered internal injuries and a fractured skull in the crash. He died a few moments after he was admitted to the Fredericksburg Hospital.

Jack Huntley, 20 years old, of Salisbury, N. C., was killed almost instantly, his skull was fractured.

JAPAN DRAFTS REPLY TO U. S. IN CONSUL CASE

JAPANESE OFFICIAL EXPRESSES REGRETS

America May Now Decline to Join Group in Making Manchurian Probe.

Tokyo, Tuesday, Jan. 5 (U.P.).—Premier Inukai today was preparing to forward to United States Secretary of State Stimson an explanation of the attack by three Japanese soldiers on American Consul Culver B. Chamberlain at Mukden.

The explanation, to be submitted through Japanese Ambassador Debuchi at Washington, was understood to state that Chamberlain's automobile, although it flew the American flag, was stopped by the patrol because Chinese agents had been using foreign flags in an effort to pass sentries.

The United States yesterday made formal representations to the Japanese government through its Ambassador in Washington for the "unjustified" attack on American Consul Culver B. Chamberlain in Mukden by three Japanese soldiers Sunday morning.

Stimson Is Ill.

The chief of the division of Far Eastern affairs, Stanley K. Hornbeck, was the liaison between Secretary Stimson and the Japanese Embassy. Dr. Hornbeck, who is the expert of the Department of State for all questions affecting China and Japan, was requested by Secretary Stimson to call upon Japanese Ambassador Katsuji Debuchi. Secretary Stimson was ill all day at his home in Woodley with an attack of grippe.

It was stressed in responsible quarters both at the State Department and in the Japanese Embassy that the demarche of Dr. Hornbeck was in no sense a protest. Secretary Stimson intends to have in his possession full particulars before taking any further steps to obtain proper satisfaction.

Expresses His Regrets.

Late in the day cables from the Far East revealed that the Japanese consul in Mukden had expressed his regrets over what had taken place. However, there was no official substantiation for this report and in any event, it was clearly indicated that the mere expression of such regret by the Japanese consul, while gratifying to American susceptibilities, was not to be considered as of adequate reparation for the incident. The attack on Consul Chamberlain is not the first time such undisciplined action on the part of Japanese soldiery has been reported, although the Chamberlain assault is the most serious reported to date. Less than a week ago, Japanese soldiers detained the Assistant Military Attache of the American Legation at Peiping en route to Manchuria, but released him after he had produced his credentials.

Reaction by official American agencies was promptly swung into line on all three fronts, at Mukden in Manchuria, where the attack had occurred, at Peiping, where American Minister Nelson T. Johnson is in charge, and here in Washington when Dr Hornbeck represented Secretary of State Stimson in orally requesting the Japanese government to furnish the fullest explanation of what had transpired after three Japanese soldiers molested an American consular officer on his way to the railway station in Mukden.

Just what further steps will be taken by the United States in the way of satisfaction for the attack, will not be revealed until Secretary Stimson has returned to his desk. It was held inevitable, however, that the incident will make further American participation in the settlement of the difficulties between China and Japan exceedingly difficult. In some quarters, it was even hinted that the incident might preclude the presence of an American observer on the commission of inquiry which has been appointed by the League of Nations to investigate conditions in Manchuria.

Hines Unable to Accept.

Some names have already been selected by the league council for the commission, but it had originally been intended to have Walker D.

100 ARRESTED IN ROVER DRIVE ON MAGAZINES

Three Police Get One Year For Brutality

The maximum penalty provided by law for simple assault was given yesterday to James A. Mostyn and William R. Laflin, suspended members of the First Precinct, for beating James Henry Harker, youthful baker's helper, to extract from him a confession.

The two were brought before Justice James M. Proctor in the District Supreme Court, on a motion for a new trial. After listening to arguments by James A. O'Shea, attorney for the pair, and Leo A. Rover, United States attorney, who prosecuted, Justice Proctor denied the motion for a new trial and gave each a sentence of one year in jail and a $500 fine.

Previously, Justice Proctor had overruled a motion for a new trial for Robert J. Barrett, headquarters detective sergeant, convicted of making a simple assault upon George M. Baber in an apartment house at Thirteenth and Belmont streets northwest. Barrett was given a jail sentence of one year. All three men are at liberty on bond, pending appeal.

In sentencing Mostyn and Laflin, the judge said they had been found

ALL ARE RELEASED ON $25 COLLATERAL

1,000 Copies of Alleged Indecent Periodicals Are Confiscated.

In a city-wide drive, launched last night when police were advised by United States Attorney Leo A. Rover that he considered three magazines which have recently made their appearance here as indecent, more than 100 storekeepers were arrested on charges of "offering indecent publications for sale."

The drive was not confined to newsdealers alone, as proprietors of drug stores, groceries, poolrooms and delicatessens were booked when police found the periodicals on display.

On receipt of the United States Attorney's ruling, Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, superintnedent of police, immediately ordered that two men in each precinct be detailed to make a survey of the stores selling magazines and arrest the persons displaying those mentioned.

Willing to Comply.

Last week, Mr. Rover made a statement in which he warned magazine dealers against selling periodicals of a doubtful nature. A survey of dealers by The Washington Post brought out the fact that the dealers stated they were willing to discontinue handling such magazines, but that they would desire to know just which Mr. Rover objected to.

Mr. Rover said last night that on previous occasions he had issued specific warnings of that nature and the results had been unsatisfactory. He said many would discontinue sale for a month, but another issue would appear later. "I wish to bring to the dealers the fact that they have a responsibility of their own in this matter," he asserted.

All those arrested, only eight of whom were women, were released on collateral of $25. If convicted of the offense they are liable, according to statute, to a fine of $50 to $500.

1,000 Copies Seized.

About 1,000 copies were seized by the police. Arrests were made in every precinct but the Seventh and Eighth. Police of the Eighth Precinct went to seven stores and, taking the objectionable periodicals, asked the proprietors to appear at the station house to deposit the collateral. At a late hour last night none had posted the money. Seventh Precinct officials said that they had received no order to make the drive.

Among the six storekeepers arrested in the Eleventh Precinct was George C. Havenner, jr., son of Dr. Havenner, president of the Federation of Citizens Associations. Young Havenner's store is at 1427 Good Hope road southeast.

The others charged were James J. Carley, 40, of 1809 Nichols avenue southeast; William Mushake, 62, of 1919 Nichols avenue; Herman H. Pohl, 64, of 1838 Good Hope road; Martin M. Silver, 30, of 2341 Pennsylvania avenue southeast, and Napoleon Scott, 71, of 2047 Nichols avenue.

In Second Precinct.

In the Second Precinct policemen found magazines in six stores. They arrested Edward Robertson, 30, colored, of 2006 Fifteenth street northwest; Dante Checca, 31, of 1926 Fourteenth street northwest; Max Steinman, 41, of 1806 Fourteenth street northwest; Pete Graggas, 48, of 2522 Fourteenth street northwest; William Edward Slack, 68, of 1112 North Capitol street, and Thomas Benjamin Johnson, 54, of 2215 Fourteenth street northwest.

Others arrested in the Second Precinct were:

Nathan Ruskin, 34, of 87 Florida avenue northwest; Clarence Badey, 48, colored, of 26 Q street northwest; Lewis Courembis, 43, of 1017 M street northwest; Samuel Val, 47, of 1316 Thirteenth street; Nicholas Capeton, 45, of 1119 M street northwest; William Jones, 51, of 1029 Ninth street northwest; Serena Goodman, 58, of 1101 Thirteenth street northwest; James R. DAVIS' DRY LEANING HIT IN BECK THREAT

Warns Senator of Primary Opposition Unless He Favors Repeal.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

Representative James M. Beck (Republican), of Pennsylvania, yesterday warned Senator James J. Davis (Republican), of the same State, to come out for repeal of the eighteenth amendment, or else expect a fight over his seat in the Senate next April.

Beck, a rampant wet, announced that if there was a sufficient popular demand he himself would enter the spring primary election against Davis.

He qualified this, however, by saying that he thought that William S. Vare, political boss of Philadelphia, who was kicked out of the Senate seat now held by Davis, should seek vindication in the next election if his health permits. Moreover, he said, Davis should voluntarily make way for him.

Davis, who was elected to the Senate while he was Secretary of Labor, used to say in his campaign that he stood on the dry plank adopted by the Republicans in Kansas City in 1928.

He has never altered his position, although there have been reports that he ultimately would come out for modification of the Volstead act—that is, for a return of beer and wine. Representative Beck said yesterday that this would not be enough, insisting that Davis would have to go all the way and espouse repeal.

The Beck statement was regarded here as a "feeler," one calculated, first, to determine the degree of sentiment for a return to Washington of Vare, and, second, to determine the degree of enthusiasm for Beck himself.

It is conceded that Davis can not hope to win the nomination for senator in the April primary without the support of the Vare machine. The chances are that, lacking such support, he would not even enter the primary.

Beck, one of the most brilliant minds in American politics, is the choice of the Vare machine, provided the boss himself does not run.

There is a possibility that Gifford Pinchot, the extremely dry governor of the State, will get into the race.

Lenz Team Wins 6 Rubbers; Is Trailing by 16,835 Points

New York (Tuesday), Jan. 5 (A.P.).—Sidney S. Lenz and Commander Winfield Liggett, jr., cut 3,385 points off the lead of Mr. and Mrs. Ely Culbertson in the great contract bridge match at a nine-rubber session ending early this morning. The plus of Culbertson's side, with 21 rubbers left to play in the 150-rubber match, became 16,835.

Lenz and Liggett won six rubbers during the session, making the rubbers for the series stand 71 for Culbertson and 58 for Lenz.

It was the biggest swing of any of the seventeen sessions for Lenz's side. But the session's gain has been exceeded several times by Culbertson and partner.

The gain offered little hope that Lenz could win the match. But it did give him optimism as regards his aim of making more points than Culbertson and partner during the rubbers in which Liggett will be opposite him instead of Oswald Jacoby, his first partner in the match.

"We have a bare chance to win—that's all," said Lenz before hurrying off to play ping pong with Bill Tilden. "Anyway, we are having a lot of fun.

RAINEY HOLDS VINSON'S NAVY SUM TOO HIGH

HEARINGS WILL OPEN TODAY ON MEASURE

Adams, Pratt and Rock Are Among Those Summoned by Chairman.

(Associated Press.)

The members of Congress who want to spend $600,000,000 to make the Navy as big as treaties allow yesterday found something besides arms limitation conferences impeding their campaign.

Representative Rainey, of Illinois, the majority leader in the House, said he hoped it would not, and thought it should not, take that much money to build an adequate Navy.

Just the same, Chairman Vinson, of the House naval committee, continued plans for hearings today on his bill introduced yesterday to authorize $616,250,000 for new ships.

Adams Is Summoned.

Vinson has summoned Secretary Adams, Admiral Pratt, chief of naval operations; Rear Admiral Rock, chief of the Navy's construction and repair division, and Rear Admiral Upham, head of the Bureau of Navigation, among others.

With their testimony he intends to show that all but two of the 120 ships his $616,250,000 would build would replace vessels now in operation but which soon will be overage or obsolescent.

Would Add Officers.

Likewise, the Georgia Democrat expects to develop testimony showing the treaty Navy would be able to operate more economically than the fleet does now. More officers would be necessary, but the addition of mechanical devices in many instances would tend to decrease the total manpower.

Vinson will emphasize, too, his conviction that the expenditure of $616,250,000 over ten years would not work a hardship on the now depleted Treasury.

His bill would authorize the expenditure of $18,000,000 in the next fiscal year. Appropriations would be increased to $90,110,000 in the 1937 financial year.

The railroads had asked an injunction in a lower court. This was denied. The Supreme Court sent the case back, ordering that an injunction be granted.

In the consolidation proposal the flood of opposition to inclusion of the Chicago, Indianapolis & Louisville (Monon) Railway and the Chicago & Eastern Illinois in the Great East and West systems was increased yesterday by petitions from the Louisville, Memphis and Cincinnati Chambers of Commerce. All protested against including the Monon. In the Baltimore & Ohio. The Memphis organization also opposed linking the Chicago & Eastern Illinois with the Chesapeake & Ohio-Nickel Plate system.

Inheritance Tax Opinion Handed by Supreme Court

(Associated Press.)

The Supreme Court yesterday ruled that a State could not impose an inheritance tax on stocks and bonds in one of its corporations held by an estate outside its boundaries.

Maine had sought to collect such a tax on stocks held by Edward H. Haskell, who died in Massachusetts. The First National Bank of Boston, executor of the estate, brought suit to prevent collection.

There was a dissenting opinion by Justice Stone asserting that both Maine and Massachusetts could tax the stock. Justices Holmes and Brandeis joined in the dissent.

Smoke Screen Taxi Found Abandoned

Rumrunner Car Escaped Police Twice Over Week-End.

A smoke-screen-equipped taxicab that escaped from police pursuers twice over the week-end was found abandoned at Champlain street and Kalorama road yesterday by Second Precinct Policemen R. L. Manning and P. C. Carver.

The car was sighted Saturday night by two Ninth Precinct policemen, and they were forced to give up the chase because of a smoke screen thrown out. A lookout was sent out and it was sighted again early yesterday morning when a citizen told police a car was being loaded with whisky near Fourteenth and Corcoran streets. Another scout car was sent to the scene, but again a smoke screen enabled the two colored men, occupants of the car, to escape.

It was found several hours later, but the smoke device had been removed before the car was abandoned.

News was received yesterday by the headquarters here of the National Geographic Society that the Citroen-Haardt Transasiatic Expedition, traveling by tractor motorcar from Sinkiang (Chinese Turkestan) to Peiping, has reached the mud-walled city of Liangchowfu, in Kansu Province, China.

German missionaries are hosts to the expedition's personnel. Liangchowfu is about midway between Urumchi, capital of Sinkiang, and Peiping, the former capital of China.

Cab Driver Sought In Traffic Wreck

Pursued Taxi Crashes Into Car of Philippines Commissioner.

A taxi driver was sought by police last night in connection with a collision between the cab and the automobile of Camilo Osias, resident commissioner from the Philippines.

The accident occurred at New Jersey avenue and C street southeast as the hacker attempted to outrun a Fourth Precinct scout car seeking to arrest him on a charge of speeding and reckless driving. Police said the chase started at Second and F streets southwest and that the cab crashed the Osias car and then careened into a parked sedan owned by Mary F. Mayhew, of 2936 Bellevue terrace northwest, when it turned into New Jersey avenue from C street.

The driver and a colored woman leaped from the cab and disappeared, according to police. Mr. Osias' secretary and chaffeur, who were occupants of his car, were not injured in the crash.

Woman, 56, Thwarted In Suicide Attempt

Despondent because she had met with financial losses, Mrs. Katherine Holmes, 56, of 638 Pennsylvania avenue southeast, yesterday attempted to commit suicide by inhaling gas in her home, according to police, who found several notes.

Miss Hallie Heafer, who lives in the same house, smelled fumes and upon investigating, found Mrs. Holmes on the first floor of the house in a coma. She summoned the rescue squad which sent the victim to Casualty Hospital. She later was transferred to Gallinger Hospital, where she was admitted in an undetermined condition.

Highlands Association Urges Avenue Widening

Discussion on the project of widening Nichols avenue and development of First street southeast was opened again by the Washington Highlands Citizens Association at a meeting last night in Congress Heights School. This movement was one of the original projects of the association.

The association went on record as advancing the movement for erection of a new bridge across Eastern Branch to be known as the South Capitol Street Bridge. Such a bridge would shorten the distance between Anacostia and the Capitol and lessen traffic congestion on Nichols avenue.

RUTH M'CORMICK SILENT ON ATTACK

Refuses to Elaborate on Her Paper's Editorial Hitting Hoover.

Colorado Springs, Colo., Jan. 4 (A. P.).—Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick late today said that although she dictated the policy of her newspaper, the Rockford (Ill.) Register-Republic, an editorial in the paper yesterday attacking the renomination of President Hoover must stand alone without personal comment.

Mrs. McCormick, daughter of the late Mark Hanna, one time national political power, was deluged with telephone calls and telegrams following her return to her home here today after a visit to Rockford. She said the matter of the Republicans choosing a candidate other than Hoover, as put forth in her paper yesterday, was not a personal matter.

"Of course I dictate the policy of my paper," Mrs. McCormick said, "and so far as the paper is concerned the editorials are my views. I shall continue to dictate its policy and anything I say in regard to the presidential campaign will be printed in my own paper. I refuse to give out interviews to other papers or news services."

The editorial in question urged that the Republican party disregard precedent and select a presidential nominee who has "a fair chance of winning."

The editorial declared that President Hoover is "not a popular leader" and asked "why Hoover should not be freely discussed and impartially weighed as a seeker for public office."

It emphasized confidence for 1932, as expressed by the Democratic leaders, and asked consideration for "hundreds of thousands of Republicans who will either vote against Mr. Hoover or refrain from voting for him."

$500 Donation Made To Far East Institute

Contribution of $500 by Chester D. Pugsley, of Peekskill, N. Y., to American University for the Institute of Far Eastern Affairs, to be held in Washington March 21 and 22, was announced yesterday in a message from the donor to the Associated Press.

The institute is the only one held in Washington. It will be featured by a dinner at the Brookings Institute, at which Ambassador Debuchi of Japan will be the guest of honor.

DETECTIVES LOCATE MRS. ELKINS' GEMS

Ring and Bracelet Valued at $13,500 Found in Store; 2 Suspects Held.

Jewelry valued at $13,500, stolen on November 1 from Mrs. Mary Elkins, wife of former Senator Stephen Elkins, was returned to its owner yesterday, and two persons, said to have been responsible for the theft, were arrested.

The jewels, a ring valued at $10,000 and a bracelet valued at $3,500, were recovered in a second-hand store by Detective Sergts. John Wise and Richard D. Cox. According to the proprietor of the store, he bought the jewels for $5.

Shortly after the valuables were found the detectives arrested Nathan Graves and his wife, Sopora, both colored, of 816 N street northwest. Graves, it was said, was at one time employed in the home of Mrs. Elkins' mother, Mrs. Catherine Regan, 2614 Cathedral avenue northwest, from where the jewels were stolen.

The pair was taken before Judge Gus A. Schuldt, in District Police Court, where, after pleading not guilty to the theft, they were held under a bond of $5,000 each for the action of the grand jury.

HEFLIN'S WITNESSES TESTIFY DEAD VOTED

20 on Stand First Day of Former Senator's Election Contest.

Birmingham, Ala., Jan. 4 (A.P.).—Testimony in support of former Senator J. Thomas Heflin's charges regarding ballot irregularities in Alabama was offered today at a hearing in his contest of the election of his successor, Senator John H. Bankhead.

The testimony had to do with reputed irregularities in the general election of 1930.

More than 20 witnesses took the stand and told of stuffed ballots bearing the names of dead men, misconduct on the part of election officials and threats against Heflin supporters by their employers. More than 200 witnesses remain to be heard.

Most of the witnesses examined were from Walker and Shelby Counties, and their testimony dealt largely with the handling of absentee ballots. One witness, T. M. Reinhart, a Republican, testified the name of a relative, dead four years, was on one of the 29 absentee ballots cast at a Shelby County polling place, where he acted as clerk.

Says Protest Was Ignored.

This ballot and others bearing names of persons he knew had been out of the county for years were protested, Reinhart said, but the chairman of the county Democratic committee ruled they should be counted.

A Walker County miner, Gort Jones, testified the superintendent of the company for which he worked told him before the election that "there is no room in any of these mine cars for a 'Cotton Tom' man."

Jones said the warning was given when the men were being loaded into cars to enter the mine for the day's work. He said the official made it clear he had no objection to a Democrat or a Republican, but "had no room for a man who would quit his party."

H. S. Latham, another Walker County resident, said he did not pay his poll tax before the election and that Sheriff A. N. Darrentine gave him a poll tax receipt from which a name had been erased, and his own inserted with a request that he cast his vote.

Turned Over Evidence.

Latham said he did not vote and later turned the receipt over to P. L. Arrhus, investigator for a Senate subcommittee investigating the election.

The hearings are being conducted by A. W. Brazleton, Birmingham Court reporter, who replaced Harrison W. Smith, Washington attorney, sent here by the Senate election subcommittee to act as its commissioner.

Smith withdrew when Bankhead and his colleague, Senator Hugo L. Black, protested his presiding at the hearings on the ground he had shown bias in supervising a recount of the votes cast in the election.

Senator Bankhead and Heflin attended today's session and conferred frequently with their attorneys during examination of witnesses.

State Senator Ignores Subpena in Graft Quiz

New York, Jan. 4 (A.P.).—State Senator John A. Hastings, Brooklyn Democrat, refused today to obey a subpena ordering him to appear before the Hofstadter legislative committee for private questioning, and Samuel Seabury, committee counsel, immediately announced he would ask the committee Thursday to certify the senator to the Supreme Court for contempt.

Instead of answering the subpena, which called for his appearance this afternoon, the senator sent a telegram charging the committee was violating "the spirit and intent of the laws of the State of New York, particularly in view of the fact I have been within your jurisdiction during the entire life of your committee."

DEMOCRATS AGREE ON TARIFF; HOUSE MAY PASS MEASURE

the House. Under these there would be no limitation of debate. Each member recognized by the presiding officer would be entitled to an hour, though the House might cut short debate under unanimous agreement to give so many hours under control of Mr. Collier and Representative Willis C. Hawley (Republican), of Oregon, ranking minority member of the ways and means committee, or by voting to shut off debate at any time it saw fit.

Decision of the Democrats not to limit debate on their tariff bill was prompted by mixed desires. They wanted to give their own anti-Republican tariff members ample opportunity to say their pieces before the House for the benefit of the country, and, too, they decided to fling a little challenge to the Republicans to come forward and defend the tariff, as they have in the past, as the bulwark of American prosperity, a challenge which was particularly taken up by Representative Bertrand H. Snell (Republican), of New York, Republican leader in the House, as soon as the Democratic measure had been presented.

Snell Attacks Bill.

"I would say, offhand," Mr. Snell said, "that the measure is a perfect Democratic document. It has no beginning, goes in no specific direction and no one knows where the ending will be. If ever a document presented to Congress showed the incapacity of a political party to guide the tariff policies of the country, I think this is it. It makes provision for a consumer's counsel. It ought to provide for a lawyer to tell the Democrats in the country what the bill means. Not only does it destroy the existing flexible tariff law provisions, but it provides for a continual tariff discussion on the floor of the House, and, if that happens, the present discussion of international debts will be merely a side show."

An international economic council to lower tariffs is provided for in the Democratic measure, which does not interfere with existing rates nor make any other effort to disturb the present tariff rates except on future congressional approval.

The President would be requested and authorized to negotiate reciprocal trade agreements with foreign governments in line with the general idea of reciprocal tariff arrangements to mutual advantage.

American representatives on the international tariff council would be prohibited from discussing or considering cancellation or reduction of intergovernmental debts in the course of their duties incident to the many international conferences which would ensue from the measure if it became a law, and the other nations cooperated, as undoubtedly they would, at least to the extent of conferring.

Dissatisfaction of the Democrats with the fuctioning of the existing flexible provisions of the tariff law was expressed in provisions of the new bill, which would direct the United States Tariff Commission to report its findings to Congress rather than to the President, and to provide for a "consumer's counsel" who should represent the consumers in proceedings before the tariff commission. The commission or the counsel would have the right to initiate proceedings for any change in the tariff schedules, as would also representatives of any industry which felt it was suffering unduly through unfair foreign competition.

A statement, prepared by Senator Robinson (Democrat), of Arkansas, Democratic leader of the Senate, said that the joint policy committee did "not undertake at this time a further complete definition of policy respecting tariffs. The committee decided that it is sound public policy to proceed as speedily as practicable to balance the budget, but for the present announces no detailed plans as to rates."

Hearings Set Today.

Representative Collier announced that hearings would be held this afternoon by his committee on the tariff bill, but these are not expected to be protracted and the measure is expected to be presented to the House the following day.

The next day, Thursday, hearings are to be begun before the ways and means committee of tax revision, with Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon and Undersecretary Ogden L. Mills the first witnesses to be heard. The hearings are expected to last several days, with Chairman Collier giving opportunity to representatives of various interests affected by the proposed administration of tax revision to appear before the committee.

Despite opposition to sales taxes, proposed by the administration, it seemed likely yesterday that various taxes in this form would be forced into the Democratic tax program.

It is planned by Democratic leaders to draft and pass a tax revision measure and send it to the Senate by the end of the month.

BECK THREATENS TO OPPOSE DAVIS IN RACE FOR SENATE

despite the Democratic "trend," still remains one of those G. O. P. strongholds where the Republican nomination is equivalent to election.

The Mellon organization in Pittsburgh is not likely to give Senator Davis any aid or comfort in the present controversy. The leaders of that organization, Secretary of the Treasury Andrew Mellon, and his nephew, W. L. Mellon, are concerned only about Senator David A. Reed, who comes up for reelection two years hence.

The Mellons, who opposed Senator Davis in the last primary, do not like the idea of having both Pennsylvania Senators come from the western part of the State. Rather, they are afraid the voters do not like it.

Reed is from Pittsburgh, and Davis is from Sharon, a suburb of Pittsburgh. Lately, however, Davis has purchased a farm in Chester County, not far from Philadelphia.

Davis Busy on Jobless Aid.

While Capitol Hill was saying yesterday that the Vare organization had put him "on the spot," Senator Davis issued a statement in which he said that he was too busy studying ways and means to help the 900 000 jobless people in Pennsylvania to concern himself about the primary in April.

After all, he said, any person with the necessary qualifications is entitled to enter a primary election.

Representative Beck, in issuing his statement yesterday, said that he supposed that the boom for him was largely due to the fact that he favored repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

"The last election," he said, "fairly indicated that a large majority of the Republican voters of Pennsylvania favor such repeal, and it is natural that they should wish to have a representative in the Senate, who uncompromisingly represents their views."

Mr. Beck said that he thought that Mr. Vare, provided he is "able and willing to be a candidate," should be sent to the Senate next year. When a majority of the Senate voted to exclude Vare on the ground that he had spent too much in his campaign, Beck said, it not only did him a gross injustice, but affronted the dignity and sovereign power of the State of Pennsylvania, which, under the Constitution, has the right to choose its own representatives in Congress.

Mr. Beck pointed out that Vare's physical condition was such November a year ago that he could not appeal to the voters for vindication. Thus it was, he said, that Davis came to the Senate.

Now, he said, assuming that Vare is able to run again, it would be a "gracious act" if Senator Davis should make way for him by declining to run again.

Declares Repeal Only Solution.

In a recent interview, Mr. Vare indicated that he would not be a candidate. That, no doubt, was why Representative Beck yesterday stressed Senator Davis' dry stand.

Referring to reports that Davis may come out for beer and wine, Beck said that, while such a temporary modification of the Volstead law might be voted in deference to the demands of labor and because of the revenue it would put in the Federal Treasury, the only way to get at the fundamentals of the problem was to repeal the eighteenth amendment.

"If Senator Davis is unwilling to favor such a repeal," Beck said, "then he must face the possibility that some Republican who does favor repeal may be a candidate against him.

"I have no desire to be selected as such candidate. I believe that I can serve the people of Pennsylvania to equal advantage in the House of Representatives. Nor would I consent to be a candidate unless the demand that I do so became such that I could not, as a matter of party loyalty, refuse to do so."

3 POLICEMEN GIVEN ONE YEAR IN BEATING

guilty of a "premeditated, systematic, methodical torture" of Harker, who at the time was being held for investigation at the First Precinct Station.

"You might have taken that confession you extorted from him, and might have come into this very court with it to obtain a conviction. Maybe you have done so in the past. I certainly hope not. You have not been true to your position and you have caused the public generally to lose confidence, to a certain extent, in the police," Justice Proctor said.

"When you come out I want you both to get a grip on yourself and buckle down to something worthwhile. You are both young and intelligent and you can have my sincerest hope that you can live this down and make something of yourselves."

Mostyn and Laflin were tried with William Burroughs and William Grooms, the latter two of whom were found not guilty. The charge against them was brought about through an expose of conditions in the Police Department that followed the original story of the Harker beating in The Post. As a result of that investigation, eighteen policemen were indicted for varying degrees of assault.

Justice Proctor, in sentencing Barrett, said he was at a loss to explain Barrett's actions in first illegally entering Baber's apartment, and then brutally attacking him when he entered his apartment with a magazine under his arm. He termed the attack "vicious" and said he could find no excuse whatever in Barrett's case because he was in the apartment with three other officers, all armed, while Baber was unarmed.

Barrett was investigating the Jaynes murder case when he received information that caused him, he said, to go to Baber's home. Baber was not in at the time, and the officers unlatched a window and entered.

Baber testified that as he opened the door of his apartment, he was struck in the mouth, and was then badly beaten by Barrett. Baber said the other officers vainly attempted to stop Barrett.

CREDIT GROUP CALLS FOR DEBENTURE PAY

Federal Corporation Asks Banks to Send 10 Per Cent of Shares.

New York, Jan. 4 (A.P.).—The National Credit Corporation has called upon banks throughout the country to pay for the first 10 per cent of their subscriptions to the corporation's $500,000,000 of debentures, it was learned today.

Payment has been requested for Thursday of this week and will provide, roughly, $50,000,000. The corporation, formed last October at the instance of President Hoover to make loans to banks on the basis of assets not eligible as collateral for Federal Reserve loans, has been steadily making loans in recent weeks, but has been borrowing from large banks in various localities for this purpose.

Payment for the first 10 per cent of the debentures will permit the credit corporation to pay off some or all of its borrowings and provide new funds with which to make loans. The banks making payment will receive one-year gold debentures, which may be extended for three years.

Information as to the amount of the corporation's loans has not been made public, but the loans are understood to be mostly in small amounts, largely to small banks.

Martial Law in Texas Oil Field Is Defended

Houston, Tex., Jan. 4 (A.P.).—The rule of martial law in the East Texas oil field, under attack in Federal Court here, was defended this afternoon by Gov. Ross Sterling's counsel as a necesary measure to combat incipient riot and actual disregard of civil law in the field.

The plaintiffs, E. Constantin and J. D. Wrather, having rested after offering depositions designed to show the governor was actuated by a desire to help the economic condition of the oil industry rather than prevent breach of the peace. The governor's lawyer read his answer to the suit.

When Washington Was Younger—No. 155

HERE is a picture of old Long Bridge, the first railroad bridge to span the Potomac. Bridges to facilitate trade were among the early important projects of pioneer Washingtonians. Maj. L'Enfant, who planned the city, realized that on account of its geographical location the city's development depended largely upon its accessibility.

The first bridge was built just below Little Falls, but decayed a few years later. Several structures were built, to be washed away by floods, until finally the present Chain Bridge was erected, which still spans the river at this point.

However, with the rapid development of the railroad as a means of transportation, it was necessary to build a structure which would handle this traffic, so Long Bridge came into existence. However, many changes have occurred since then. The puffing of sturdy locomotives is rivalled by the whirr of wings as giant transport ships take off from Hoover Field, while the white arches of the Francis Scott Key Memorial Bridge may be seen up the river.

GANDHI'S CHALLENGE ACCEPTED IN LONDON

British Government Will Act Swiftly; Mrs. Ghose Plans U. S. Drive.

London, Jan. 4 (A.P.).—The challenge of Mahatma Gandhi and the All-India National Congress to British authority in India was fully accepted today by the home government.

On the highest authority it was said that Great Britain, operating through the administration in India, will use every bit of its statutory power to combat the civil disobedience campaign.

The attitude of the home government was described thus: The masses of India's ignorant peasantry are being misled, and full approval will be given to the use of all legal powers to stamp out disaffection and sedition.

Indian Agitators Blamed.

A government spokesman explained that, in the London view, irresponsible Indian agitators are making tools of their own people.

The civil disobedience campaign was described as a challenge to the fundamentals of law and order, and on that basis it will be dealt with. Mr. Gandhi's purpose was declared to be to bring the government in India to a standstill "on the assumption by the Congress party that an ignorant peasantry can be taught to defy the law without departing from the ideal of nonviolence."

A detachment of 100 men from the Second Battalion Rifle Brigade left Devonport for Southampton, en route to India, and another small group will leave January 23, but authorities explained it was usual at this time of year to send out a few men.

Will Enlist U. S. Women.

New York, Jan. 4 (A.P.).—Plans to enlist a battalion of American women to accompany her to India to aid in the fight for Indian independence were announced today by Mrs. Sailendra Nath Ghose, wife of the president of the Indian National Congress.

"I know that there are thousands of Gandhi's friends and sympathizers here who would welcome an opportunity to share the responsibilities thrown on us by Britain's challenge to humanity," she said. "I shall go on a recruiting campaign now all over this country to gather together American women who will go to India as fast as arrangements can be perfected."

Gandhi Sees Jail Stretch As Little Lark on Taxpayer

By JOHN J. DALY

THE Mahatma Gandhi, getting a jail sentence for advocating the civil disobedience campaign in India, says: "It will be a marvelous opportunity for quiet reflection, meditation, spinning and reading."

As an old offender and frequenter of the jailhouses, the mahatma speaks from experience; but it should be remembered, for fear of a run on the jails, that the mahatma refers specifically to the accommodations in his own, his native land.

Nowadays, in America, a jailhouse is the last place in the world to which a man wants to go for quiet reflection, or even meditation. Spinning, of course, was never one of the popular sports, in or out of jail. As for reading, well, since the installation of radios in the cells, literature in the jailhouses has suffered, to say the least.

* * * *

A MAN of the mahatma's bent might easily find surcease from sorrow in any one of the jails in his native land, but the American jails, now that so many prominent persons are taking refuge in them, have become more or less social diversions.

Palm Beach, in its palmy days, never saw such a social register as any one of a number of American jails can present at the present writing. It has, in the French term, because "au fait" to go to jail. It is, in other words, the thing to do.

Consequently, the jails of America offer little, if any, time for those amenities of the mental life—reflection, meditation or spiritual retreats.

As for spinning, the nearest approach to that is crap-shooting, the rolling of the bones, the dancing of the galloping dominoes—and this sport really is confined to the humbler classes, since the big shots usually go in for other forms of gambling.

AS Gandhi packed his collection of loin cloths and spinning wheels, preparatory to his jailhouse journey, he said, in his quiet, simple way: "It will be a satisfaction to know that I am getting free board from the state."

Whatever else the mahatma said, here is the danger of his philosophy. If ever this view of life becomes popular—that it is a source of satisfaction to receive free board and lodging from the hands of the state, without work, without any effort whatsoever—all those who are anxious to shirk their responsibilities will be making a grand trek toward the jailhouse. The consequences are too awful to contemplate.

* * * *

PITY the poor nations, already suffering from budget deficiencies, which must support the hordes willing to enter monastic life merely to get away from the whirligig of the world—to get free board and bedding in return for a life of meditation, a life of ease; in other words, the Life of Reilly, Capone, & Co.

Since the chain-gang went out of style, the jailhouse has been popular enough as it is, with an occasional ball once in a while to take away the monotony of life behind the stone walls.

Now, all that remains is to have Gandhi and his disciples preach the doctrine of "On to Jail," to meditate, to rusticate, and the result will be increased taxes for all those who, unable to participate in this luxury, must remain outside to toil, though they do not spin.

2 DIE, MANY HURT IN INDIA FIGHTING

first day in prison spinning and catching up on his sleep. Numerous telegrams bidding him to be of good cheer greatly heartened him.

Mr. Gandhi was pleased because the authorities lodged him in the same section of the prison he occupied last year, when he was confined for his anti-British activities, and because they assigned as his warden the same British former soldier who served him before. He also was gratified that Mr. Patel was in the same prison and was not deported.

Unlike most jail inmates, the mahatma feels no terrors over prison life. He loves isolation and solitude, which, he has frequently said, give him a chance to examine his soul and to commune with God.

Recites Prayers Alone.

For the first time in nearly a year the mahatma recited his evening prayers alone tonight. He sat cross-legged on the bare earth, his withered figure shrouded in white, his head bowed.

Perhaps the most serious repercussion from the renewal of the conflict between the little nationalist leader and the government was a grave split in the powerful all-India Moslem congress at New Delhi, culminating in the resignation of Nawab Ismail Khan, president, and Maswood Ahmed, secretary.

Declaring the situation of the country to be most critical, the Moslems adopted a resolution asserting that the "frontier ordinances and arrests are having no other effect than to banish the idea of the general mass of the Moslem people cooperating with the government."

Special significance was attached to this resolution because thus far the government has commanded the support of the vast majority of the Moslems. The disaffected members of the Moslem community now may go over to the Gandhi side in reprisal for the severe restrictive ordinances, it was said.

Addressing a vast open air meeting tonight, Patel declared Prime Minister MacDonald deliberately misrepresented the truth when he told the House of Commons that India did not desire full self-government.

PRESIDENT WILL OPPOSE CUTS IN FEDERAL SALARIES

proposed a sliding scale of 10 to 25 per cent cuts on salaries ranging from $1,200 to more than $3,500, revised his scale to apply to incomes ranging from $1,800 to over $5,000.

Representative McGugin in a radio address declared the question of taxes is so tied up with that of expenditures that "if Congress has the courage to act justly as between public employes and taxing the public, there will be a reduction in Federal salaries, from the President down."

The President's stand, as represented by authoritative administration sources, is that any reduction in current wages will set industry everywhere a bad example.

He was said to feel that maintenance of wages is necessary to maintenance of consuming power, and that salaries must be held up if the Government would retain responsible officials.

The Somers proposal, in the form of a joint resolution, suggested a plan to maintain wages against further decline "by stabilizing and in many cases increasing the rate of wage per hour."

The plan would apply to all workers, Federal and private, but would be left largely up to the employers themselves. All branches of the Government would be asked to cooperate.

Representative Somers said he hoped to start in motion forces that would make adoption of the program "a national duty as great as might be demanded in the event of a war."

LaGuardia's Relief Plan.

The LaGuardia relief program, in addition to its espousal of the five-day week, would authorize $50,000,000 to provide Army-Navy rations for unemployed miners. It would provide $20,000,000 to purchase 1,000,000 suits of men's clothing, 1,000,000 suits for women and children, and 2,000,000 pairs of shoes. He proposed establishment of five public health centers and creation of a guaranty fund to protect depositors against bank failures.

Three bills were offered yesterday by Senator Borah in his first move to reduce Federal salaries in the higher brackets.

The first would reduce pay of Senate and House members from $10,000 to $8,000, and the salaries of the Vice President, Speaker and Cabinet members from $15,000 to $12,000, a 20 per cent cut.

The second would place salaries of Farm Board members at $9,600 and limit all salaries paid under the agriculture marketing act to $15,000.

Congress Mileage Rate Cut.

The third would repeal the present provision allowing 20 cents a mile to members of Congress going to and coming from congressional sessions.

Mr. McGugin, in introducing his bill, carried out a threat made on the floor of the House before the holidays. As an "emergency measure," it would be effective for only two years, he provided.

The measure would not apply to per diem workers, and under no circumstances would workers receive less than they were getting in January, 1918, Mr. McGugin provided. He estimated the scale he proposed would cut $300,000,000 a year from the deficit.

The amended Garber bill put forward yesterday provided for a 10 per cent cut in salaries between $1,800 and $2,500, 15 per cent between $2,500 and $3,500, 20 per cent between $3,500 and 5,000 and 25 per cent for over $5,000.

Although the wage cut proposals, now numbering five in all, must inevitably be considered by the House ways and means committee in shaping its tax program, they will be heard for the first time Thursday by the House committee on expenditures in the executive departments.

Five-Day Week Supported.

Besides the Borah, McGugin and Garber proposals, salary reduction bills have been introduced in the House by Representative Robert F. Rich (Republican), Pennsylvania, and Representative Ashton C. Shallenberger (Democrat), Nebraska.

Advocates of the five-day week yesterday found a new ally in Representative William I. Sirovich (Democrat), New York, who espoused their cause on the floor of the House.

Representative McGugin, in his radio address last night, sponsored jointly by the American Taxpayers League and the National Broadcasting Co., said:

"There is no greater fallacy than the suggestion that the maintaining of public salaries will keep up the wage scale in private industry. The exact contrary is true. Maintaining public salaries at their present level means maintaining taxes at their present level."

Students to Ask Hoover For Geneva Arms Envoy

(United Press.)

A delegation of 30 college students headed by Miss Caroline Thompson, of Bryn Mawr, came to Washington last night to urge President Hoover to name a student in the American delegation to the Geneva arms conference next month.

They will see Mr. Hoover today and present him with the results of a survey indicating 92 per cent of students favor limiting armaments without waiting for other countries. Miss Thompson is the daughter of Huston Thompson, chairman of the Federal Trade Commission under President Coolidge.

FINNISH MINISTER DENIES DRY THEORY

Astrom Rejects Idea Rum Exporting Nations Dictated Law Change.

(Associated Press).

Finland's minister to the United States, L. Astrom, said yesterday there was no justification for suggestions that his country acted under outside pressure when it recently voted to repeal prohibition.

The minister referred to a statement published in the Clipsnelt of the Methodist Board of Temperance, prohibition and public morals, that the "European liquor trades" had sought to have the diplomatic thumbscrews" turned on Finland. In a statement the minister continued:

"Although the pronouncement of the board does not contain a direct statemtnt to the effect that the Finnish government or the Finnish people have acted under diplomatic presure from governments of liquor exporting countries, such an idea is conveyed to the casual reader. It appears, therefore, pertinent for me to assume, on the basis of information received from my governmnt, that no pressure from foreign governments has been influencing the actions of the Finnish government, nor has it become known that even a reference to the wishes of other countries has been made during the campaign breaching the referendum.

Would End Alcohol Abuse.

"Before the prohibition law went into effect, the Finnish nation had for nearly half a century systematically endeavored to amend conditions caused by the sale and consumption of alcoholic beverages. In the beginning of this century the per capita consumption of alcoholic beverages in Finland was less than in any other country from which statistics were available.

"The budget of Finland for this year is balanced. There was thus no immediate reason for the people of Finland primarily to consider the question put up to referendum from an economic point of view. The Finnish people have by determined acts in the past very clearly demonstrated that they wish the abuse of alcohol diminished or discontinued. The overwhelming vote in favor of repeal of the prohibition law does not warrant the conclusion that a change in its general attitude has taken place.

Law Failed to Curb Rum.

"According to the committee that reported on the alcohol question, alcohol beverages have in fact been made more easily accessible to the public during the period of prohibition than they were in the preceding years. The majority of the Finnish people without doubt are just as sincere in their desire to have the alcohol question brought on a more satisfactory basis from the point of view of furthering temperance as is the government of Finland.

"Even if changed conditions and added experience make it appear desirable to introduce a system differing from the one in use before prohibition, the purpose of the regulations and conditions that will be imposed by law will be the same. To further temperance and diminish the abuse of intoxicants."

FINNISH PARLIAMENT IS CALLED ON LIQUOR

Cabinet Fears Drys May Try to Obstruct Legislation of Referendum.

Helsingfors, Finland, Jan. 4 (A.P.). President Pehr Evind Svinhufvud called a special session of Parliament tonight to meet on January 19 to act on the results of Finland's prohibition referendum in which an overwhelming sentiment for repeal of the dry laws was indicated.

The special session was called at the request of the cabinet, which said it feared the prohibitionists might attempt to obstruct legislation in the regular session beginning February 2.

A vote on the question of repealing the prohibition law might be delayed for many weeks in the regular session, the cabinet said it felt, and the question might even be tabled by a one-third vote until either Parliament was dissolved or a later session assembled.

Minister of Justice E. M. Kivimaki, who has the duty of drafting a new law for the cabinet and piloting it through Parliament, said the government had decided "that the nation's best course in the liquor issue would be one of strict regulation and taxation."

It was learned that the plan called for organization of a government-controlled corporation which alone would have the right to import and trade in alcoholic beverages.

The cabinet especially feared that the prohibitionists would try to dicker over the use to be made of revenue from the sale of alcoholic products, it was understood, and would hold up all legislation until that point was settled. In a special session, the government would be in a position to force a vote on each phase of its proposal and the members could not end the session without voting on the measures before them.

With only 24 distant pracincts missing out of 3,229, the count of ballots in the referendum showed that more than 70 per cent were cast for repeal of the dry law. Of the 772,901 votes cast, 544,967 were for repeal, 217,019 or 28.08 per cent were for retention of prohibition, and 10,915 or 1.38 per cent for light wines and beer.

Of the 346,715 women who voted 66 per cent were opposed to prohibition and said he understood that the Secretary of the Treasury had contributed $170,000 or less to voluntary relief funds. He himself, he said, gave a quarter of his income.

John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, joined in the committee hearings for direct Federal assistance, urging a special agency to take care of destitute miners and their families because they are not within reach of local assistance in many instances.

Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, in the debate on the wheat resolution, insisted that this proposal amounts to a "dole" just as much as do Federal appropriations for unemployment relief which the President describes with that word.

Senator Borah (Republican), Idaho, opposed the wheat appropriation, contending the grain should be bought from the farmers rather than be given out of the surplus held by the Farm Board.

The bill, which now goes to the House, would turn the wheat over to the American Red Cross or other charitable organizations designated by the President for distribution. The cost of the wheat would be charged against the revolving fund of the Farm Board.

The discussion of "the dole" brought a declaration by Senator Wheeler that "I am against a dole, but the dole is credited with saving England from a revolution, and if present conditions and affairs continue in this country it will be necessary for the United States to appropriate money out of the Treasury to save America from a revolution."

Hearings by the Senate manufactures committee will be resumed today on the bills of Senators La Follette (Republican), Wisconsin, and Costigan (Democrat), to appropriate funds for relief.

C. B. Denman, of the Farm Board, asked the House agriculture committee yesterday for reimbursement for any Government-owned wheat used for the unemployed. He said:

"I think that if there is need to save any one anywhere from being hungry we should take anything anywhere and give it to them. But if it is taken out of our stabilization holdings I would recommend that it be repaid either in money or wheat."

Trade With Russia Urged By Rainey to Cure Slump

(Associated Press.)

Open trade with Russia and an emergency tax program taking money from big incomes to "the point of diminishing returns" were advocated last night by one of the leading Democrats in Congress.

The House floor leader of that party—Representative Rainey, of Illinois—also expressed other views to which he said Democrats adhere. He was talking over the radio. Of taxes, Rainey said:

"It is a cardinal principle of the Democratic party that income taxes should be proportioned to capacity to pay. * * * The Republicans three times since the great war, have lowered the taxes on great incomes.

"We must now raise a billion dollars by new taxes on top of the taxes which we already impose. Taxes on the big incomes will be increased to the point of diminishing returns. Forty per cent on incomes in excess of $100,000 a year seems to be about the maximum that we can reach at this time."

Rainey said, too, that a limited sales tax likely would have to be enacted. Of Russia, he said:

"If we have Communist demonstrations this winter in our large cities, the main cause will be the closed factories. The way to fight communism in this country is to reopen the factories. The only way to do it is to get markets abroad; and Russia is the biggest and best one."

Redistricting Veto In Missouri Upheld

State Supreme Court Holds Representatives' Quota Remains Unchanged.

Jefferson City, Mo., Jan. 4 (A.P.).—Gov. H. S. Caufield's veto of the congressional redistricting act passed by the last Missouri Legislature was upheld today by the State Supreme Court. The decision means Missouri's 13 representatives will be elected at large next year, unless a special session of the Legislature is called and redistricts the State, which is regarded as unlikely.

The opinion cited decisions by the supreme courts of three other States, Minnesota, South Dakota and New York.

In the Minnesota case, the supreme court of that State held an act of the Legislature, although vetoed by the governor, was effective to redistrict the State into congressional districts. The decision, today, however, said the Minnesota decision was not applicable to Missouri, because of the difference of the constitutions of the two States.

The South Dakota and New York decisions held the approval of the governor was necessary. None of the cases has yet reached the United States Supreme Court.

Hamburg Ship Strike Arrests Made.

Argentina Is Seen Facing Orderliness

Quick Ending of Rebellion Said to Reflect Public Wish for Peace.

Buenos Aires, Argentina, Jan. 4 (A. P.).—President Uriburu's provisional government tonight appeared to have strengthened the probabilities of an orderly turnover to President-elect Augustin Justo by its decisive subjugation of yesterday's revolt in Entre Rios Province.

Popular concern in Buenos Aires at news of the outbreak in the northern province was construed by acting officials as a demonstration that the Argentine public does not want revolution and desires a peaceful return to constitutional government.

Yesterday's flurry was said to have passed so quickly it did not attain menacing proportions, although it caused the authorities here the most anxious time since the Corrientes revolt last July.

Montevideo, Uruguay, Jan. 4 (A.P.). Reports that a rebellious movement in Argentina had been organized and armed in Uruguay were officially denied here today.

KIN WANT SLAYERS TO COMMIT SUICIDE

Mother Voices That Wish as Posses Scour Southwest for Killers of 6.

Springfield, Mo., Jan. (A.P.).—Aware an encounter possibly will mean a fight to death, hundreds of officers tonight pressed throughout the Southwest a search for the killers of a sheriff and five of his posse to effect escape from the Young farmhouse near here Saturday.

"You will never take them alive," was the warning to police from Mrs. Albert Conley, sister of Harry, Paul and Jennings Young, who with an unnamed relative are sought from Missouri to the Mexican border as the ruthless slayers.

A 62-year-old mother's wish that her sons would end their own lives followed the desperadoes in the flight which authorities believe took them through Oklahoma and into Texas.

"I hope they will kill themselves. I'd rather they would do that than have the law kill them," said the mother, Mrs. W. H. Young, at whose farmhouse in the Ozark Hills the killings took place. Mrs. Young and eight others are under arrest while the hunt is on for the slayers.

Formerly Lived in Houston.

The brothers had been living at Houston before their return to the home of their mother a few days ago. Police were so informed by Mrs. Conley who recently lived at Houston, too, where her husband was a printer.

Police expressed belief the slayers escaped in pairs aided by Jess Moore, known as a petty law violator. Moore was arrested late today. He said he had been on a trip "down in the country." He denied acquaintance with the Youngs.

Officers said they had a witness who had seen two of the Youngs ride to Springfield with Moore after the slaying of the officers. Presumably they escaped in the stolen car as the other two who engaged in the gunfight were hidden in the Moore home.

Two men fled from the Moore home yesterday as a posse approached. They entered Moore's car which he drove parallel to their line of flight. Scott Curtis, leading the posse, said a boy who wintessed the incident said the two were "Young brothers."

$2,000 Reward Offered.

Search for the Youngs, directed to southern Texas by the finding of a wrecked automobile Sunday near Streetman, was intensified tonight by the announcement of Detective Lieut. Claude Beverly that he had learned Harry had been seen at Houston this afternoon.

Young, the Houston police officer said, had attempted to locate his bride of three weeks. Texas Rangers and border patrolmen joined city officers in the search for the brothers, for whom total rewards of more than $2,000 have been offered by State, county and city.

Earlier in the day Houston officers made a futile search of a cottage here, where Young's wife was believed to be living, after it was discovered the wrecked car near Streetman had been stolen in Springfield shortly after the siege of the farmhouse.

Some of the killers are believed by M. L. Woolsey, a policeman, to have passed through Quapaw, Okla., late Saturday night. He said that G. B. Kinder, proprietor of a drug store there, had identified Harry Young through a photograph as a customer who inquired the distance to Tulsa and asked about the killing here.

Family Relief Fund Started.

Authorities here expressed doubt that Charles Floyd, notorious Oklahoma killer, was one of the outlaw garrison of the Young farmhouse. The proprietor of a Kansas City tire shop identified the Oklahoma gunman as the driver of a car who came to his establishment Sunday. Another man, apparently wounded, sat in the car.

More than $2,000 today had been pledged toward a fund for assistance of the widows and orphans of the six slain officers. Three of the victims were buried today.

Despite belief of officers the fugitives were far from Springfield, a small posse still searched the Ozark Hills in a light snowstorm. Among them was G. C. Pike, former chief of police, recently released from Federal prison after serving a liquor conspiracy sentence, who believes the men have sought refuge in some isolated Ozark cabin.

Her health was excellent when she arrived here after being released yestrday at Futsing after nine days negotiations between the bandits and the provincial authorities.

Miss Halverstadt was captured the day before Christmas, while she was on the way here from Futsing, 50 miles to the south. She was taken to the mountain stronghold of the notorious bandit chief W i Chen, where she was held a captive together with a number of Chinese male prisoners.

U. S. ASKS ENVOY BEATING DATA BEFORE TAKING ACTION

Hines as the American representative. Mr. Hines is unable to accept and has so notified the league council through the Department of State. It had been the intention of Chairman Aristide Briand, of the council, to nominate another American in the place of Mr. Hines, but it was regarded as highly dubious in the light of what had happened Sunday in Mukden that the United States would permit one of its nationals to serve.

Mukden, Manchuria, Jan. 4 (A.P.). The deepest apologies of the Japanese government were conveyed to the American consul general today for the attack by three Japanese soldiers last night on Consul Culver B. Chamberlain.

At the same time Lieut. Col. Matsui, member of the staff of Gen. Shigeru Honjo, Japan's Manchurian commander, expressed the opinion that Mr. Chamberlain was attacked because he had treated Japanese soldiers "as if they were Chinese."

At a preliminary hearing on the incident conducted by Japanese authorities it was brought out that the three men who set upon Mr. Chamberlain as he stepped out of an automobile bearing the United States flag and coat of arms, blamed the American's "arrogant, provocative attitude" for the trouble.

Presented to Myers.

The Japanese government's apologies were presented to Myrl S. Myers, American Consul General, by Kazuhito Morishima, temporarily in charge of the Japanese consulate.

M. Morishima informed Mr. Myers that Lieut. Col. Hyakutake, chief of the Japanese military mission at Harbin, had expressed the apologies of the army to Mr. Chamberlain at the American consulate there.

After being treated for his wounds —which included two deep gashes in his face—Mr. Chamberlain continued on his way from Mukden to Harbin. He is taking up his post there after a vacation in America. His home is in Kansas City.

Two privates in the Army and a Japanese interpreter, temporarily engaged because of his knowledge of Chinese, were identified as the three attackers, M. Morishima said. He informed the consul general that the interpreter had been dismissed and the two privates arrested pending decision whether they should be court-martialled. The Japanese authorities, he explained, considered the privates less culpable than the interpreter.

Matsui's Version.

"The immediate cause of this unfortunate incident seems to have been that Mr. Chamberlain treated the Japanese soldiers as if they were Chinese," Lieut. Col. Matsui said. The Japanese soldier is proud. American and Japanese manners are different and these soldiers considered Mr. Chamberlain's manner insulting."

Consular colleagues and friends of Mr. Chamberlain described him as an unusually quiet and mild-mannered man.

Whether the American authorities would be satisfied with the apology remained unestablished. No official would comment. A report covering the developments was sent to Washington.

Mr. Chamberlain's automobile was stopped on the border of the Japanese railway town by the three soldiers.

According to the Japanese version, he apparently misunderstood what was happening and advanced toward the interpreter, saying most provokingly in Chinese, "Who are you? Come with me."

Grasped Interpreter's Arm.

He grasped the interpreter's arm and attempted to pull him inside the automobile, and the soldiers interfered, according to this version, and when Mr. Chamberlain entered the car the three men thought he was trying to draw a pistol, so one of the soldiers opened the door on the opposite side and grasped the American's right hand.

At this juncture the interpreter struck Mr. Chamberlain four or five times in the face, causing, the Japanese said, a slight abrasion on the nose and a black eye.

The soldiers' account differed in most of the important points from that given by Mr. Chamberlain immediately after the attack. John Hubner 2d, of Baltimore, Md., a vice consul, said Mr. Chamberlain had no pistol and there was none inside the automobile.

Lieut. Col. Matsui said the three men admitted the interpreter struck the American first. He indicated that the interpreter was an ignorant, rough and undisciplined fellow.

State of Unrest Cited.

"There is no martial law in Mukden because there is no state of war," the lieutenant colonel said, "but there is unrest and the danger of disturbances, so the military must adopt somewhat stringent measures approaching those employed in times of war."

Tientsin, Jan. 4 (A.P.).—The major theater of the Manchurian conflict shifted today to Shanhaikwan and Tientsin, where Chinese and Japanese garrisons glared at each other, but refrained from overt acts.

A considerable Japanese force, both army and navy, has been moved into the territory between Shanhaikwan and Tientsin. It was estimated the Japanese have more than 2,000 troops here as well as an artillery section and 600 infantrymen at Shanhaikwan.

Destroyers Ordered Out.

Tokyo Jan. 4 (A.P.).—Two destroyers the Sumire Ashi and the Hishi, were ordered to Foochow, China, today after reports had been received here that a Japanese school teacher and his wife had been killed by a mob of Chinese.

In reply to a recent statement attributed to Dr. Wellington Koo, former Chinese foreign minister, the government made public the full text of the Sino-Japanese agreement of 1905, together with minutes of the negotiations, in which it was said China promised to refrain from constructing railway lines parallel to Japanese railroads in Manchuria.

Dr. Koo was quoted as having asserted no such agreement ever was concluded. It was understood the text was revealed confidentially to Great Britain and the United States at the time of the agreement, but at China's request it never was published.

EPISCOPAL DIOCESE BEGINS AID FOR IDLE

Each Parish to Organize Committee to Obtain Food and Clothing.

An extensive program to aid District unemployed through cooperative action of the Episcopal Diocese of Washington, was launched last night by the Right Rev. James E. Freeman, Bishop of Washington, at a meeting of Washington clergy in Whitby Hall of National Cathedral.

Bishop Freeman declared it is time for the church to demonstrate the need for help among the unemployed, not only in Washington, but throughout the country. He urged that all Episcopal parishes in Washington formulate a program whereby the suffering and distress of needy persons may be relieved.

It is planned that each director of Episcopal parishes shall appoint a committee to aid in obtaining food, clothing and reading matter and to cooperate with the city's Episcopal missions in distributing them among the poor.

Bishop Freeman in his address declared:

"I consider the present emergency as serious, if not more serious, than the World War."

Other speakers included Canon Anson Phelps Stokes, and Col. E. G. Bliss, chairman of the work creation committee of the District unemployment committee.

Each speaker urged that all Episcopal organizations join in an effort to relieve the present situation.

Army Officer's Death On Coast Held Suicide

Gilroy, Calif., Jan. 4 (A.P.).—A coroner's jury returned a verdict today that First Lieut. William J. French, U. S. A., came to his death "due to a self-inflicted bullet wound while mentally deranged."

Mrs. Gertrude McEnroe, principal witness at the hearing, repeated her story of yesterday in which she said the Army officer struck her on the head while they were motoring to Los Angeles and that she escaped when the car left the highway. Mrs. McEnroe rode to Gilroy in a truck where she reported the incident to officers. The officers went to investigate and found French shot to death.

Hunter's Stray Bullet Blamed in Girl's Death

Bryan, Ohio, Jan. 4 (A.P.).—The bullet that killed Kathleen Carver, 12, near here yesterday, probably was fired by a hunter or some one at target practice, investigating officials said today.

With a wound in her side, the body of the child was found beside a farmhouse near her home, and officers at first believed she had been slain by a prowler. The bullet, found in Kathleen's clothing, was the type used in powerful rifles, and possibly came from an 80-acre woods a half mile away, officials said.

Pair's Vain Fight For Lives Bared

Bodies of Men Are Found in Isolated Cabin; Note Details Poison Battle.

Jordan Valley, Oreg., Jan. 4 (A.P.). The tragic story of two men in an isolated cabin who accidentally took poson and then vainly tried all remedies known to them to save themselves as they felt death approaching, was told today by officers who brought the bodies of Vernon High, 45, and Raymond Lee, 24, out of the snow-bound southwest Idaho ranch country. The bodies were discovered by Dewey Wicks, a cowboy.

A brief note, scribbled by one of the men before he collapsed, told the story. Thinking they needed medicine, both took a dose of what they thought was medicinal salts. Instead it was a crystalline poison used by High in his trapping. Desperately they swallowed mustard and other common remedies for poison, but to no avail.

Wicks found the bodies, one on the floor and one on a cot, where they had lain, officers believed, since about December 27.

GERARD DISCLOSES SMITH DRIVE WAGES

Democrats' Treasurer Submits Photos of Pay Rolls in Campaign.

(Associated Press.)

The 1928 expeditures of the Democratic national committee's New York headquarters were reported yesterday to refute charges the organization had violated the corrupt practices act.

James W. Gerard, treasurer of the national committee, yesterday filed with the House clerk 40 photostatic copies of the pay rolls showing 662 employes received a total of $353,505 during the campaign. The reports promised by Gerard Saturday covered August, September, October, November and December, 1928.

Representative Wood, of Indiana, chairman of the Republican national congressional committee, had charged the Democrats concealed some of their expenditures and thereby violated the corrupt practices act. The law requires that contributions and expenditures be reported to the House clerk quarterly.

Affidavit by Gerard.

United States Attorney Medalie, in New York, ordered an investigation of the charges. Assistant District Attorney Jacob J. Rosenblum, of New York, conducted a study into the Democratic expenditures to determine whether prosecution should be undertaken. He has returned to report to Medalie.

In an affidavit accompanying the voluminous reports received by the House clerk, Gerard said "the annexed photostatic copies are the copies of the pay rolls of the national Democratic committee in the year 1928 for the dates therein specified and the sums therein stated to be paid out were so paid out to the employes, whose names appear therein."

Highest Amount $2,500.

None of the sums listed was large. Some reached $2,500. There were no outstanding names listed. Gerard said in a statement that he did not know the motives of Representative Wood, but declared that the same accountants that prepared the 1928 reports for the Democratis submitted reports for the Republican national committee in 1924.

New York, Jan. 4 (A.P.).—United States Attorney George Z. Medalie said today he had "a large amount of material" to study before he could determine what action he might take with respect to the 1928 expenditures of the Democratic national committee.

He referred to the report submitted by Jacob Rosenblum, assistant United States attorney, who returned from Washington with the results of an examination of the committee's reports.

Hoover in Message Urges Quick Economic Action

The text of President Hoover's special message yesterday to Congress is as follows:

At the convening of the Congress on December 7, I laid proposals before it designed to check the further degeneration in prices and values, to fortify us against continuous shocks from world instability and to unshackle the forces of recovery.

The need is manifestly even more evident than at the date of my message a month ago.

I should be derelict in my duty if I did not at this time emphasize the paramount importance to the Nation of constructive action upon these questions at the earliest possible moment.

These recommendations have been largely developed in consultations with leading men of both parties, of agriculture, of labor, of banking and of industry.

Basis for Collaboration.

They furnish the basis for full collaboration to effect these purposes. They have no partisan character. We can and must replace the unjustifiable fear in the country by confidence.

The principal subjects requiring immediate action are:

1. The strengthening of the Federal Land Bank system to aid the farmer and to maintain at the highest level the credit of these institutions which furnish agriculture with much needed capital. This measure has passed the House of Representatives and is now before the Senate.

2. The creation of a reconstruction finance corporation to furnish during the period of the depression credits otherwise unobtainable under existing circumstances in order to give confidence to agriculture, industry and labor against further paralyzing influences.

By such prompt assurance we can reopen many credit channels and reestablish the normal working of our commercial organization and thus contribute greatly to reestablish the resumption of employment and stability in prices and values.

Home Loan Discount Banks.

3. The creation of a system of home loan discount banks in order to revive employment by new construction and to mitigate the difficulties of many of our citizens in securing renewals of mortgages on their homes and farms. It has the further purpose of permanent encouragement of home ownership.

To accomplish these purposes we must so liberate the resources of the country banks, the savings banks and the building and loan associations as to restore these institutions to normal functioning. Under the proposal before the Congress most of the capital of these discount banks would be subscribed by the institutions participating in their use and such residue as might be necessary for the Federal Government to supply temporarily would be repaid in time by such institutions as in the case of the Farm Loan Banks when they were first organized.

4. The discount facilities of our Federal Reserve Banks are restricted by law more than that of the central banks in other countries.

Liquidity of Banks Limited.

This restriction in times such as these limits the liquidity of the banks and tends to increase the forces of deflation, cripples the smaller businesses, stifles new enterprise and thus limits employment.

I recommend an enlargement of these discount privileges to take care of emergencies.

To meet the needs of our situation it will not be necessary to go even as far as the current practice of foreign institutions of similar character. Such a measure has the support of most of the governors of the Federal Reserve Banks.

5. The development of a plan to assure early distribution to depositors in closed banks is necessary to relieve distress among millions of small depositors and small businesses, and to release vast sums of money now frozen.

Would Help Railroads.

6. Revision of the laws relating to transportation in the direction recommended by the Interstate Commerce Commission would strengthen our principal transportation systems and restore confidence in the bonds of our railways.

These bonds are held largely by our insurance companies, our savings banks and benevolent trusts, and are therefore the property of nearly every family in the United States. The railways are the largest employers of labor and purchasers of goods.

7. Revision of banking laws in order to better safeguard depositors.

8. The country must have confidence that the credit and stability of the Federal Government will be maintained by drastic economy in expenditure; by adequate increase of taxes, and by restriction of issues of Federal securities.

The recent depreciation in prices of Government securities is a serious warning which reflects the fear of further large and unnecessary issues of such securities. Promptness in adopting an adequate budget relief to taxpayers, by resolute economy and restriction in security issues is essential to remove this uncertainty.

Battle on Many Fronts.

Combatting a depression is indeed like a great war in that it is not a battle upon a single front but upon many fronts. These measures are all a necessary addition to the efficient and courageous efforts of our citizens throughout the Nation. Our people through voluntary measures and through State and local action are providing for distress.

Through the organized action of employers they are securing distribution of employment and thus mitigating the hardships of the depression.

Through the mobilization of national credit associations they are aiding the country greatly. Our duty is so to supplement these steps as to make their efforts more fruitful.

The United States has the resources and resiliance to make a large measure of recovery independent of the rest of the world. Our internal economy is our primary concern and we must fortify our economic structure in order to meet any situation that may arise and by so doing lay the foundations for recovery.

Country Comes First.

This does not mean that we are insensible to the welfare of other nations or that our own self-interest is not involved in economic rehabilitation abroad which would restore the markets for our agricultural and other commodities. But it is our duty to devote ourselves to the problems of our own internal economy not only as the first necessity to domestic welfare, but as our best contribution to the stability of the world as a whole.

Action in these matters by the Congress will go far to reestablish confidence, to restore the functioning of our economic system and to rebuilding of prices and values and to quickening employment. Our justified hope and confidence for the future rests upon unity of our people and of the Government in prompt and courageous action.

MOVE GAINS TO END ARMY TRANSPORTS

House Committee Holds Protests of Marine Bodies, Scoring Competition.

The subcommittee of the House committee on appropriations in charge of appropriations for the War and Navy Departments has received strong resolutions from the Midwest Foreign Trade Association, the Mississippi Valley Association and the National Rivers and Harbors Congress, asking for abandonment of Army and Navy transports and the Panama Railroad steamship lines.

Except for the regular vessels of the Navy and the Coast Guard these will be the only ships commercially engaged on the Atlantic, Pacific, Mediterranean and Indian Ocean, remaining as the property of the United States Government, after the Shipping Board shall have completed the liquidation of the remnant of the fleet still owned by the Shipping Board.

It is on the ground these transports are used in direct competition with privately owned commercial shipping lines that the protests have taken the form of a direct appeal to Congress. Associations of ship owners, shippers, and similar bodies have joined in the protest.

It is pointed out that none of the great maritime nations operates transports in peace times. Such work is committed to the merchant marine of those countries, because it has been found that such a policy provides a much more efficient and extensive organizations, which may be made available for national use in case of war.

When it becomes necessary for the United States to move troops, the Army transports immediately are turned over to the Navy for operation. Present transport facilities are limited to the movement of not more than 5,000 men at one time. Officials of the Navy point out that if the peace-time business now in the hands of Federal-owned shipping is turned over to the American merchant marine, these commercial ships would be equipped promptly to compete for Army and Navy business and soon would be in position to move at least 50,000 men at one time.

The Government operates steamships of the Panama Railroad in competition with privately owned shipping. More than half the ships which traverse the canal are of American registry, capable of giving the canal more adequate service than is given by the few steamers operated by the railroad company.

The protests filed by the shipping interests assert that since Government-operated ships invariably take their cargoes from the ports of San Francisco and New York only, it follows that when the Government invites proposals for furnishing supplies destined for overseas the contractors in the immediate vicinity of those cities have advantages over dealers in the interior, especially those in the Mississippi Valley and on the Gulf. This discrimination is one of the causes of the vigorous protests against the continued operation of transports by the Army, Navy and Panama Railroad Co.

Garner Delays Hoover Message; Reads It First

(Associated Press.)

Speaker Garner exercised one of the prerogatives of his office yesterday and delayed the reading of President Hoover's message for several hours.

Representative Underhill (Republican), Massachusetts, wanted to know when it would be read.

"At an early date," the Speaker replied.

Representative Underhill protested it should be read at once. Mr. Garner advised him it was customary for the chair to investigate such messages first and that "whether it is laid before the House this morning or this afternoon makes little difference, just so it's read."

Former Railroad Clerk Heads N. Y. C. System

New York, Jan. 4 (U.P.).—Frederick Ely Williamson, once a $70-a-month clerk for the New York Central railroad, today became president of the entire New York Central system.

Williamson, at 56, is a big-boned six-footer. He succeeds Patrick E. Crowley, who resigned last month. After being graduated from Yale in 1898, Williamson became a railroad clerk and worked 27 years for the New York Central, usually under Crowley, who remains with the company as director and advisor.

CROWTHER ATTACKS FREE TRADE PLEAS

Defends Protective Tariff Policy in His Reply to Sir Willmott Lewis.

Because the leading countries of the world "have gone mad" over the high protective tariff policy, the year 1931 will be the last of the prosperous years, Sir Wilmott Lewis, correspondent of the London Times, told the League of Republican Women of the District of Columbia yesterday afternoon at the Willard.

Not content with this picture of gloom, Sir Willmott prophesied a major disaster in 1932 unless nations mend these policies, adding that the maintenance of high tariffs and talk of disarmament are the products of fear.

He said the only good that can come of the mandate for protection adopted by the new British Nationalist government will be that it may lead to the paradox that when "everybody is protected nobody is protected."

Creditor Nation of World.

Declaring that the United States is now the creditor nation of the world, Sir Willmott dated the passing of Great Britain's primacy in world trade to the years after the World War, years, he said, which brought protective tariff to Austria-Hungary and other European countries.

"I tremble for the dire things that 1932 must usher in under the present stream of tariff madness," he said.

Later Representative Frank Crowther, of New York, attacked Sir Willmott's plea for free trade, and with an array of formidable figures, sketched the progress of the United States under the protective tariff system.

Inadequate for Protection.

The Smoot-Hawley bill he declared wholly inadequate for protection.

"Not by the wildest stretch of imagination," he said, "can that bill be called an effective protective tariff instrument what with only 12 per cent of our imports creeping in under this law. Its opponents take issue about the dire consequences to the volume of trade, knowing full well that the volume of commodities fell off but 7 per cent in its first year of operation and in ratio with other countries in these days a depression."

"American producers are entitled to the home markets," Mr. Crowther continued. "The pay envelope on Saturday night is what makes the wheels go round and what, I ask you, has contributed to American progress through the years? The protective tariff policy—make no mistake about that."

Mix's Wife Gets Final Decree.

Los Angeles, Jan. 4 (A.P.).—The final decree of divorce for Victoria Mix against Tom Mix, film actor, was entered today in county records. The interlocutory decree was granted her the day before Christmas, 1930, when she accused Mix of cruelty. Mix did not contest the suit.

BANKERS REPUDIATE FAVORING NATIONS IN MAKING LOANS

was the very considerable margin of profit piled up by both the Chase Bank and Kuhn, Loeb & Co. in the disposition of foreign obligations. Commodore Aldrich testified that his organization had participated in the flotation of $5,084,749,000 foreign securites since 1920. This had netted his bank a total gross profit of $12,884,428.

Of the total amount of financing, however, the Chase Bank had carried only $1,300,475,000 for its own account. In participation with other financial houses, notably with J. P. Morgan & Co. and Guaranty Trust Co., it had floated the sum of approximately five billion foreign securities, belonging to Canadian, German, Latin-American countries or organizations. This was divided among 72 issues, and included 181 participations.

Suave Mr. Kahn was flanked by his youthful colleague, M. J. Buttenweiser, who was only admitted to partnership in the banking firm of Kuhn, Loeb & Co. three days ago.

Refreshed by figures which Mr. Buttenweiser produced from a resourceful brief case, Mr. Kahn admitted that his firm had done a gross business of $1,158,180,000 in foreign bonds, which netted the firm the profit of $4,224,395.

The testimony of the Kuhn, Loeb banker occupied all of the morning session of the committee and almost all of the afternoon. Several members of the committee, among them Senator Robert LaFollette (Republican), of Wisconsin, Senator David I. Walsh (Democrat), of Massachusetts, and Senator Davis A. Reed (Republican), of Pennsylvania, were absent on the floor of the Senate.

The hearing will be resumed today when the testimony of the Chase Bank President will be continued, and the committee will also hear Clarence Dillon, head of the firm of Dillon, Read & Co.

Senator Johnson was in his usual place, directly opposite the banker who was in the witness chair. Mr. Kahn was an imperturbable witness, who parried the incisive queries of the senator from California with disarming prolixity.

Aldrich Reads Statement.

Commodore Aldrich testified that he had been a lawyer before becoming a banker. He read a long prepared statement, and submitted to the committee a comprehensive report of the various financial deals in which his bank had participated, either as a unit or as one of the component firms with which it consolidated and whose business it still carries on.

The extent to which American investors are involved in Germany was placed at $2,120,000,000. This American stake in German enterprise consisted to a considerable extent of short-term obligations, amounting to $655,000,000. Of this total sum Commodore Aldrich testified that his bank held $71,127,981, only 3½ per cent of the bank's total resources, and therefore a negligible amount.

Senator William H. King (Republican), of Utah, interrupted to ask:

"There have been reports that the total of such obligations is $4,000,000,000. Is that accurate?"

"I should say it was not," Commodore Aldrich replied.

Kahn Makes Admission.

Senator Johnson, earlier in the day, had gotten Mr. Kahn to admit that there had been applied to the American investor the familiar methods of the "high pressure" bond salesman in disposing of the bulk of the foreign bonds, which his firm and others had purchased. Mr. Kahn said:

"There may be two opinions, but it is my personal opinion that it has been done. There has been too much high pressure salesmanship."

With regard to the profit of J. P. Morgan & Co. in disposing of a loan of the French government at a 6 per cent "spread" of profit, Mr. Kahn admitted it was rather "unusual."

Senator Johnson had put the question:

"The house of Morgan had offered $100,000,000 French government bonds to the public at 6 per cent more than they had paid, had they not?" In answer to this point Mr. Kahn admitted the "spread" was rather more than that which bankers had usually derived, but he added hastily:

"Of course you must remember, senator, that my firm was not a participant in the original syndicate on those bonds."

Kahn Gives Hope.

For those holders of South American securities which have been very largely affected by the world-wide depression and uncertainty, Mr. Kahn was able to give this spark of hope:

"I have the greatest confidence that the South American countries will reestablish themselves. We had felt that they had passed the stage of default and had come to be a thoroughly stable and sound risk."

From time to time various members of the committee had been leading up to the question which Senator Johnson finally sprung on Mr. Kahn, with regard to the methods which banks had used in persuading their subsidiary organization to take over amounts of the foreign bonds. Senator Johnson said:

"A great many small banks have complained to the committee that they are compelled to take bonds, not because they want them but because otherwise they would lose the opportunity for legitimate business in other lines, and that they are being coerced. I say, frankly, we shall not bring any small bankers here because we do not want to subject them to the irritation of the big ones."

Kahn Doubts Coercion.

Mr. Kahn rubbed his well-shaved chin reflectively, and then turning his eyes to the ceiling as if to search for the inspiration from on high replied philosophically:

"They are only giving an example of human nature. I do not believe they buy under coercion. Between 1924 and 1929, when the bonds were being floated, they were eager to buy as people were to buy stocks in 1929. There was an enormous demand for foreign bonds, greatly beyond what there should have been. The small banks wanted them. Small banks are not more virtuous than big banks."

The academic aspects of international finance were also touched upon by Mr. Kahn when he defined John Maynard Keynes, the famous british economist, as a thorician that was only interested in bringing about adoption of his own pet theory of "managed currency." Mr. Kahn reiterated the faith of the American banker in the gold standard, and declared that the United States would remain on the yellow metal standard of values as long as it wished. Whenever any change was made in the monetary standard of value, it would be at the arbitrary decision of this Government and without any foreign influence.

Nation's Worst Counselors.

"Fear and greed are the worst counselors of a nation. Greed was in the driver's seat in 1929 and fear is there now. They together are responsible for the collapse in values."

Senator Barkley (Democrat), of Kentucky, asked if the banker had any suggestions for getting them out.

"First, the $2,000,000,000 reconstruction finance corporation now before Congress. It will go a long way to diminish fear."

"Secondly, let no one drive the United States from the gold standard. At the proper time, if we choose, let us do what we think best, but we ought not to do anything at this time under foreign pressure, not even discuss anything."

HOOVER MAKES THIRD PLEA FOR ECONOMIC RELIEF BILLS

bill submitted by the Walcott subcommittee for establishment of the $500,000,000 Reconstruction Finance Corporation. This measure will pass the Senate before the end of the week, in the opinion of responsible leaders on both sides.

Senator Robinson was unwilling, however, to predict the same quick action on the home loan discount banks.

"I am not prepared to commit myself personally to the measure in its present form, but I have no disposition to delay its consideration further than may be necessary to a proper study of its provisions and applications."

In committee, Senator Glass, of Virginia, has served notice that he will resist any provision in the reconstruction finance bill which seeks to render the new corporation's debentures eligible for rediscount in the Federal Reserve System. The vigorous opposition of the Virginia Democrat to this proposal before the subcommittee yesterday led to a threat by Chairman Walcott to continue in session "all day and all night, too," if such action became necessary to get the measure before the full committee today. Another Democrat, Bulkley, of Ohio, was aligned with Senator Glass in this opposition.

Likens Slump to War.

In summarizing the emergency legislative program submitted on December 7, President Hoover recalled that it was designed, after extensive consultation with leaders in all branches of industry and finance, "to check further degeneration in prices and values, to fortify us against continued shocks from world instability and to unshackle the forces of recovery."

"Combatting a depression," he said at another point, "is indeed like a great war in that it is not a battle upon a single front but upon many fronts. These measures are all a necessary addition to the efficient and courageous efforts of our citizens throughout the Nation."

HEATING with oil The McILVAINE or "Balanced Heat" way—not only removes dirt and eliminates labor, but reduces your fuel cost to the point where you cannot afford to use any other method of heating.

A new boiler or heater is not necessary to secure this fuel saving.

Whether you burn COAL, GAS or OIL—let us explain how The McILVAINE reduces your fuel bill and gives you constant, even heat—no cold 70 degrees.

Where McILVAINE burners have replaced other types of burners, COAL, GAS or OIL, the fuel bill has been greatly reduced—in some instances cut in HALF. The reason is simply that owing to its constant, continuous, automatically controlled flame, the heat is put into your home—not up the chimney.

FOR comparative purposes all heating costs must be reduced to the number of B. T. U. (British Thermal Units is the heat required to raise the temperature of one pound of water to one degree Fahrenheit).

FACTS

A pound of hard coal contains approximately 13,000 B. T. U.

A gallon of 38-40 oil contains approximately 136,000 B. T. U.

A cu. ft. of Washington gas is supposed to contain 600 B. T. U.

Taking the above values and figuring efficiencies or boilers burning COAL, GAS (with a special boiler), or OIL, we find that a dollar's worth of coal, burning at 55% efficiency, puts 966,625 B. T. U. into your heating system; a dollar's worth of gas, burning at 80% efficiency, puts 685,710 B. T. U. into your heating plant; a dollar's worth of oil, burning at 70% to 85% efficiency (average of 75%), burned in The McILVAINE, puts 1,359,975 B. T. U. into your heating system.

From these figures it will be seen that 50 cents worth of oil, with the McILVAINE, gives the heating equivalent of 71 cents worth of coal, and a dollar's worth of gas. Different conditions may alter these figures slightly, but they are substantially correct.

FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC TRADE.

The assertion is being reiterated that the increased duties of the tariff act of 1930 will destroy our trade with Mexico and the countries of South America and the rest of the world. The same thing was said during the revision of 1922. But facts soon refuted the pessimistic predictions.

Our imports from South America increased from $815,000,000 in 1922 to $1,106,000,000 in 1929. Our exports to South America were valued at $558,000,000 in 1922, and rose to $973,000,000 in 1929. For years we have bought more from South America than we have sold to that part of the world. The balance of trade has been favorable to Latin America.

Trade with South America, like our trade with the rest of the world, fell off suddenly in 1930 and 1931, and for a like cause—the world-wide depression, which brought a drastic decline in prices and also a reduction in the volume of foreign trade. Our imports from South America declined nearly $300,000,000. Our exports to South America fell nearly $304,000,000—a figure that reflects the sharp fall in South American commodity prices and the slowing down of industry.

Our trade with Mexico, both exports and imports, was affected in 1930 and 1931 by the general depression and the fall in prices.

Our general imports through the Mexican border districts amounted to $36,000,000 in 1930 and $15,000,000 in 1931, a decline in our purchases from Mexico of $21,000,000. Mexico's purchases from the United States declined $13,000,000 more than the decline in our purchases from Mexico. The balance of trade between Mexico and the United States is still in our favor.

These facts concerning our trade with Mexico and South America during the last two fiscal years correspond in a general way with the course of our trade with other foreign countries. It is not retaliation against the United States that is the cause of the decline of our exports. It is the inability of foreign countries to buy from us or from any other country. Curtailed purchasing power has affected both the domestic and the foreign trade of all countries, and it has affected most seriously those countries whose economic development has been based most largely on the exploitation of foreign markets. The world depression has hurt the United States less than it has other countries because we have a domestic market for more than 90 per cent of our production, whereas other countries are dependent upon foreign countries for a market for from 20 to 40 per cent of their production.

The United States would be in the vortex of a depression such as it has never known if it were dependent upon foreign markets. There could be no more unwise counsel than that heard from some quarters that the tariff should be reduced. Business revival can not be accomplished by surrendering the domestic market to other countries, in the vain hope that we may find enlarged markets in countries that can not provide markets even for their own products.

BICENTENNIAL STAMP PROFITS.

No movement for patriotic celebrations throughout the United States has ever approximated the extent of the organized effort that is being made in connection with the observation of the George Washington bicentennial this year. It will be a national celebration such as has never occurred before. The Capital is preparing to entertain many thousands of visitors, and there will be much provided to entertain them from Washington's birthday next month to Thanksgiving.

The work that is being done by the national commission extends to more than 250,000 local commissions throughout the country which are organizing special Washington commemorative exercises. The general headquarters here under the direction of the associate director, Representative Sol Bloom, has printed 150 books and pamphlets for distribution. The widespread interest in the local celebrations is evidenced by no less than 800,000 individual requests for material that the commission has not yet been able to supply.

A special appropriation bill is before Congress to provide funds for the laudable work of furthering the Washington celebrations not only here in the Capital but throughout the Nation. It is a worthy cause that should have the hearty support of all members of both the House and Senate. The amount asked for by the commission will be almost exclusively used in the printing and distribution of publications, for which there is such a large demand throughout the country in connection with local memorial services.

So far from the George Washington Bicentennial Commission being an expense to the Government, quite without design the celebration will result in at least $1,000,000 profit to the Federal Treasury. The sale of the special Bicentennial stamps has resulted in a net profit of more than $1,500,000, since the many thousands of sets sold to collectors the first day they were on sale is almost clear gain. The amount the commission is asking from Congress to complete its work here and throughout the Nation is less than one-third of this profit realized from the Bicentennial stamps. It is to be hoped that Congress will realize the importance of not curtailing the activities in behalf of the George Washington celebrations which are being planned in every part of the country.

GANDHI AGAIN IN JAIL.

Ominous news comes from India. Mahatma Gandhi is again in jail, a far-reaching movement of civil disobedience is underway and the British government has taken steps to crush every outbreak of disorder. Events have moved rapidly since the failure of the London round table conference. Both sides apparently have despaired of reaching any satisfactory compromise and have, therefore, gathered strength for a long and bitter war struggle.

From this distance it appears that Gandhi is being swept along by a force that he is no longer able to restrain. Prior to the round table conference his leadership of the Indian nationalist movement was threatened by the radical elements, but he succeeded in subduing them. Hostilities were suspended while an Indian delegation went to London and tried to negotiate once more for India's freedom. At that gathering it became evident that the division between the Hindus and the Moslems was the greatest obstacle to autonomous government for India. Gandhi returned to India full of doubts. How could a new campaign of civil disobedience overcome the schism within the Indian provinces? But India's seething millions were concerned chiefly with the fact that the round table conference had failed. It was apparent that a civil disobedience campaign was in the offing, and it is questionable whether Gandhi could have stemmed it if he had tried.

The British government doubtless will be criticized for acting so hastily. The imprisonment of Gandhi may serve only to inflame the populace and prolong the struggle. But Lord Willingdon, the viceroy, saw a crisis impending and attempted to strike before the passive rebellion gained headway. It is difficult to see how the situation could be improved by temporizing. The nationalist factions have had every opportunity to work out a peaceful solution of their differences. They have demonstrated that an independent India at this time would mean hopeless chaos. The only alternative is for the British government to maintain peace and order, if possible.

A taste of discipline may be good for the irreconcilables who persist in their disagreements and at the same time boycott the government. If rioting and disorders are crushed under the new emergency ordinances Gandhi may again strengthen his control over the nationalist movement and swing it into constructive channels. Much depends upon the attitude the mahatma assumes during his incarceration. It should not be difficult to illustrate for Gandhi and other nationalist leaders that civil disobedience or open violence is futile so long as India's population is working at cross purposes.

LAW ANTICIPATES CRIME.

Law enforcement agents have sought for some time a way to attack many criminals at the same time. It has frequently happened in the past that a man known to be a public menace and guilty of criminal acts could not be convicted because there was no law to cover the particular type of wrong-doing which he practiced. In order to overcome this difficulty the police of New York have been granted a greater degree of freedom by the State Legislature through a broader interpretation of the term "disorderly conduct." This measure gives a more competent weapon to the enforcement officials in their fight against the lawless element which never does anything wrong in the overt. The new law reads:

> A person, who, with intent to breach the peace, or whereby a breach of peace may be occasioned, is engaged in some illegal occupation, or who bears an evil reputation and with an unlawful purpose consorts with thieves and criminals or frequents unlawful resorts, is guilty of disorderly conduct.

The phrase "evil reputation" may mean more than a criminal record and "an unlawful purpose" may be much more broad than stated intent to participate in unlawful conduct. These provisions make the law a formidable weapon, and it may be argued that there is danger of injustice arising from too broad interpretation. Commissioner Mulrooney, who was largely responsible for the passage of the act, says the law will be carefully enforced. There will be no hounding of former convicts. "Do not be afraid to trust us with this power," he says; "we will not abuse it. If we do you can take it away." At present there is a provision that the law shall remain in force until next March, which indicates that it is in the nature of an experiment.

In Brooklyn there have been seven men sentenced under the new law. Two were "acting suspiciously," three were talking in the front of a billiard parlor, one admittedly was a rumrunner. These received sentences of six months, in view of the lack of evidence of a more serious nature, yet they were known to be members of a dangerous underworld gang. One curious case which occasioned a legal discussion was the incident in which police broke into the room of two sleeping men and arrested them for intent to violate the peace. It was held that two sleeping men could not be violating the peace, or intending it. The assistant district attorney showed that this was just the type of case the law was intended to cover. Formerly it was necessary for the police to wait until the crime was committed before they could make the arrest, even though they were expecting it.

It has been found in a number of countries, especially England, that when large discretion with regard to some elements in the case is given to those charged with administering the laws a better administration results. It is impossible to formulate enough laws to fit every individual case or to anticipate the needs and shadings of each new problem. Judgment is often fallible and so justice miscarries, but it is believed by sponsors of the new system that it will promote justice by diminishing crime.

LATIN BANKERS CONFER.

The conference of the central banks of the west coast of South America held in Lima, Peru, resulted mainly in an unequivocal resolve to consider the gold standard as the only stable method of value. Though Americans took no direct part in the conference, representatives of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York were present as "observers." Throughout the proceedings, however, the influence of American thought may be seen, especially that of Prof. E. W. Kemmerer.

One of the resolutions stresses especially the inadvisability of binding the monetary unit of one country with that of another, however great its financial or economic importance. This has long been one of Prof. Kemmerer's precepts, and the wisdom of it is to be noted in the recent experience of Bolivia. That country had taken sterling as the basis of its international exchange. The decline of the pound, therefore, was a great blow to Bolivia's finance, especially since it came at a moment when her credit and finances generally were in difficulties.

The resolutions, for the most part, were largely of an academic nature and apparently few definite gains were made toward stabilizing the finances of the countries concerned. Yet, according to Robert P. Holt, prominent observer of Latin-American affairs, the development of central or reserve banking in Latin America during the last decade has not been without its difficulties and many of the economic ills from which the various countries are suffering have been unjustly attributed to the rigidity of this system. There has been some talk, especially among politicians, favoring a reversion to the former system, a national bank of issue, which would permit an increase in currency, without the restrictions of the existing banking structure. That this point was not made an issue at the conference brought out the fact that the present system was considered the only practicable one.

The popular demand for more currency, "aumento de medio circulante," heard so frequently in these countries, arises from a misconception. It is, rather, credit that is required, which would automatically augment the freedom of circulation. American bankers have received much criticism for the lavishness of their lending, without proper consideration of the purpose of the loan and adequate supervision of its disbursement. From this extreme the tendency has become ultra-conservative. An indiscriminate application of this policy may jeopardize interests which it is designed to protect. It is important, according to Mr. Holt, that the bankers do not lose sight of the fact that a judicious extension of credit, in many cases, is essential to rapid recovery. Some Latin-American nations, likewise, that are too prone in the present situation to throw all the blame on their overliberal creditors must give convincing evidence of determination to put their own financial houses in order. In common with all the nations of the world today economies must be enforced that will balance budgets, if extensions of indebtedness are to be granted. New loans can not be expected from any source except for constructive purposes.

Some Democrats are looking forward to Al Smith's Jackson Day speech with the hope that they can say "He came across in the Mayflower."

GEORGE WASHINGTON

From the Detroit News.

George Washington, much humanized in recent years, looms larger in the eyes of the American people when he, figuratively, walks on the earth than he does among the clouds of the Capitol dome. In so far as we may touch him with our hands, all that he was and did is understandable, and those things for which the Nation properly reveres him are the very things that every citizen of this land can make his own.

This year is George Washington's year, the bicentennial of his birth. Every inhabitant beneath the flag is urged to make 1932 a constructive memorial to the first President, a memorial to which individual character is the first and principal contribution, and a refreshed sense of patriotic affection for the national ideals scarcely second.

The Congress of the United States urges that the celebration be observed in such manner "that future generations of American citizens may live according to the example and precepts of his exalted life and character and thus perpetuate the American Republic." The George Washington Bicentennial Commission believes that "never have the teachings and example of George Washington been more necessary to maintain the sober balance of our citizenship than today."

Obviously, the less god-like the character of the baron of Mount Vernon, the more likely is it for the present generation to imitate him. As to the qualities of the man, they were first and foremost a sense of duty which instructed him in every emergency, to the lasting benefit of the land, and then a zeal for making the best of whatever chanced. In peace and plenty he was a comfortable figure, indulging his tastes, but watching his pennies; in the bleak and bankrupt days of war he was no less adaptable to circumstances. His steadfastness in all he did, the strength of mind which kept him to a thankless task, as it must have seemed, and the integrity of his soul made him a great man for whom events provided only the opportunity for proof.

It is well, indeed, for this day and age to look back at that time of makeshift, of contrasting wealth and labor which made up the days of high and low, to estimate the determination of spirit that slowly and surely wrought a nation out of a wilderness, and planted it on such noble principles that from that day to this they have been the criterion of liberty the wide world over. Of those things that are richest in endeavor, in tolerance of spirit, in single-minded devotion George Washington is and forever remains the immortal symbol.

POST HASTE.

Congress is back and Gandhi is in jail again, both spinning yarns.

You will be surprised how deftly the free silverites and free traders will continue to ignore the facts that last year imports declined less than exports and that foreign trade as a whole fell off less than domestic business.

"Am I my brother's keeper?" If it is a prosperous railroad speaking, the I. C. C. answers yes.

Of course it is a mere coincidence that Senator Wheeler, who resurrects the miracle arguments of free silver at 16 to 1, comes from Montana, second largest silver producing State.

Speaker Garner joins the prayerful chorus chanting "save me from my self-appointed friends."

The prize evasionist is one who can point to a 15 per cent decrease in the value of exports in a certain line and avoid mentioning that the price of that commodity was nearly 25 per cent lower.

It isn't who will get credit of the new credit corporations that worries the Garner House boys, but who will get the credit for them.

The next question in Manchuria is whether the Japanese army is going to be satisfied with that restricted view of the north side of the Great Wall.

It doesn't sound like money saving to the boys who have been getting off with spinach lunches for flappers to have Mr. Ziegfeld announce that 1932 models will be heavier, with rounded lines.

Anything can happen since the Tuesday Saturday Evening Post has begun to publish illustrated editorials.

Having movie stars appear on the stage is a questionable practice. Conrad Nagel did not look nearly as natural last week in person as he does in pictures.

Does Josephus Daniels call them "pink Republicans" to distinguish them from red liquor Democrats?

Not to be too optimistic, the New York Merchants Association predicts that 1932 will be a period of business and industrial convalescence. A wheel chair seems pretty good after being prostrate.

The drys assert that the Finnish repeal vote has no significance here. The wets find the vote for repeal in Finland a positive indication of what will happen in the United States.

American ship owners want to stop the week-end "cruises to nowhere." They don't like the idea of people voyaging just because the spirit moves them.

Advance information predicts that Al Smith will propose a sensational cure for the depression at the Jackson Day dinner, nothing less than the appropriation of a pair of billions by the Federal Government.

Money or Love or Wheat, the Harvest Depends on the Sowing

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THE week beginning January 17, has been set apart as Thrift Week.

During that period the people will be urged to watch their pennies and save the table scraps.

Now the virtue of thrift depends on its setting. In a land where everybody pegs his own shoes it is a very good thing; and in a land where each man gets a living by serving his neighbor, it may be a very bad thing.

For my sins I live in a village in a long-settled land far from my native steppes.

The villagers—more especially the older ones—practice thrift.

One of them died some time ago, bent with the weight of years and first mortgages, and his estate included bales of paper sacks and balls of twine accumulated over a period of 50 years.

Thrift, as practiced by the villagers, includes buying sole leather to mend one's shoes; doing odd jobs of carpenter work and plumbing on one's premises; greasing the family car—in short, complete self-serving to save the cost of supporting professional tinkerers.

Wages, of course, are low. Clerks get as little as $30 a month; the common laborer is satisfied with $1 for 10 hours of toil with pick and shovel; and a good cook demands no more than $3 a week.

The more thrift abounds, the more it is necessary.

Because Brown earns little, he can pay little to Smith; because Smith gets little, he can spend little with Jones; and because Jones has little, he can give little to Brown.

One thrifty man among prodigal neighbors might get rich; where all are thrifty, each man helps to keep his neighbor poor and thus insures a flat purse for himself.

A land of low wages is inevitably a poor land. You can't expect much milk if you starve the cow.

Europe is a land of thrift and poverty; America, since the Revolution, has been a land of prodigal spenders and opportunity. With each increase of wages has come a new wave of prosperity for manufacturers and merchants.

Money is the life blood of commerce. It gives life only when it circulates.

Money spent is bread cast on the waters. It will return, bearing a profit.

Waste is senseless. But men and nations must give in order to get, and it takes good wages to make free spenders as free spenders are required to support good wages.

Election Is Next Year.

Duluth (Minn.) Herald.

If conditions do not improve before November, 1932, the next president of the United States will be a Democrat. Without rhyme or reason people discontented with conditions usually vote against the administration, so the dominant party that comes up for reelection in hard times is simply out of luck. But the Republicans so far have generally been pretty lucky. There is very small chance that there will be no improvement before election day. Indeed, it is ten to one that there will be an improvement. And if the tide then has definitely turned, and the trend is clearly upward, the Republicans are going to say: "What is there about the Democratic record that makes it wise or safe to change horses while crossing a stream at this precarious juncture?" And the intelligent populace is going to agree that, in view of everything, it will not be wise to change. This surely is a Democratic year. But the election comes next year, not this.

A timely warning against the proposal of a $5,000,000,000 or any other enormous bond issue, which seems to have some support in Congress, for the promotion of a huge program of public works at the expense of the Federal budget in a time of an unprecedented Treasury deficit, has been issued by one of the committees of Chairman Gifford's relief organization for unemployment.

This committee goes into the necessary effects of such an undertaking. It points out that the first effect upon the market values of all Government obligations and following them of other bonds would be heavy losses to all investors in these securities. These losses would extend into bank failures wherever banks are overloaded with such securities.

Party Discipline.

Boston Transcript.

Having been elected Speaker of the National House of Representatives, John N. Garner evidently has made up his mind that he will be just that. One of his first acts has been to intimate in his usual forceful language that Henry T. Rainey, the Democratic floor leader, and James William Collier, Mississippi, chairman of the Committee on Ways and Means, are not authorized to promulgate the policies of the Democratic majority and, inferentially, that until Mr. Garner himself has spoken, his colleagues will do well to keep quiet. It was characteristic of Mr. Rainey to speak out of turn and his statement of the other day contained a repudiation of certain White Ho[use] policies which it is practicall[y] able the Democratic le[ader] compelled by force to accept.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Sees High Finance of the East Behind Campaign to Repeal Prohibition Amendment.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Hon. Josephus Daniels is quoted in the press as saying, in effect, that the Republicans having failed to make prosperity for the workers, the Democrats will now proceed to do it. To further this Democratic end, he mentions two leading "wets" from the big cities of the North, as candidates for President, Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York, and Newton D. Baker, of Cleveland. Have these candidates ever actually said what they are going to do about farm relief, cotton, the railroad situation, unemployment and general world rehabilitation? Until they formulate very definite plans, is there any guarantee that they will meet the problems better than the hard-working Hoover?

Both these candidates, however, have said frankly that they stand for changing the eighteenth amendment. Therefore, to support them the South must throw over a great Southern principle, prohibition. Is the South quite ready to throw over a cause it has nursed so long and ably? I wonder. Is it not likely that the reason of this great drive against prohibition, coming out of the North, is that politicians realize that if the East is to hold its own in Congress against the West and South, the East must kill off prohibition? They call it "getting it out of politics."

Now here comes the South ready to help the East by doing precisely what high finance wants, backing "wet" candidates from the big cities of the North. It is odd to see the South falling so neatly into the trap of high finance, the big city "wet" trap, that will make powerful the forces behind the big power trusts, at the same time that it weakens the growing political supremacy of South and West.

Think this over, South and West, and Hon. Josephus Daniels!

How the Railroads Stand on Regulation of Their Competitors.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Certain speakers and writers on railway subjects have recently felt it necessary to declare against "regulating other forms of transportation out of existence." The inference of such statements is that the railroads seek that kind of regulation. This is not the case. In the declaration of policy which was announced by the Association of Railway Executives more than a year ago, the following statement was made:

"Insofar as any other form of transportation is legitimate and a natural economic development, the railroads have no right to complain. The public is entitled to the best transportation at the lowest reasonable cost."

This frank statement has been the foundation of the efforts which the railroads have since made, both nationally and in the various States, to have the present inequalities of competition corrected in the public interest. The remainder of the statement which is quoted in part above read as follows:

"However, where the rail carriers are prevented through legislation or regulation from fairly competing with new or old forms of transportation or where the service rendered by the competitor is a subsidized one, such unfair handicaps should be removed."

That is where the railroads stand.

Federal Employe Admits Liking for Furs and Diamonds, but——

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Nothing has afforded me more amusement lately than the statement of a certain Senator that government clerks "want to dress in fur coats and diamonds." We may want to but do we? It reminds me of the well-known conversation between Glendower and Hotspur. We may call yearningly and lustily to the vasty deep, the ambient air, or otherwhere, but do those fur coats and diamonds come when we do call for them? Not so you could notice it.

We are told the average government clerk gets $2,000 per annum, where, oh where, are those other hundreds coming to me? I am in the second grade and I certainly do not "average" $2,000 by quite a bit. If we could all live in our own little home towns, we might manage all right, for in my town I can rent a whole house for less than half I pay here for one room, bath and kitchenette.

GOLD MINE.

Said I to Bud: "Time was I knew
A rather curious fellow, who Possessed a gold mine at his door,
With knowledge that the glistening ore
Was close at hand, yet day by day
He went upon his sullen way,
And though rich nuggets caught his eye
Indifferently he passed them by.

"Strange man, who knew that gold was there,
Yet to possess it didn't care!
An hour a day with pick and spade,
A richer man of him had made.
The lode and vein were plain to view,
Their presence all his neighbors knew,
Yet to the hour he came to die,
Untouched he let that treasure lie."

"That's queer," said Bud. "Show gold to me,
And after it at once I'll be!"
"All right," I answered. "'Twixt ourselves,
Just gaze upon these library shelves
Well stored with books. Here you can find
The product of some noble mind
To serve your every time of need,
All yours, if you'll take time to read!"

Einsteins Take 2 Rooms In University Building

Pasadena, Calif., Jan. 4 (A.P.).—The Athenaeum at the California Institue of Technology added to its register today its most distinguished guests, Prof. and Mrs. Albert Einstein, and to the wife of the famed German scientist goes the honor of being the first woman to live in the hall.

After weary hours of hunting, the Einsteins decided to give up the idea of a private home and take two rooms at the Athenaeum during the three months' visit here. The Athenaeum, built for the scientists of the institute and Mount Wilson Observatory, and for the noted visitors to the two institutions, already has within its walls an imposing list of contemporaries of Einstein in science.

Fall Fine Payment Enters Into Case

Parole Board Is Awaiting Definite Information; May Act in Week.

(Associated Press.)

The $100,000 fine imposed upon Albert Fall, with a year's term in prison, is one point the Federal Parole Board is pausing over in considering a parole for the former Cabinet member. It was learned yesterday that the parole board is without specific information that the fine has been paid. It is awaiting definite information before taking final action.

The aged New Mexican began serving his sentence last July and became eligible for parole last November 20. He was convicted of accepting a $100,000 bribe from Edward L. Doheny, wealthy oil man.

Federal law provides that when a fine is defaulted the prisoner serves an additional 30 days, or, if paroled, has the same time added to the parole period. At the end, also, the prisoner must take a pauper's oath, declaring he can not pay. The board of two men and a woman reassembled yesterday and individually gave attention to the voluminous file of the case, but held no conferences. Final action may come within a week, but officials refused to forecast authoritatively.

BEDELL IS INDICTED IN LEGATION ATTACK

New Attempt to Extradite New York Prisoner to Be Made Today.

An attempt to bring William Estes Bedell, under arrest in New York City, to this city to face charges of breaking into the Salvadorean Legation May 13 will be made today on indictments returned against him yesterday.

Bedell, who thus far has successfully resisted attempts to extradite him, is expected to be more successfully combatted with the indictments standing against him. The indictments charge housebreaking and larceny and assault with a dangerous weapon.

The housebreaking indictment alleges that he broke into the legation and stole several hundred dollars worth of furnishings and five cases of liquor. The assault indictment charges him with striking Don Carlos Levia, Salvadorean Minister, over the head with a flashlight.

A country-wide search for Bedell was begun soon after the attack on the minister. Bedell was located in New York City a month ago.

Kennedy Indicted For Assault to Kill

Accused of Shooting Foreman of Post Composing Room Five Times.

John A. Kennedy, formerly employed in the composing room of The Washington Post, was indicted by the grand jury yesterday on charges of assault with intent to kill and assault with a dangerous weapon.

Kennedy is accused of having shot George W. Brandt, foreman of the composing room, five times, in the composing room of The Post early on the morning of October 23. Brandt is said to have aroused the enmity of Kennedy when he discharged him.

Brandt was believed to be dying when he was taken to the Emergency Hospital. Each of the five bullets struck him in a dangerous place and his recovery was considered remarkable by physicians.

WHITE SLAVE RAIDS BRING 7 PRISONERS

4 Women and 3 Men Taken in Aftermath of Roadhouse Killing.

The series of raids, which yesterday netted four women and three men, one a Washingtonian, were ordered from Washington, and were made by United States marshals from Baltimore and Department of Justice agents who have been investigating the white slave traffic, it was released last night.

The four women were arrested in a roadhouse in Anne Arundel County, two of the men were found in a Baltimore restaurant, and the third, Ahmed Abrams, 38 years old, was arrested here.

Abrams was held in bond of $2,000 after Eva McCoy, of Newport News, Va., told United States Commissioner Needham C. Turnage that he arranged for her to enter a Bladensburg roadhouse on November 2, three weeks before a man was fatally shot in the place. She said she went to the house voluntarily after its nature was described by Abrams, although she had never been in a similar establishment before. Abrams is held pending action of the grand jury.

Miss McCoy said she was taken to the place by Abrams and Charles Danforth, who took another woman there at the same time. Danforth was arrested several days ago on similar charges. He is said to have taken his wife and another girl, supposed to be Miss McCoy, to the place.

The roadhouse which was raided was located near the Army post at Fort George Meade. Rose Allen, said to be the manager of this place, was charged with having brought Jean Gordon, one of the inmates of the Bladensburg house, to Maryland from Pennsylvania. The other women taken gave their names as Jean Kaywood, Florence Lee, and Catherine Clark. The raiders were brought to Washington and went to the roadhouse in cars hired here, it was said.

After arresting the women in the roadhouse, the Federal agents went on to Baltimore, with their prisoners, and arrested the two men. These gave their names as Sam Sternick and Ciro Parasi. Sternick, who is free on bond in connection with a roadhouse shooting in Anne Arundel County, was held for the Federal men. Parasi was released in bond of $500 for carrying concealed weapons. The agents said they had to disarm him when arresting him.

Fifteen men were in the party which went into Maryland. They included the justice agents, who have conducted the white slave investigation, which was initiated by the shooting in the Bladensburg roadhouse on November 23.

The Fort Meade raid is expected to be only the first of a series of forays against similar establishments between here and Baltimore. Some of these places were being watched by Federal men before the Bladensburg shooting, however, and it is understood that Federal warrants were out early in November for a place raided a few days after the Bladensburg gun battle.

The wife of Peter Abbott, who is charged with the murder of Grover Amick during the Bladensburg shooting, visited him in the Marlboro Jail yesterday.

COURT SEIZES HOME FOR DRY VIOLATIONS

Special to The Washington Post.

Fredericksburg, Va., Jan. 4.—Provision of the State prohibition statute granting court authority to confiscate real estate persistently used in evading dry laws was invoked today for the first time in this section of Virginia, and possibly in the State, when Judge Frederick W. Coleman, in King George County Circuit Court, ordered seizure and sale of a small farm and home of Mary Hailstalk, 60-year-old Negress.

The woman, who was remanded to jail following her plea of not guilty to an indictment charging her with a third prohibition offense, was taken into custody with her husband, Joshua Hailstalk, 55, and Mary Ford. Hailstalk pleaded guilty and was sentenced to his second jail term of three years for dry law offense. This also marked his third arraignment on a prohibition count, he having received first an eighteen months sentence in 1924.

Sale of the property in which Mary Hailstalk's children by a former marriage have an equity was directed because it has been continuously used for sale of intoxicating liquor, the court held.

The children's rights in the property do not prevent its forfeiture, Judge Coleman said, as they must have known for what purpose it was used. The home was once padlocked for two years by Judge Coleman.

World Sugar Council Defers Paris Session

Paris, Jan. 4 (A.P.).—The international sugar council which was to have resumed its meetings tomorrow was adjourned to February, Thomas L. Chadbourne and his staff have gone to London.

London, Jan. 4 (A.P.).—Thomas L. Chadbourne, head of the international sugar council, let it be known today that he will sail for the United States Wednesday following negotiations at Paris in connection with measures to restore prosperity to the sugar business. It is understood the instructions at Paris left certain questions unsolved, including that of further limitation of sugar output.

Patrons Rob Closed Bank, Hide Cash and Surrender

Moncks Corner, S. C., Jan. 4 (A.P.). Two depositors in the branch of the Peoples State Bank of South Carolina here, disgruntled at the closing of the institution last Saturday, today held up the assistant cashier and made away with an amount almost equal to their deposits.

They surrendered several hours later and told Sheriff C. P. Ballentine, of Berkeley County, they had hid the money in a wood where, they said, it could not be found.

Approximately $2,000 was taken by the men, S. H. Miller, 36, and Blease Woodward, 20, members of prominent Berkeley County families.

"They said," Sheriff Ballentine asserted, "they had that much and more in the bank. They could not get it any other way and they decided to get it the way they did."

Miss Maggie Wiggins, the assistant cashier, was alone when Miller and Woodward rapped on the door of the bank, which was one of the 44 in the chain that failed to open Saturday.

They "showed" pistols, she said, and forced her to open the vault, demanding their money. The amount they obtained, they told Sheriff Ballentine, was $155 less than they had in the bank.

Both were held in the Berkeley County jail tonight, no charges having been preferred against them.

A representative of the State bank examiner was in Moncks Corner, but could arrive at no decision as to what charges should be brought, the sheriff said.

ARMED GUARDS PACE FLOOD AREA LEVEES

Prisoners Toil Valiantly to Hold Back Waters as Disease Menace Lurks.

Glendora, Miss., Jan. 4 (A.P.).—Hope spread through the Tallahatchie River flood zone tonight that major levees would hold the river's crest and more attention was focused on providing fuel, food, drinking water and medical care for the thousands marooned.

Guards armed with shotguns were posted, ready to shoot anyone attempting to dynamite a levee to divert water pressure while hundreds of convicts kept up fresh sandbagging of the overflowing dikes.

The prisoners toiled waist deep in muddy water under the expectancy of reward for their heroic rescue of the rural people of the Tallahatchie Valley, but the danger was by no means over.

Area Still Menaced.

Glendora was threatened less by breaks than other areas. The greatest danger today was about the Swan Lake, Webber, Sumner Triangle of Cassidy's Bayou in Tallahatchie County and up the river about Asa and Mimms. Jones Frederic plantation, just south of Gledora, still was in peril from overflows.

The rise of the Inland Lake in Panola, Quitman and Tallahatchie Counties, today was very gradual with the peak expected tonight. Recession of the waters would offer additional menace, floodworkers said, by undermining the dikes.

Adj. Gen. J. M. Hairston, of the Mississippi National Guard, reported to Gov. T. G. Bilbo, after a week-end survey of Tallahatchie County, that no troops were needed.

"What we need there," he said, "is bedding, clothing and medicine; the State Red Cross is the only organization that can help."

Gen. Hairston said there were 2,000 persons homeless within a 30-mile radius of Webb, but that there appeared to be no immediate danger of loss of life.

"Conditions Are Deplorable."

"Living conditions are deplorable," he said. He said corn cribs are under water, planting seed ruined, winter gardens flooded, smokehouses full of water and hay has floated away.

"Danger of disease and infection exists because of the drinking water situation. Most of the pumps are under water and I would recommend that railroads be asked to send box cars of drinking water to the area and additional box cars for housing purposes.

"Bushes and trees are full of waterbound coveys of quail. We saw lots of squirrels and rabbits roosting on floating logs.

"Occupation of the flooded homes after the water subsidies will be a slow process because of the necessity for cleaning and disinfecting."

Idaho Former Governor Is Dead of Heart Attack

Boise, Idaho, Jan. 4 (A.P.).—Moses Alexander, 78, former Governor of Idaho, died of a heart attack here today. Alexander served two terms as governor following his election in 1914. He was a Democrat.

An immigrant to this country from Bavaria, Germany, he built up in Idaho, one of the largest mercantile enterprises in the State and acquired an outstanding position in his party, which he held until his death.

PSYCHOLOGY AND SENSE.

IN its broader aspects, all successful bidding at the Contract table is based on psychology. To attain the best results in bidding, you must have a keen insight into the mental level of your partner and opponents. This, of course, means psychology in its better sense. Unfortunately, however, there has grown up throughout the country an immense amount of so-called "psychic" bidding at the Contract table, which is anything but psychological, in fact. It is mostly cheap, coarse bluff. However, there are many hands when opponents can be confused as to honor-trick strength and distributional values by bids which may temporarily mislead your partner. Such an instance occurred in Hand No. 2 of the eleventh rubber of my match with Mr. Sidney S. Lenz to test the relative merits of the Approach-Forcing System (sometimes called the "One over One") and the Official System of Contract bidding.

Pass	Pass

1—A fine psychological bid to obscure the hand pattern to opponents.
2—Correctly helping partner and making the opposing bidding more difficult.
3—A very fine Double, which is probably an equally important factor in preventing opponents from reaching the proper contract.
4—Building an excellent structure upon a firmly laid foundation of psychology.

Even casual study of the cards discloses that Mr. Lenz could have made four hearts without difficulty on the combined holdings of North and South. The only tricks he need lose would be one spade, one heart and conceivably, although improbably, one diamond. However, so effective had been the psychological barrage, beginning with West's one no trump and continuing with East's two-spade bid and later Penalty Double of the club contract, that neither Mr. Lenz nor Mr. Jacoby felt justified in bidding for game.

TODAY'S POINTER.

All successful bidding at Contract Bridge has as one basis a sound knowledge of psychology. However, many bids designated as "psychic" are simply bluffs or worse.

Dare Interprets the Mode

Black velvet makes this picturesque Sunday night frock for the large and statuesque woman. The yoke and sleeves which accentuate the bust are of brilliants. (Sketched in a New York shop.)

New York, Jan. 4.

YESTERDAY I promised to start a series entitled "Lace Lore." In studying the facts for this series, it became evident to me that a little knowledge of lace goes a long way to the layman, or laywoman, of course, and that very few of us, unless our business is in and about laces, really know anything about these lovely evidences of handiwork!

Now, I don't mean to give a course in lace values here; 'member that piece of lovely lace six inches wide that the lace-wise lady showed us last year in Paris—for six thousand dollars? But just to tell you about some of the most frequently used laces, current laces, as it were, and to describe them to you so that you can tell at a glance what kind of lace adorns your millyun dollah frock—or your girl friend's sixteen dollah one, or the other way around.

The most popular lace in vogue this winter is Alencon. This lace is made of white linen thread, sometimes dyed to match the color of the dress. The designs are light outlines of flowers, garlands, architectural foliage and quaint figures copied from old missals, which contain so many strange birds and stranger human beings. The designs are embroidered on a foundation tulle, or net as some of us call it, with round meshes. And, Alencon is called a "needle lace" and is characterized with wonderful fineness of detail. It is made with relief, obtained by passing threads under and around outline of the design.

So-o-o-o, now you should know. Just for fun and to keep your brain on the move, the next time you see a piece of lace, ask yourself if, from this description, it isn't a bit of Alencon.

More "lace lore" tomorrow.

Remnants of lace, often lace which is very expensive when bought by the piece, are the clever woman's open door to elegance. She it is who has the wit to send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the illustrated leaflet which tells her all about things to do with remnants, lace ones and any other kinds of ones. She it is who knows that a bit of good lace that she has picked up at the remnant counter during this January month when such interesting sales are in progress will make her old dress look new, and her new dress look expensive. She it is who never overlooks an opportunity to learn something for her betterment, her loveliness. And it is the woman who sends for this week's leaflet who keeps her youth and charm her man or men, and her own inner delight!

Now, suppose you are large and tall and statuesque, as indeed all large women simply have to be to be beautiful. And suppose that your shoulders and arms and neck are simply lovely, as most large women's are, but that your waist is inclined to be a wee bit thick. What kind of a dress might you select for the informal evening, at the formal dinner or to go to the theater or to a cafe?

Well, I hope you would select a dress on the order of this one that I chose to illustrate for today. Because the top of brilliants would flatter your face and arms and neck, and the line from the point of the decollete to the skirt would flatter and minimize the thickness of your waist. And because the black velvet of the dress could be steamed out after each wearing right in your own bathroom, and because the dress is a New York model from a famous New York store which is known for its good taste and elegance. So-o-o-o!

Au revoir!

What Today Means to You

"CAPRICORN."

IF January 5 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10 a. m. to 11:50 a. m., from 4 p. m. to 5:30 p. m., and from 9:40 p. m. to 11 p. m. The danger periods are from 7:40 a. m. to 9 a. m. and from 2:30 p. m. to 3:45 p. m.

Disturbing events are forecast for January 5, which will serve to jolt people out of apathy into action, out of a frivolous view of life into a sober, steady frame of mind. Present worries may veil from you, for the moment, the real brightness which surrounds you.

Children born on this January 5 will have rollicking natures and nervous temperaments. They will be bubbling over with enthusiasm and will never fail through lack of trying. They will be generous, affectionate, sincere, loyal and democratic.

Life to you, if born January 5, is a most serious, difficult, disappointing affair—and all because of your pessimism. Your expectations are too low to deserve high returns. Nothing so guarantees defeat as defeatism. You are in constant worry about what is or is not going to happen, yet you have the courage to tackle anything face to face without turning a hair. In a crisis you are splendid—all your reserve forces are brought to the front, your mind is clear, and you see things in their true light.

You have refined tastes and high ideals. It will be difficult for you to live up to some of your ideals, but you will never stoop to low associates. Environment means a great deal to one of your temperament. It is hard for you to throw off its effects or to rise above mental or spiritual depressions.

You are systematic, painstaking and generally accurate in your work. You are not precipitous and will not be driven or hurried. You have the qualifications of an able assistant, but lack the self-confidence necessary for work on your own. You could be original if you dared. Matrimony will not bring you the happiness desired, as you will probably look for too much perfection in your mate.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

ARE YOUR EARS MOLDY?

THE humble toothpick has no standing in polite society. He may serve a useful purpose, but social arbiters put thumbs down on him. He is in further disrepute because he stands charged with responsibility for toothpick ear. The fact that so many accept the term and freely use it is proof that he has been convicted of the charge in the public mind, even though the case has not been tried and the evidence submitted.

Now it is proposed to change the name, or to drop it. The basic condition in what has been called toothpick ear it is proposed to call mold ear. Molds grow very nicely in the secretions of the external ear canal. One group of these belongs to the family which cause the black and green mold that grows on old bread—the Aspergillus family. If the ear canal fills rapidly with a secretion, and frequent removal is necessary, it is probable that much of the supposed excretion is Aspergillus. If the secretion is black, it is due to the black Aspergillus. It may be yellowish or grayish, being in one of those cases due to one of the two other species of the mold.

So long as the plant does nothing more than make a greasy, grayish mass that rolls easily into balls no direct harm is done. If the ear is scratched with a toothpick, the Aspergillus gets into the scratch and causes what was known as toothpick ear. If the subject goes in swimming and gets water into the ears, there is a pretty good chance that the mold will set up an infection of the canal or drum. That is one reason for ear trouble after swimming.

Or, if the ear canals are washed out, or oil is poured into them, infection and inflammation may be set up. It happens every little while that some one puts drops of oil in the ears and stirs up far more than trouble enough to offset whatever good he may have hoped to accomplish. Most of the eczema of the ear canals is due to this growth of mold plus irritation, washing or greasing.

Molds in the ear are much less prevalent than ringworms on the toes, but there is much more of this trouble than people think. When a group of Florida physicians were discussing the subject recently, it developed that many of them had seen a good many cases of it. It is especially in evidence in warm, wet weather and among swimmers because it causes more active trouble in such circumstances.

The standard wash for the canal, to rid it of mold, is 1 per cent salicylic acid in 70 per cent alcohol. Dr. L. L. Whiddon, of Fort Pierce, has found a 5 per cent solution of sodium thiosulphate as an ear wash to be satisfactory. Dr. K. C. Ingram, of Orlando, used a 2 per cent solution of mercurochrome.

It is probable that whatever will kill the parasite in ringworm of the foot will kill mold in the ear canal. But it is safer to experiment with the feet than it is with the ears.

THERE IS SOME DANGER.

J. A. M. writes: 1. I have been told that boiling tobacco, then straining it through a cloth, when applied to the scalp, is good for the hair—both to make it grow and to darken it. Do you think the nicotine absorbed through the scalp would poison the system?

2. If not, do you think it is good for the hair?

REPLY.

1. There is some danger, but it is not great.
2. No.

FRANCES M'DONALD

IN MEMORIAM.

DEAR Frances McDonald: I am answering your "model husband" appeal. I married one. We were married 30 years before he went on the eternal journey and never once do I remember a discourteous word from him. I can not say he helped with the housework, but he probably would have done so, if I had wanted him to.

How did I get him? Just by being congenial and friendly and interested in the things he liked to talk about. (Also by being pretty.) How did I keep him a model? Same method as No. 1. And by loving him truly and devotedly. Am I glad I married him? Miss McDonald, I am the only woman in the world I ever envied. And how did I meet him and select him in the first place?

Well, I met him in the business world. I was ambitious, and he confided that he was also ambitious. I listened to his ambitions and dropped mine. He was very intelligent and rather good looking. (All clean cut, intelligent men are. I don't like "handsome" men.) I liked him at once. I had one great advantage. The other girl in the office had a "temperamental" temper. I had temperament, but not temper. When she was ugly to me, I was sorry for her and kind (not catty). Every man in the place was ready to fight for her. I only wanted one and I married him and lived happily ever after.

SUCCESSFUL MARRIAGE.

Dear Frances McDonald:

I wonder if it is permissible to cite a perfect husband who has gone on? A tender-hearted gentleman who gave his whole soul to his little family and to making life more bearable for every one who crossed his path. I can recall a snowy morning 20 years ago. I was preparing griddle cakes in a cheery kitchen. He was supposed to be reading his paper. Suddenly there was the draught of a quickly opened door and my husband was flying to the assistance of the elderly next-door neighbor whose clothes line had snapped, dragging her clean wash to the ground. We hardly knew her. But as I watched from the window, my then newly acquired husband helping that woman get her troubles straightened out, I knew that I had married the right man. And what love I poured out on him when he came in from his good deed. I will never forget how sheepish he looked. He was afraid I would think he should not have done what he did.

Well, his whole life was like that. A child with a toothache, or a friend with a heartache, he felt and helped. We were married 24 years, raised three handsome, courteous, successful sons and five years ago he went on to wait for us wherever such spirits go. I had no part in making him the perfect man and husband that he was. It was a matter of home training in his case. His father and mother were as happily married as we were.

May I suggest that the failure of younger men today to make good husbands is due to the carelessness with which they are reared? They are not taught to consider women, or to feel that their greatest aim should be to make one woman supremely proud and happy. They are permitted to grow to manhood without a man's viewpoint or understanding. And they miss the greatest of all joys—a woman's adoration.

GARDENS

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

PLEASE tell me how to care for my geraniums in order to have them bloom in the winter. They are large, sturdy plants, but they did not bloom at all this summer. Also please tell me whether an African violet will grow in a sunny window?

MRS. CLARENCE S.

As your geraniums did not bloom in the summer, they should bloom in the winter. They should have been lifted carefully before frost and potted so that the roots were disturbed as little as possible. They should now be in rather small pots and kept under rather than overwatered. They demand all the sun you can give them. African violets are well suited to any sunny window. Remember that they demand a great deal of fresh air and a daily drink.

I have two evergreen trees, which, when I purchased them, looked alike. One is now quite pointed and the other is low and squatty. Why is this? The tops of both are green and the lower branches brown. What winter care should I givee these shrubs? Also please tell me the name of the annual, four o'clock?

AN OLD READER.

Your evergreens are evidently different varieties. The lower branches may be turning brown as a result of too much or too little shade. Soil conditions may be unsuitable or they may be getting too much or too little water. If you send me the names of the varieties, I can tell you their exact care. The last two seasons have been unusually hard on dwarf evergreens because the fall months were so dry. Unless well watered, the plants went into winter with dry roots. Evergreens placed on the north side of a building, which is considerably exposed, should be protected during the winter whenever the climate is severe. They may be protected by placing boards, straw or a burlap screen halfway around the exposed side of the plant. This procedure is especially necessary in newly planted specimens. Before the ground became frozen the plants should have been thoroughly watered at the roots. The botanical name of the four o'clock is mirabilis jalapa.

Please tell me what to do for little flies that are attacking my fern.

MRS. H. K. L.

Better spray the plant with cold water. You can apply this with a whiskbroom if you haven't a hand syringe.

Will you please tell me how long it takes to propagate a cyclamen seed. I have the seed and want to try to grow it.

ALICE M.

Eighteen months.

Please tell me whether it is possible to grow roses in a sunny window in a room that is well ventilated. I have tried three winters and I always fail.

MARGARET H. L.

It is never practical to attempt to grow roses in winter unless you have the facilities of a greenhouse or conservatory. These plants demand more sun than they can possibly get in any window.

Mrs. J. O. Y.—These small, white tufts on your fern are the first stages of the development of scale. Better spray the plant with nicotine solution.

Fewer, Less Severe Colds With "Colds-Control" Plan

HIGH COSTS REDUCED

Relief from much of the burden imposed by colds is now available in every home. The Vick Plan for better "Control-of-Colds" lessens the number, the severity and the duration of colds. It reduces the family's "Colds-Tax" in money, loss of time and health.

A New Vick Discovery.

This Plan has been perfected by the makers of Vicks VapoRub—made possible by Vicks Nose & Throat Drops. Based on a new idea for "preventing" colds, this new Vick formula is an ideal companion to VapoRub, the modern way of "treating" colds. Used together, they aid and supplement each other in the Vick Plan for better "Control-of-Colds," which follows:

1—Before a Cold Starts.

Watch yourself whenever you have been exposed to anything that you know is apt to give you a cold, such as—

Contact with others having fresh colds—crowds, stuffy, ill-ventilated rooms, public places—a night on a Pullman or a dusty automobile ride—sudden changes in temperature—inhaling smoke, dust, gases—excesses in living, such as over-eating, smoking or drinking, which reduce body resistance—after a hard day when you are over-tired.

Then—if you feel that stuffy, sneezy irritation of the nasal passages, Nature's usual signal that a cold is coming on—use Vicks Nose Drops at once—just a few drops up each nostril. Repeat every hour or so if needed. This will prevent many colds by stopping them before they get beyond the nose and throat—where most colds start.

2—After a Cold Starts.

At night, massage the throat and chest well with Vicks VapoRub (now available in white "stainless" form, if you prefer). Spread on thick and cover with warm flannel. Leave the bed-clothing loose around the neck so that the medicated vapors arising can be inhaled all night long.

If the air-passages are badly clogged with mucus, melt some VapoRub in a bowl of hot water and inhale the steaming vapors for several minutes. (If there is a cough, you will like the new Vick Cough Drop—actually medicated with ingredients of Vicks VapoRub.)

During the day—any time, any place—use Vicks Nose Drops every few hours as needed. This gives you full 24-hour treatment and without the risks of too much internal "dosing," which so often upsets digestion—especially of children.

Trial Offer Guarantee.

Every druggist in the United States is offering Vicks Nose & Throat Drops and Vicks VapoRub on the following trial guarantee:

Use together as directed in the Vick Plan for better "Control-of-Colds." Unless you are delighted with results, your druggist is authorized to refund your money.

C. W. DARR FUNERAL WILL BE HELD TODAY

Organizations With Which He Was Affiliated to Be Represented.

With members of the various organizations of which he was a member attending as friends, rather than in a body, due to the wishes of his widow, the funeral of Charles W. Darr, prominent Washington attorney and civic leader, will be held this morning at 9 o'clock.

Requiem mass will be said in the Church of the Blessed Sacrament, Chevy Chase Circle, followed by private interment at Laurel, Md.

The local jurisdiction of the Knights of Columbus, of which Mr. Darr was past State deputy, will be represented at the funeral, as will the general assembly of the fourth degree, Knights of Columbus, anad Keane Council, No. 383, Knights of Columbus.

Organizations Represented.

It had at first been planned to have each order attend in a body, with ceremonies at the church honoring the memory of Mr. Darr. These plans were canceled because of the wishes of his widow, Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Sefton Darr, who expressed the desires that the services be as private as possible.

Other associations in which Mr. Darr held membership will also be represented at the funeral. They include the District Bar Association, the Association of Oldest Inhabitants and the Washington Chamber of Commerce.

The following committee of the Washington Chamber of Commerce was appointed yesterday to attend the services: Martin A. Leese, John A. Eckert, Walter C. Balderson, Daniel J. Callahan, George A. G. Wood, Thomas P. Littlepage, William C. Miller, Creed F. Fulton, Miss M. Pearl McCall, Dr. George C. Havenner, Merritt O. Chance, Gen. Anton Stephan, Isaac Gans, A. The District Bar Association appointed the following committee to be present at the services: Charles A. Douglas, Walter C. Balderson, John E. Laskey, Roger J. Whiteford, Julius I. Peyser, William C. Sullivan, John J. Hamilton, William E. Leahy, Joseph A. Burkart, Lucien H. Van Doren and H. Clay Espey.

Europe and Africa Swept by Floods

Scotland, Austria, Reich, Transvaal Fight Water; Zululand in Drought.

London, Jan. 4 (A.P.).—Floods covered wide sections from middle Europe to South Africa tonight as dwellers of the two countries suffered from freakish weather.

In Europe, abnormal rainfall and snow, melting after a sudden rise in the temperature, have inundated hundreds of square miles. In South Africa the midlands of the Cape of Good Hope Province were under some of the worst floods ever experienced, while Zululand suffered from a devastating drought.

Austria, south central and western Germany and southwest Scotland have borne the brunt of weather misfortunes in Europe, and tonight they told of rising rivers, ruined crops, delayed communications and great material damage.

The Rivers Steyr and Enns, in Austria, were at full flood. Inhabitants of the town of Steyr, long suffering from adverse industrial conditions, were reported to be eating dogs. A rapid rise in the Danube tonight caused anxiety.

Sudden rising of the River Clyde and its tributaries caused severe floods in Scotland. Thousands of inhabitants of the valleys had to remain indoors, since their homes were islands in a waste of water.

The Ayreshire District, immortalized in the verses of Robert Burns, was virtually submerged, with 120 families homeless at Kilmarnock.

GIRL IS FIRST IN CONTEST

wires were kept busy yesterday with inquiries from prospective entrants.

Mrs. Lowell Fletcher Hobart, president general of the National Society Daughters of the American Revolution, said: "I wish to offer The Washington Post my sincere congratulations on the George Washington Essay Contest it has started for the boys and girls of the National Capital and surrounding territory.

"It is one of the best things that The Washington Post could have done to honor George Washington and to bring the early history of our country and the virtues of the early patriots to the attention of the young people of today. They will imbibe patriotism from their researches into the life of Washington. The Daughters of the American Revolution are, naturally, especially delighted over this contest, because it falls in with their program for patriotic education. I urge all the young people in the families of members of the D. A. R. in Washington and surrounding territory to participate in this essay contest, by all means."

Mrs. Hobart's kindly words of approbation for the contest were echoed throughout the day by other members of patriotic and civic organizations in the city, who feel that The Post Washington Essay Contest is a concrete move toward the proper observance of the bicentennial in Washington and its vicinity.

The substantial cash prizes offered by The Washington Post to winners in the prize contest were spoken of appreciatively by many who commented upon the movement.

The prizes may well be the starting point of the winner's careers, and help to start funds for their education. But uppermost in the minds of all is the thought that such a contest will bring to the attention of the young people of the community a true realization of the sterling worth of Washington's character and his leading place in American history.

The attention of all who plan to enter The Post Washington Essay Contest is called to the new daily column in The Washington Post entitled "First in the Hearts of His Countrymen." This column will run each day in The Washington Post and give interesting news about the progress of the bicentennial celebration, not only in this city but elsewhere, and also striking facts from the life of Washington and his times. No student planning to enter the Essay Contest should fail to read this column in The Washington Post daily.

From Mr. Walter MacPeek, author of "George Washington as a Boy," came this stimulating letter to the Essay Editor of The Post:

"I am delighted to learn of your Essay Contest on the episodes of Washington's life.

"Certainly the thousands of young people have a real adventure ahead of them getting better acquainted with this relatively unknown hero of ours. Best wishes."

The $1,000 in cash prizes are available to boys and girls up to 18 years of age, pupils in public, private and parochial schools of the District of Columbia, Montgomery and Prince Georges Counties, Maryland; Fairfax and Arlington Counties, Virginia, and the City of Alexandria, Va., for the best 500-word essay written on George Washington.

Many applications came in for the booklet giving salient facts in the life of George Washington, furnished free of charge by The Washington Post to applicants who intend to enter essays, through the special courtesy of Director Sol Bloom of the George Washington Bicentennial Commission.

These booklets are attractive and will assist all in writing their essays. Clip the coupon out of The Washington Post today and send for your copy at once.

The distinguished committee of judges who will pick the winners in the contest will be announced shortly. The essays are to be judged on their subject matter, originality of thought, neatness of preparation and general excellence.

Address all inquiries regarding the contest to The Post Washington Essay Editor. These inquiries will be answered in the news story appearing in The Post daily. All essays will be acknowledged in the news colums of The Post as received.

All essays must be signed with the full name, age, address and school of the contestants. In addition, they must bear the countersign of a parent, teacher or guardian. Any essays arriving without this countersign will be barred. No essay should be longer than 500 words. Write or typewrite on one side of paper only, and number succeeding sheets in proper order. The contest begins at once, and all essays must be delivered to the Essay Editor of The Post by midnight of March 14, or postmarked not later than that date.

Vote Today to Pick Successor to Hale

Bartlett and Rogers in New Hampshire Race for House Seat.

Manchester, N. H., Jan. 4 (A.P.).—Opposing candidates for the congressional seat formerly held by the late Representative Fletcher W. Hale, of the First New Hampshire District, wound up their campaigns tonight on the eve of a special election tomorrow to fill the vacancy.

Voters in the district, the larger of two in the State, will decide by selection either of former Gov. John H. Bartlett, Republican nominee, or William N. Rogers, Democrat, whether the slim margin of Democratic control in the National House is to be strengthened or weakened.

The close of the campaign brought to an end one of the hardest fought congressional contests waged in New Hampshire in recent years.

Although the district itself is considered Republican, it has been represented by a Democrat and Rogers was the last of his party to hold the seat. Up to the time of his death last year Representative Hale had occupied the place since March, 1925.

Bartlett has expressed himself as willing to vote for a referendum on prohibition while Rogers has favored repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

Heiress Goes On Trial In Sweetheart's Death

Flint, Mich., Jan. 4 (U.P.).—Sitting at ease in luxurious furs, Helen Joy Morgan, heiress accused of killing Leslie Casteel, her garage mechanic sweetheart, during a springtime tryst, went on trial for murder today in a tiny courtroom jammed with spectators, who tore a 100-pound door from its hinges in their anxiety for seats.

The attractive 27-year-old defendant, facing a maximum penalty of life in prison, watched impassively a Circuit Judge James S. Parker directed selection of thirteen jurors, one of whom will be an alternate. The jury is expected to be completed early tomorrow, and the State then will present its evidence.

DAWES IS HOPEFUL OF GENEVA RESULTS

Arrives in New York on Way Here to Confer With Stimson on Plans.

New York, Jan. 4 (A.P.).—Expressing hope for a satisfactory outcome of the disarmament conference in Geneva next month, Gen. Charles G. Dawes, Ambassador to Great Britain, arrived on the liner Europa today. He will confer with Secretary of State Stimson on the attitude of the American delegation to Geneva, which he will head.

Smoking his famous pipe with the drooping bowl and displaying some of his wonted terseness, he brushed aside all questions and reached into an inside pocket to pull out a statement for the press, a statement he declined to amplify.

"Ridiculous!" was the word he used when a reporter asked something about a possible "presidential boom."

Expects to Be Here Today.

He planned, he said, to start for Washington tonight, probably on the midnight train. If he had a chance before sailing for the conference, he might go to Chicago for a visit.

"I have come to confer with the State Department on disarmament matters and for a preliminary meeting at Washington of the American delegation to the disarmament conference which will begin at Geneva February 2," said his typed statement.

"Although present international problems are necessarily being approached through succeeding conferences they together constitute a common problem for the world.

"All the Nations in these times of general economic depression have a vital common interest in the restoration of normal credit and trade conditions, both domestic and international, and in lessening of the burden of armament.

Hopeful of Parley Results.

"Circumstances like the present contribute to the correct sensing by the people of each nation as to what actually is in their own best self-interest.

"When as at present their own best self-interest is so greatly involved in the solution of what is an international common problem, international conferences are the most likely to achieve constructive results.

"I am hopeful therefore of a satisfactory outcome of these conferences."

During their talks, Mr. Stimson and Mr. Dawes will give a final polishing to a draft plan of the American attitude on points expected to arise at the conference.

French-Soviet Treaty Progressing.

Paris, Jan. 4 (A.P.).—Pertinax, political writer for the Echo de Paris, said today that negotiations with a view to arranging a commercial treaty between France and Soviet Russia are progressing rapidly despite assertions in other quarters that they are at a standstill.

(This column is dedicated to George Washington in the bicentennial of his birth.)

THE MILITARY RULES OF GEORGE WASHINGTON.

"1. NEVER attack a position in front which you can gain by turning.

"2. Ch rges of calvary should be made if possible on the flanks of infantry.

"3. The first qualification of a soldier is fortitude under fatigue and privation. Courage is only the second. Hardship, poverty, and actual want are the soldier's best school.

"4. Nothing is so important in war as an undivided command.

"5. Never do what the enemy wishes you to do.

"6. A general of ordinary talent, occupying a bad position and surprised by superior forces, seeks safety in retreat; but a great captain supplies all deficiencies by his courage and marches boldy to meet the attack."

WASHINGTON HUNTED ON HOOVER CAMP SITE.

George Washington, at the age of 16, often fished on the banks of the Rapidan and hunted wild turkeys on the ground now occupied by President Hoover's rest camp and summer lodge, near Orange, Va.

In March, 1748, according to the division of information and publication of the George Washington Bicentennial Commission, young Washington, in company with George Fairfax, started on his first journey beyond the Blue Ridge from Belvoir, to help survey land owned by Lord Fairfax.

They traveled 40 miles the first day, March 11, 1748. Starting from Belvoir, they crossed the Occoquan Ferry, striking into the old road leading from the head of Quantico to Prince William Courthouse on Cedar Run, and traveled west to George Neavil's small country tavern. On the following day they met James Genn, the surveyor of Prince William County, who was to help them get started on their surveying expedition for Lord Fairfax.

Accompanied by Mr. Genn, they rode over the Blue Ridge, following the Shenandoah River to Capt. John Ashby's place, who kept the original Shenandoah Ferry where the Winchester road still crosses that river. From here they worked their way to the head spring of the Potomac River, following the trail through what is now Fauquier over the route subsequently adopted for the Winchester road, and crossed the river at Ashby's Run.

JOHN QUINCY ADAMS SAID OF WASHINGTON:

"Washington, the warrior and legislator! In war contending, by the wager of battle, for the independence of his country and for the freedom of the human race; ever manifesting amidst its horrors, by precept and example, his reverence for the laws of peace and the tenderest sympathies of humanity; in peace soothing the ferocious spirit of discord among his countrymen into harmony and union; and giving to that very sword, now presented to his country, a charm more potent than that attributed in ancient times to the lyre of Orpheus."

AUDIENCE AT OPERA ENJOYS RIGOLETTO

Cosmopolitans Make Auspicious Debut for Week of Fine Music.

The Cosmopolitan Grand Opera Company of New York made its Washington debut last night at the New National Theater in a creditable performance of Verdi's great opera, "Rigoletto." The selection of this opera as the premier presentation in Washington was in itself a test of the abilities of the opera and it proved a splendid vehicle to introduce to the National Capital a new aggregation of operatic singers that appears to have a future.

The performance was given under the local management of Mrs. Wilson-Greene and it brought back to this city a conductor familiar to many operagoers here, Jacques Samossoud, whose masterly leadership last night was one of the principal causes of the success of the presentation.

"Rigoletto" is one of the most popular of the grand operas and filled with arias and choruses known to all who love good music. Last night's company, for the most part composed of young singers, made the most of the musical opportunities. The principals were well chosen, fell into the parts with ease, and the chorus and ensemble work was of real beauty.

Dorothy Dickerson Star.

Dorothy Dickerson, a relative of Vice President Curtis, who appeared as Gilda, was easily the star of the presentation, although pressed closely for honors by Dimitri Onofrei as the Duke, while Joseph Royer was a convincing Rigoletto. In the duet with Gilda, one of the surprisingly beautiful compositions of all grand opera, the blend of the voices of Gilda and Rigoletto brought out all the perfect harmony and musical peace designed by the composer.

Miss Dickerson deserves more than honorable mention also for her spirited singing of her great song, "Caro Nome." The applause which followed this aria almost stopped the show. Miss Dickerson brought the histrionic powers at her command into full flower in the tragic final scene.

The mellow tones of Dimitri Onofrei, his admirable acting and tenderness in the love passages won his audience quickly. In his love song with its delirious waltz rhythm there was a chance for the display of real vocal ability, and Onofrei made the most of it.

Joseph Royer as Rigoletto had his moments of vocal achievement last night as well. His acting was, of course, as much to be taken into account as his singing and here, too, he was satisfactory. Especially in the third and fourth acts Mr. Royer portrayed the mad jester, the crazed father in a most realistic manner.

The other principals in the cast, Amund Sjovik, as Sparafucile; Alice Lesseler, as Maddalena; Alice Gall, as Giovanna; Vladimir Dubinsky, as Monterone; Luigi Dalle Molle, as Marullo; Erancesco Curci, in the role of Borsa; Feodor Golikoff, as Ceprano; Marian Bushe, as the Countess, and Helen Eisler, as a Page, all gave good account of their roles.

Orchestra Also Scores.

In "Rigoletto" the orchestra has a considerable portion of the burden laid upon its shoulders and, under Jacques Samossoud's leadership last night, his musical men told the story instrumentally as vividly as it was being given vocally on the stage. The effect of Mr. Samossoud's training was apparent and only now and then did the orchestral accompaniment become a little too noticeable in its support of the singers.

One of the features of the last act was the singing of the famous quartet, the most rousing, grandiose, tuneful and heart-tearing piece of four-part singing of the immortal classics of opera. Despite its multitude of presentations it never is hackneyed for the real opera lover.

The work of the ensemble, the mounting and costuming of the opera all were adequate. The audience was not overlarge, which was too bad, for those who stayed at home missed some really good grand opera and a chance to become acquainted with a fresh production of an old operatic favorite by a group of ambitious artists who dare to keep at their beloved profession in the midst of a Nation-wide depression.

They need the encouragement of a large audience for every other opera to be presented here this week. Music lovers will do well to give them this incentive for this may be the only outstanding presentation of grand opera here this season, now that the Metropolitan Grand Opera Company will not appear in Washington.

Tonight's opera will be another Verdi favorite, "Il Trovatore."

Inquest Is Slated In Fatal Car Crash

Driver of Other Suitland Road Auto to Be Held Under $1,000 Bond.

An inquest will be held in Marlboro, Md., at 8 o'clock next Monday into the death of Mrs. Edna Caywood, of Boulevard Heights, Md., who was killed in an automobile accident on Suitland road Sunday night. Meantime, James Hall, colored, of Suitland, driver of the other car, will be placed under bond of $1,000 pending the verdict of the coroner's jury, Judge Harry L. Anderson said last night.

Mrs. Caywood was a passenger in a machine driven by her son-in-law, Harry J. Burch, also of Boulevard Heights. His car and the one driven by Hall collided head-on. Burch and his two children, as well as the four colored persons in the other automobile, were injured. The only serious injury, a broken leg, was received by "Buzz" Payne, colored.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL.

ETHEL BARRYMORE, the so-called "princess of the theater's royal family," resumes her country-wide tour in Philadelphia this week after a brief respite planned to enable her to spend Christmas in New York with her children.

Following the Philadelphia engagement, Miss Barrymore will play a series of New York suburban theaters and then will start West again, paying brief visits to Washington, Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Columbus, Indianapolis and Louisville Thence into the Southwest.

This season the celebrated "first lady" of the theater is making one of the most remarkable tours that any actress ever has attempted, having started it last July on the Pacific Coast.

She is playing Sheridan's great satirical comedy, "The School for Scandal" and is desirous of exhibiting this theatrical masterpiece to as many different cities as the time allotted for her tour will permit, which—as in the case of Walter Hampden in "Cyrano"—is causing her to limit her engagements everywhere to a minimum of time.

Pursuing a thought that was suggested in this department's Sabbath comment, there is more vaudeville on tap in the National Capital this week than there ever was in any single week even when B. F. Keith's was in its heyday as one of the foremost two-a-day houses in America.

If you will take the trouble to scan the programs and count up the big-time acts currently on view—and I certainly have no present intention of doing it again for you—you will find that there are about two of the normal old-time Keith eight-act bills in our midst.

Does that signalize the decline and fall of vodevil, I ask you?

She may not have been here with the Ziegfeld "Follies," but we are going to be permitted to enjoy Ruth Etting's torch singing first-hand, just the same. She comes to the Fox Theater on Friday as a special added attraction.

The Messers Dan Totheroh, author; Guthrie McClintic, producer, and Jo Mielziner, designer of the settings, accompanied the "Distant Drums" company to Washington on Sunday and attended last night's premiere of the play that brings Pauline Lord back to the stage after an absence of two years, at the Belasco. If you scurry around among the pages of today's issue of The Post, the chances are you will find a review of "Distant Drums" somewhere. It may be right around here for all I know.

A brief but pleasant call from Colby Harriman, panjandrum of the Loew theaters in Washington, bringing me a swell, personally inscribed photograph of Conrad Nagel, who signs himself "In appreciation," although I vow I only told the truth about the man.

And that reminds me. I had intended to write a paragraph something like this today:

Afterthoughts on the visits with George E. Stone, appearing in person at the Fox: The lad seems to have been particularly pestered by the constant necessity of extricating himself from the army of "type" actors. On the stage he was for years typed as a "hoofer" and, despite an excellent singing voice, never could break into "acting parts" . . . So he formed a 50-50 partnership with another ambitious young fellow, put up his own money and took his own act out to the Coast . . . That was the break . . . Then he became typed again as a gangster and had a tougher time still getting a chance to play character parts, until after he had scored in "Cimarron" . . . Now he is untyped again and very happy . . . He is 5 feet 4 inches tall and weighs 130 . . . Wide-set brown eyes, dark hair and a smile tinged a bit with sadness . . . Mayor Jimmy Walker, of New York, is one of his close friends . . . Unmarried and, I gather, just a little bit girl shy . . . Just sent me a wire that I treasure very highly . . . Great little fellow, friends, and I wouldn't kid you.

The fifth play of the Professional Players' second subscription season at the Shubert-Belasco Theater will be "Blessed Event," featuring Roger Pryor, to be presented the first week in February. The play is a hilarious satire and Roger Pryor, ever a favorite in Washington, is splendidly cast in the leading role.

Following this piece, on February 8, Fred Stone with his daughter, Paula, will arrive in his latest musical success, "Smiling Faces." This is another of those delightful, clean, wholesome, tuneful comedies for which Fred Stone has been famous ever since those old days when it was Montgomery and Stone and they gave the theater such well-remembered musical plays as "The Wizard of Oz," "The Red Mill," "Chin Chin" and many others which will live long in the memories of all who saw them. This year Fred Stone has assembled a company of 75 players, including Lotti Loder and a beautiful ballet of Albertina Rasch dancers.

The week of February 15 will mark one of the most important dramatic events of the entire Washington season, for it will bring Ethel Barrymore as the charming Lady Teasle in Richard Brinsley Sheridan's famous comedy, "The School for Scandal." See first paragraph 'way back at the head of the procession—or maybe you have already.

Miss Marion Chace and Mr. Lester Shafer, local exponents of the Denishawn School of Dancing, are at homing this afternoon from 4:30 to 6, in their studio, 1223 Connecticut avenue, in honor of Mr. Ted Shawn, who makes his only appearance of the season at the Central High School Auditorium tonight, under the auspices of the Community Institute.

Another of the Barrymores is coming to town, too. Lionel will be seen in a personal appearance at the Palace before a great while.

And just as I was getting myself all set to do a little ne plus ultra bragging, I'm a son-of-a-gun if I didn't go and write it "1931."

THE THEATER LAST NIGHT

Into the savage wilderness that was the Oregon Trail in 1848, Mr. Totheroh has projected a little group of homesteaders, bound from Independence, Mo., to the Puget Sound country, there to establish their long dreamed of "kingdom on earth," where corn will grow to twice the height of a man's head and miracles of agriculture be made easy through the bounty of a generous God.

For three acts and four scenes we s't at the rim of their camp, pitched inside the circle of prairie schooners, first down on the plains, then up in the snow-capped mountains of Idaho, with winter fast approaching. The little band has lost its way, trying to find a short cut its guide was sure he could locate. From a distance comes the nightly beat of tom-toms as the venomous braves of the Snake Tribe draw nearer and nearer to the terror-stricken little party, whose number has been constantly depleted by death, always threatening, but still never molesting the land-granters.

One woman among all the rest lives apart from her associates, thinking strange thoughts, making incomprehensible speeches and possessed, so the others say, of the spirit of a witch. She is the wife of the captain of the wagon train, bound to him by the bonds of wedlock, not through love, but merely as a device for insuring him 300 additional acres of the richest land on the continent. She professes no love for her husband and avows none for the expedition's handsome young scout who is infatuated with her and one night accompanies her far beyond the safe limits of the wagon circle to a point where she can watch the Indians dancing to the weird beat of their incessant drums. For her, there is "a sort of call to it."

It is an unfortunate circumstance that this character in which Mr. Totheroh has centered the entire point of his story is the least developed of any in the play. The character of Eunice Wolfhill is no less bewildering to the spectator than to the other members of the long trek into the wilderness. Beyond the indication of a strange fascination exerted by the unseen drums, no index to her mental processes, no hint of her hidden dreams, no touch of her true nature is afforded until the last moment of the third act, when she surrenders herself, a living hostage, to the red men, who will accept no other price for guiding the remaining voyageurs to the haven they seek.

No Indian ever appears upon the scene. No action lifts the drama out of the placid pursuit of an abstruse and purely psychological study. What Eunice Wolfhill's motivating impulses may have been is left to the imagination of the auditor. Was she a sacrificial heroine, willing to lay all upon the altar of her devotion to her fellowmen, or was she an emotional eccentric, drawn to the red man by the freedom of his life and the frenzy of his rites? Your guess will be as valid as any that might be offered here.

As a background for this bizarre pivotal movement of plot are the trials, heartaches and petty differences of the rugged little company of pioneers, staking their future on their physical, mental and spiritual fortitude. To the tragedy of their predicament Mr. Totheroh has contrived to bring an omnipresent element of eerie suspense that is not without its quietly exciting moments. At no time is there any sudden flare of action to disturb the tranquil unfolding of an enigmatic and baffling exposition of character.

Pauline Lord in the role of Eunice Wolfhill is without opportunity to reveal the wide play of mood and emotion for which she is so eminently qualified. For two and a half of the three acts, to be very frank about it, one wonders what on earth she may be driving at—which is to say, what the author may be driving at, through the medium of her character. To the whimsicality which she brings to lines that are none too revelatory of the play's major purpose, "Distant Drums" is indebted for what few touches of humor it possesses. In the large view it is without comedy relief.

Three extraordinarily competent character studies are contributed to an extensive gallery of "types" by Beulah Bondi, Eda Heinemann and Mary Michael. Miss Bondi is the Mrs. Pike of Spartan spirit whose presence is ever a steadying influence on the others. Such brief scenes as are hers are superb in their simplicity and power. Miss Michael likewise, is tremendously effective as the young mother whose babe has been dead in her arms for three hours in the cold of the mountains, unknown to her.

Among the men, Edward Ellis, as the old guide, Quincey Briddleman, Thomas B. Findlay, last here with Irene Bordoni in "The Improper Duchess;" Edward Pawley, as Jason Allenby, Eunice's ardent lover; Arthur Hohl, as Harris Wolfhill wagonmaster, and John Ravold, the Doctor Tracy, turn in portrayals that add appreciably to the unique play's undeniable atmosphere of realism.

"Distant Drums," to be brief about it, takes Freud out into the wide open spaces!

GAYETY

"GIRLS IN BLUE." Emmett Callahan's burlesque presentation starring Billy Fields, supported by Chuck Callahan, Tiny Huff, Peggy White and Billie June Rhodes. Reviewed Monday night by William L. Wright.

To start the New Year off right, Jimmy Lake has billed the "Girls in Blue" for the opening attraction and if this show is a sample of those to come, local burlesque fans can anticipate many good things.

Ann Corio, the beautiful, was to be the guest star for this week, but complications following a tonsil operation made necessary the cancelling of her appearances for some time. However, during Miss Corio's illness, Peggy White and Billie June Rhodes, two very attractive young women, are playing in her place, and they amply compensate for the absent Ann.

At last night's performance Peggy almost stopped the show. A pleasing voice and a charming manner of presentation put this blond in solid with the boys. Miss Rhodes, a beautiful brunette, also went over big, her songs and dances being among the hit numbers of the evening.

The Bowers Sisters, Florence and Marion, appear many times, in fact almost too often, but their offerings were of such a high quality that this fault can be easily overlooked. Another blond, Tiny Huff, demonstrated a nimble pair of feet.

The comedy is in the capable hands of Billy Fields and Chuck Callahan.

FAIRFAX IS FACING EXPENDITURES CUT

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST,
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Fairfax 166.

Fairfax County, Va., is faced with a drastic curtailment of county activities during the next ten months, according to a statement of the condition of its finances submitted by County Treasurer F. W. Huddleson to the board of supervisors at its monthly meeting yesterday. This condition exists principally because of the large amount of uncollected taxes, according to the statement.

The supervisors stated that if the unpaid balance of this year's taxes and those delinquent last year were paid the curtailment would not be necessary. There is a possibility that when the present funds are exhausted no more county warants will be issued. The statement showed that there was approximately $40,500 in the county treasury and approximately $25,000 on the delinquent list. In the general county road fund there was $21,784.53, with taxes to be collected amounting to approximately $45,000. Other funds were proportionately small.

Actual Expense $38,000.

Figures introduced at the meeting showed that the actual expenses which the county can not legally escape, including salaries fixed by law, judiciary expenses, poor relief and contractual obligations during the next ten months, will amount to approximately $38,000 to be paid out of the county levy. To economize and reduce expenses to the minimum without having to disrupt the county's highway force, the board voted to cut by 10 per cent the salaries of all in that department and the county road police making more than $100 a month.

Two new members, J. Wallace Carper, from Providence District, and W. H. Ellmore, from Dranesville District, assumed their official duties. W. F. Reid, of Mount Vernon District, chairman of the board for many years and its senior member, was reelected chairman. Salaries of all county officials and employes under direct supervision of the board were made the same as last year, pending preparation of the county budget.

Fiscal Year Change.

A resolution was passed asking State Senator-elect John W. Rust and Delegate-elect Edmund H. Allen, of Fairfax County, to support a measure in the State Legislature which would make the fiscal year and the calendar year coincide.

The board refused the request of offfcials of the Lee Boulevard Association to indorse action in obtaining right of way through the county.

The board removed another obstacle in the way of locating the American terminal of the proposed transatlantic Zeppelin Corporation at Hybla Valley in Mount Vernon District. Under the State law, the board is empowered to exempt from taxation for a period of five years any industry wishing to locate in the county. Such a resolution was unanimously adopted.

Frank Gillingham appeared and protested the award for condemnation of the land and asked that commissioners be appoined to reappraise the land. The board appointed George White, J. M. Springman, John F. Davis, W. E. Demory and B. F. Nevitt.

Dr. H. G. Grant, of the State Health Department, of Richmond, appeared before the board and said the health work of the State and county should not conflict with the practice of local physicians.

Court Says Defendant Was Drunk at Hearing

Said to have been intoxicated at his hearing on charges of storebreaking, Melvin Palmer, of Seat Pleasant, Md., was sent to the Marlboro Jail last night by Harmon O. Acuff, mayor of the town, charged with being drunk. He is being held for the grand jury on the storebreaking count.

Palmer and Frank Moran were arrested Sunday after an attempt had been made to break into the Atlantic & Pacific store in Seat Pleasant. Palmer later obtained his release on bond of $200. Moran also was held for the grand jury on the storebreaking charge. Bond for both was fixed at $500.

ARLINGTON BAILIFF DISCUSSION SETTLED

BUREAU OF THE POST,
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

The county board of Arlington County declined to approve the recommendation of Judge B. M. Hedrick, of the county court, that the bailiff's salary be fixed at $175 a month and last night, upon motion of John C. Gall, fixed the pay at $2 per diem.

The debate became spirited when Judge Hedrick appeared before the board asking that the salary be fixed. Fred A. Gosnell, taking the lead in the discussion, suggested that a man from Sheriff Field's office be designated, which would result in no additional expense to the county. This at first did not appear to meet with the approval of Judge Hedrick.

Sheriff Fields said that if there is no more county court than there has been police court in Arlington County during the past eight years it could easily be handled by one of his men. The sheriff stated that it was entirely within the power of the judge to name the bailiff, but it was the duty of the board to name the salary. Sheriff Fields said that in most cases the court is over in half an hour. He could not, of course, say how long the civil cases would last.

Reporting on the question of what procedure should be followed in the collection of delinquent real estate taxes, Commonwealth's Attorney Lawrence Douglas pointed out that he felt an amendment to the bill of complaint now before the courts should be sought. He stated that he understood that an appeal will be taken in cases now before the court and that attorneys in the matter have until February 27.

Need for extension of water mains in the Lee Heights section of the county was made by M. Q. MacDonald, president of the Lee Heights Citizens Association, who declared out of 37 homes there were 13 homes where the wells are dry and have been so for months. The condition is becoming serious and is most unsanitary.

BETHESDA CHAMBER STARTS POWER QUIZ

Tydings and Lewis Will Be Asked Why Rates Have Not Been Reduced.

Senator Millard E. Tydings and Representative David J. Lewis, of Maryland, will be asked why electric current consumers of nearby Maryland have not received the substantial reduction in rates which the company had proposed announcing January 1, in a letter authorized last night by the Bethesda Chamber of Commerce.

The letter was authorized in a resolution proposed by Samuel E. Stonebraker at a meeting of the chamber held in the Bethesda County Building. Mr. Stonebraker informed the chamber that a high official of the electric company had told him that the reduction in rates was not forthcoming because of the attempt by the Public Utilities Commission of Washington to have the consent decree set aside and force a complicated schedule on the company, one of the features of which probably would mean increased rates for Maryland instead of decreased rates.

The chamber also instructed its delegates to the Montgomery County Civic Federation to carry the matter before the federation for action.

Letters From Congress Members.

The secretary of the chamber read letters from Senator Tydings, Representative Lewis and Senator Phillips Lee Goldsborough, all of whom declared they would take careful cognizance of the chamber's protest against the Mapes bill. Senator Tydings said: "Please be assured that this bill will not pass the Senate without thorough study and consideration. It will also be amended, and as I am at present advised I expect to oppose the entire bill."

Senator Goldsborough said: "I am inclined to think that many radical changes will be made in it by the Senate committee on the District of Columbia before it is reported to the Senate for action. * * * Inasmuch as this proposed legislation affects so many residents of Maryland who are engaged in business in the District of Columbia, you may be assured that it will have my careful consideration and best attention when it comes before the Senate."

McFadden Action Praised.

Representative Lewis declared that he was in executive session with the ways and means committee considering the moratorium when the Mapes bill was acted on, but that had he been on the floor of the House he would have opposed the clauses affecting Maryland residents and that he had informed Senator Tydings of the situation and intended to "bend every effort for the good of the residents of Maryland."

S. H. Miller presented a resolution commending the action of Representative Louis T. McFadden in opposing debt cancellation and which would commit the chamber to determined opposition to any cancellation of war debts. The resolution was referred to the board of directors.

$750.00 Cash Offered For Name of Movie Actress

Reward Will Be Paid Everyone Who Submits Most Suitable Name

From Hollywood comes an extraordinary announcement. A movie actress is in need of a name, and $750.00 in cash will be paid for the best suggestion. You can give her yours, or any other name you think of. It may mean $750.00 to you.

This movie actress, whom you have probably seen on the screen of your favorite motion picture theater, is the beautiful Helen Mann. Like most of the stars, she prefers to use a name other than her own, and in order to help her obtain it, $750.00 in cash is offered to anyone who is quick in sending in the name selected. Miss Mann's publicity director says, "Most any name may win." It may be your very own, a name of a friend or relative, or a coined name made up by you. Readers of this announcement are urged to send their suggestions for a name at once, because $250.00 extra will be given the winner if name is mailed and postmarked before January 10, 1932. Just make it easy to pronounce and easy to remember. But send it right away, or you may be late for the promptness prize.

All entries must be sent to the Publicity Director's office, E. A. Williams, Studio A825, 1023 N. Sycamore Ave., Hollywood, California. Only one suggestion for a name should be submitted by each contestant. Everyone is invited to submit a name, and in case of ties, duplicate awards will be given. Officials say that any name may win the $750.00, even if submitted on a post card or scrap of paper. If you can use $750.00, here is an opportunity to get it. Send your suggestion at once.—Adv.

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

WHEN the old legs begin to balk and Joe Judge surrenders his baseball uniform to the unconditional terms of Daddy Time, whether it be the battle regalia of the Washington Club that he has worn for 16 years or the emblemed suit of some other team, the Nats' first baseman can reflect with great satisfaction upon his baseball past.

Judge's days with the Washington Club are not exactly numbered but he is on the market with no bidders. Manager Walter Johnson and the front office of the Washington Club have expressed themselves as well satisfied with the performance of young Joe Kuhel last year and are prepared to rely on Kuhel in the 1932 campaign.

If this department remembers rightly, Kuhel is the tenth first-baseman acquired by the Washington Club to give battle to Judge in the competition for the first base job. A long and notable list of Judge's rivals preceded Kuhel in futile attempts to dislodge the veteran, who has taken care of the first base duties so nobly both in the field and at the plate.

The first to give serious competition to Judge was Frank Brower, in the dim, dark days of 1921 and 1922, but all of Brower's heavy hitting could not offset Judge's general superiority and effectiveness. But to this day, having survived each separate challenge, Judge rates the competition given him by Brower as the most serious he ever encountered.

Mule Shirley came up from the Southern league in 1924 hailed as a slugger and finished performer in the field. He was released in midseason in 1925 after playing only substitute roles. Joe Harris took up the challenge in 1925, but was relegated to the outfield by Judge's unimpeachable play.

The next season saw George Sisler, released as playing manager of the Browns, hailed as the man who would succeed the venerable Joseph. Sisler was released shortly after the start of the season, outclassed by the continued brilliance of Judge, whose predicted decline failed to set in.

Art Shires couldn't win the job from Judge two seasons ago, and in odd moments a lesser list attempted the same task without success. Included among these were Harley Boss, Ed Onslow, Wade Loeffler, Frank McGee and Baxter Jordan.

Judge's victory over Sisler was complete, but the Nats' veteran suffered many misgivings before he finally won out.

Sisler came to Washington from the Browns with his reputation as the game's greatest first baseman slightly faded but still brilliant. It seemed that Judge's job was truly in jeopardy when Bucky Harris used Sisler in 20 of the 21 games during the spring training jaunt.

Kept on the bench throughout the training season, Judge became depressed at the prospect of losing his regular position. It was a new experience for him. He was anxious to play and hoped for a chance to get into the line-up with all the expectation of a rookie in his first season.

One day in Atlanta he confided in a correspondent traveling with the team. He was in high spirits then. "Gee, they're going to let me start tomorrow," he said.

The line-up for the inaugural game in April found Judge at his old post. Sisler was never able to dislodge him.

On the subject of Judge, Clark Griffith can not be pinned down. The Nats intend to retain Judge, he maintains. At the same time, any fair offer will not be refused, he declares.

Judge's salary is a point that has blocked prospective trades. But Griffith denies that it is a factor. He points out that during the season of 1925 the Nats had players on the bench who were drawing as much if not more than the regulars on the field.

In that season Joe Harris, a substitute outfielder, was drawing $8,000; Everett Scott, reserve shortstop, drew $10,000; Bobby Veach, a utility outfielder, was paid $7,500, and Hank Severeid, who broke into few games, was drawing $8,000. McNeely, regular center fielder, was hired for $4,500.

Graffagnini began his turf career in New York about eight years ago. He sold his best horse, Minotaur, a handicap racer, in 1929, at a price reported to have been $50,000.

A. A. U. Court Play Again Feature

Basket Ball Tourney, Sponsored by Post, Season's Climax.

Event Raised Plane of Game Here; Record Entry Expected.

THE District of Columbia Amateur Athletic Union's basket ball tournament, annually sponsored by The Washington Post, has become such an integral part of the year's sports program in Washington that the chaos which once ruled in local basketball appears incredible to modern players.

Eight years ago, the year before The Post took the initiative and brought together the teams in common conflict, there were nearly as many "District champions" as there were teams.

Sensational winning streaks were achieved in those days, through the simple expediency of playing as many poor teams as possible. Players jumped from one team to another with will-o'-the-wisp fidelity, and players hardly knew their teammates, so consistent was the shifting of players and the mad scramble of different uniforms.

"Winning" Streaks Numerous.

Professionals, semiprofessionals and amateurs mingled in one ungoverned body. The good teams rarely met each other, in a vain attempt to lengthen the number of games won. Basket balls had ears on them. And games, for the most part, were uniformly badly refereed or not refereed at all.

Came the dawn, so to speak. At the instigation of The Post, the South Atlantic A. A. U., rulers at that time of amateur athletics in this region, provided for a tournament, held on the courts of all the universities hereabouts. It attracted 35 teams.

Last year's tournament drew 115 entries and established without question the true champions of Washington in five boys' classes and two girls' divisions. It was played at the finest institution of its kind in this section of the country—Tech High Gymnasium — was officiated splendidly and aroused considerable attention.

Bigger Tournament Expected.

The D. C. A. A. U. has taken steps to make the 1932 event bigger and better than ever. But the general plan of the last several years will be strictly adhered to. Organized teams once more will be encouraged and all-star combinations frowned upon. The majority of the high school and college teams are expected to enter intact, and competition will be spread evenly around the various classes.

Daily Double Pays Lone Winner $1,773

Jefferson Park, New Orleans, Jan. 4 (A.P.).—Broad Meadows, one of the most consistent of the performers from E. R. Bradley's Idle Hour Farm, got down in front of his field for the first time during the winter season to win the six-furlong feature at Jefferson Park today.

The 5-year-old son of Black Servant, under the guidance of J. Smith, led all of the way, easily earnng the decision over Frank Seremba's Nyack. It was Broad Meadow's second start of the season and the eighth time Nyack had gone to the post. A. Pelleteri's Fiddler took down the short end of the purse.

Well backed in the mutuels, Broad Meadows paid $7.40 for a $2 ticket.

Only one ticket was sold on the daily double combination of Jeff O'Neil and Our Grief, long shot winners of the second and third races. The ticket returned $1,773.

Tropical Park Seeking Added Spring Dates

Miami, Fla., Jan. 4 (A.P.).—Tropical Racing Park will close on January 13 to avoid conflict with the meeting at Hialeah Park which opens its long winter meeting on January 14, provided that the Florida Racing Commission agrees to the proposal, it was learned today.

Frank Bruen, president of the Gables Racing Association which conducts meetings at Tropical Park, said the spring meeting there would not open until after the close of the Miami Racing Association meeting at Hialeah on February 27.

Bruen also said he would ask the commission to permit the Gables Association to extend its spring meeting nine days to compensate for the proposed shortening of the current meet.

Louisiana State Berth for Jones

Naming of Former West Point Coach Requires Only Confirmation.

Baton Rouge, La., Jan. 4 (A.P.).—Appointment of Capt. Lawrence "Biff" Jones, former head coach at West Point, as head football coach at Louisiana State University, with Bert Ingwerson, former head coach at Iowa, as his assistant, was regarded here today as a fact that required only time for official confirmation.

It is understood Jones will bring with him from the Army a trainer assistant, Maj. Frank Wendel, who served with him during his years at West Point, and who has trained members of the Olympic team.

Ingwerson is also expected to bring an assistant from Iowa.

West Point, N. Y., Jan. 4 (A.P.).—Capt. Lawrence (Biff) Jones, assistant graduate manager of athletics at West Point, had little comment to make today on a report from Baton Rouge that he had been definitely picked as head football coach of Louisiana State University.

"I think some one is shooting blind on that one," he said. "My original statement still stands, that we have discussed the matter. I don't care to comment further."

Pro-Amateur Crown To Von Elm, Turner

Santa Monica, Calif., Jan. 4 (A.P.). George Von Elm, runner-up for the national open title, and Stanley Turner, both of Los Angeles, today won the Santa Monica $2,500 amateur-professional golf championship, shooting a best-ball score of 66, five under par.

Ten teams tied for second place, a stroke behind the winners after eighteen holes of play in the face of a stiff wind. Von Elm's prize money was $300 and Turner won the amateur trophy.

West Baltimore Five Guest of Vics Tonight

An all-star Baltimore cast of basket ball wizards will face Vic Sport Shop semipros this evening on the Silver Spring Armory floor, when the highly touted West Baltimore A. A. tossers invade for the first of a home-and-home series.

The Orioles, against whom the Vicmen will be seeking that elusive second win of the season, have won ten games in twelve started this season, including conquests of the Grace Five of York, Pa., and Waverlys, of Baltimore, leaders of that city's Industrial League.

K. OF C. MEETS GRAYS.

The Knights of Columbus unlimited team will play host to the Chevy Chase Grays tonight in a game scheduled for 8 o'clock. The Caseys have won their last seven starts, one of their victories being at the expense of the Grays earlier in the season. Friday the Knights will invade the Gonzaga High School Gym for a game with the Purple tossers.

SAKS LOSES NOONAN.

Bill Noonan, elongated center of the Saks Clothiers Basket Ball Team, has been lost to that club for the remainder of the season, it was learned last night. Noonan, who is also a member of the George Washington Freshman Team, was ordered to discontinue playing with the Clothiers by the coach of the school squad. Saks, undefeated to date, will meet the Quantico Marine tossers Saturday night at 8:15 o'clock in the Takoma-Silver Spring High School gym.

CANZONERI BOOKED.

Philadelphia, Jan. 4 (A.P.).—Tony Canzoneri, world lightweight and junior welterweight champion, and Johnny Jadick, of Philadelphia, today agreed to battle here for the junior welterweight title. Unless a hitch occurs, the bout will be held at the Arena January 18.

Brown Seeks Popularity Of Barry

Heavies Will Clash Tonight in Feature at Alexandria.

Invader, Planning to Live Here, Aims for Knockout.

MAIN BOUT.

Reds Barry, Washington, vs. Natie Brown, New York, heavyweights, eight rounds.

SEMIFINAL.

Henry Irving, Washington, vs. Joe Finazzo, Baltimore, light-heavyweights, six rounds.

PRELIMINARIES.

Harry "Kid" Groves, Washington, vs. Sam Braunstein, Marine Corps, welterweights, six rounds; Billy Reed, Washington, vs. Soldier Shasburrer, Fort Washington, featherweights, four rounds; Gabe Novas, Alexandria, vs. Young Dempsey, Annapolis, flyweights, four rounds.

By JACK ESPEY.

NATIE BROWN, the 22-year-old Jewish heavyweight who broke into headlines last summer by outpunching Max Schmeling as the latter's sparring partner, will make a bid for favoritism with Capital and Alexandria fans tonight when he trades wallops with Reds Barry in the feature eight-round bout of the Day Nursery benefit show in Portner's Arena.

Arriving here yesterday apparently in the best of physical condition and with a broad smile for all he met, Brown stated that he intends to make his home in Washington in the near future and for that reason, as well as others more obvious, that he is anxious to win over Barry who at present is boxing's chief magnet hereabout.

The conqueror of Billy Jones, who is favored to win the national light heavyweight tournament at Chicago, Brown expressed supreme confidence in his ability to "take" the ambitious local Irishman.

35 Fights in Two Years.

In less than two years Brown has fought 35 fights, meeting some of the best known heavyweights in the game. He holds two decision victories over Billy Jones, and among others has defeated K. O. Christner, Marty Fox, Andy Mitchell, Pividi Precidio and Al Morrow, the protege of Jim Jeffries. He claims to have floored Leo Lomski seven times during a bout in 1930 in Seattle, Wash.

Comparison of records favors Brown quite definitely tonight. Although Barry has made fine progress of late, the Southeast Redhead probably will be on the short end of the betting, if any materializes.

Barry, who made a courageous comeback to hold Herman Weiner to a draw after taking a nine-count last week, has trained hard for the bout with hopes of scoring the most impressive victory in his career. Brown unquestionably is the most talented boxer that Patsy Donovan's charge has ever faced, so a decision or kayo in Barry's favor will surely boost his stock to a new high level.

Brown's Future At Stake.

Brown's future and the success of boxing in this vicinity will be directly affected by the caliber of exhibition he uncovers tonight. Even if he does not win, he must make a good showing if he hopes to please a local audience whose skepticism with respect to highly touted importations has become almost traditional. The same holds good as far as the welfare of the game is concerned.

Matchmaker Frankie Mann has arranged an attractive card of preliminaries, including a grudge affair between Henry Irving and Joe Finazzo, light-heavyweights, who meet in the six-round semifinal. Irving, whose chief claim to fistic fame is a murderous right hand, is out to avenge a decision loss which Finazzo, a Baltimorean, administered the first time they clashed last summer.

Harry "Kid" Groves, District welterweight champion, has another engagement with Sammy Bruanstein, the hard-punching Marine, who won on a disqualification last week when Groves went down without being struck in the first round. This bout is listed for six rounds, and Groves vows not only to stay the limit but to finish the winner.

Ladies with escorts will be admitted free of charge, the management has announced.

RUTH READY TO DISCUSS SALARY

Babe, Down to 222 Pounds, in Shape for Debate.

NEW YORK, Jan. 4 (A.P.).—Babe Ruth, the big business man, is in midseason condition for any debate, whether it involves his golf game, his 1932 pay check or the major league home-run crown.

"Never felt better in my life," Ruth bellowed today when the annual cross-examination on the subject of his health and waist line was conducted. "Old? Say, I'm feeling younger than ever."

Artie McGovern, who for nearly ten years has helped keep the big fellow in good physical shape, says Ruth is in better trim now, with his thirty-eighth birthday barely a month off, than he has been at any time in the past four or five years.

Babe's Waist Line Down.

The Babe scaled exactly 222½ pounds after 36 holes of golf in the rain Saturday. He has kept his waist line down to a mere 43 inches or thereabouts. This is better than his average since 1923, when he measured 45 inches around the belt line and was believed to be eating himself out of a baseball job rapidly.

Things are greatly altered for the Babe now. He has his golf, he has his motion picture interests, a forthcoming new series of "shots" which he completed recently on the Coast. He has money in the bank and a trust fund.

He has a new contract to sign, before or after going to St. Petersburg, Fla., for an early start on spring training. Col. Ruppert, the Yankees' owner, has said he will never write another $80,000 pay check. The Babe as he did two years ago before "compromising" on the salary question, is marshalling the figures to show why he should not be paid much, if anything, less in 1932 for doing better in 1931 than most everybody expected

Hitting The Head Pin

By LEWIS F. ATCHISON.

THE annual Howard Campbell Sweepstakes, one of the greatest annual attractions for the topnotch bowlers of this city, will be inaugurated Saturday with the rolling of the first block of five games at one of three alleys, Lucky Strike, Arcadia or Rendezvous. A draw to decide the site of the opening games will be made this week. The second block will be rolled a week later, and the wind-up will be staged January 23.

The event, which is restricted to men rolling in District of Columbia leagues, was won by Astor Clarke, who boasted a total of 1,878 pins, last year. Jack Wostenholme was second with 1,826, and Ollie Pacini third, with 1,821. Of the three, Pacini is conceded the best chance of again finishing among the first three by virtue of his splendid performances in recent tournaments. Howard Campbell, in whose honor the stake was named; Henry Hiser, Fred Moore and George Isemann, all of whom have started and finished in the stake each year since its conception, are expected to enter again this time. Maxie Rosenberg and Al Work, who have started each time but failed to finish on one occasion, also will be in line. The entrance fee is $28.

Lorraine Gulli, winner of the latest star tournament and ranked No. 1 on the national list, and Billie Butler, ranked No. 2, will meet Helen Spencer and Mary Galoway, of Baltimore, in the first block of a ten-game home-and-home match Saturday at the Regent Alleys in Baltimore. The second block will be rolled at Lucky Strike, January 16. Miss Spencer is best known as the winner of the Sun tournament last year, while Miss Galoway is setting the pace for the feminine duckpinners of the Monumental City this season. Needless to say, our nickel will be wagered on the home duo.

Balancing the above match will be the tilt between Margaret Miltner and Elsie Fischer, of this city, and Lotta Janowitz, United States individual champion, and Viola Raycob,

ROBIN COACH FIRED SELF AS PILOT

Stengel Pulls Unique Stunt at Worcester in 1925.

NEW YORK, Jan. 4 (A.P.).—Casey Stengel, who returned as coach today to the Brooklyn Baseball Club of the National League, where he got his major league start twenty years ago, once had the distinction of firing himself as a minor league club manager.

His major league career over, Stengel was sent to Worcester of the Eastern League in 1925 by Judge Fuchs, of the Boston Braves, who also owned the Worcester Club, Joe Vila relates today in the Sun. He was both president and manager of the club.

Fires Self as Manager, Quits as President.

Stengel soon wearied of the appointment, and unable to secure his release from Fuchs fired himself as manager and then resigned as president.

Going to Brooklyn in 1911 from Aurora, Ill., of the Wisconsin-Illinois League, Stengel soon made good. After spending most of the 1912 season on the Brooklyn farm at Montgomery, Ala., he returned as a regular in 1913. In 1918, he was traded to Pittsburgh for Burleigh Grimes.

He remained with Pittsburgh only one year, being sent from there to the Phillies.

"I was glad to get away from there," he said, "if for no other reason but that a loud-mouthed guy in the right field bleachers used to holler at me every day.

"'Hey Casey,' he would yell, 'how's big Bess?'"

"And who was big Bess?" some one asked.

"I never knew," Casey said.

He was traded to New York Giants in 1921 and in 1922 and 1923 played an important part in winning the National League pennant for McGraw. In the world series in 1923 his home runs twice were the margin of victory over the Yankees.

Stengel signed as manager of the Toledo Mud Hens of the American Association in 1926 and the next year drove them to a pennant and victory in the "little world series" with Buffalo of the International League.

Walker Fight First Goal of German

Will Sign Tomorrow for Bout at Miami in February.

May Meet Dempsey and Sharkey in Summer Tests.

By EDWARD J. NEIL.

NEW YORK, Jan. 4 (A.P.).—Max Schmeling arrived here today from Germany on a business trip that he hopes will net him a profit of $1,000,000, although his business isn't what it used to be. The heavyweight champion box fighter of the world, looking as fit and ready for conflict as the day he battered down Young Stribling in Cleveland last July, is here for a title match with Mickey Walker in Miami February 25 and, he hopes, an engagement with Jack Dempsey, the comeback king, in June.

If Dempsey returns to the heavyweight wars by June, and success still clings to the Schmeling banner, Max hopes to settle his differences with Jack Sharkey in some prominent ring by September. On these plans, despite the depression that has hit the fight business, the champion bases his hopes of the $1,000,000 bank account by the time he sails again for Germany in the fall.

Schmeling to Sign Tomorrow.

Although the match has not been definitely made, Schmeling said he would sign for the Walker engagement with Madison Square Garden officials Wednesday. At a late hour today the Garden still was discussing terms with Jack Kearns, manager of Walker.

Weighing only 192 pounds, just 3 above his fighting weight, Schmeling was in fine fettle as he discussed the future. He was as much interested in what had happened here in his absence since last summer as people were in him.

"Are there any good movies?" he demanded. "Are there any new buildings?"

And between a new dachshund named "Pete," and a mechanical gadget of whirring springs that hid in his palm and went off when he shook hands, he had the newspapermen leaping all over his hotel apartment all afternoon. He gave Bill McCarney, one of his assistant managers, the "business" and Bill almost left the premises by way of the sixteenth-story window.

German Plans African Hunting Trip.

Schmeling's new hobby is hunting, he said, and he wants to go to Africa to chase big game when this trip is over. He brought along with him an elephant gun and during the discussions seemed interested in Alaska's Kadiak bear, and the possibilities of a quick trip up there for a few shots with his siege gun after the Walker go in February.

Schmeling gloated over the fact that he won the ship's pool on the Europa Saturday, a matter of $600, and he took that as a sign of prosperous invasion.

Schmeling said that he had been boxing twice a week for months at his home in Bad Saarow, Germany, and was in perfect condition.

G. W. Tossers Drill For Marine Contest

In preparation for the high-scoring Quantico Marine quintet, which invades the Colonial Gymnasium tomorrow night, George Washington University's tossers put in two hours of practice on their attack yesterday. Coach Pixlee's instructions intimated that as far as G. W. is concerned, at least, the game will not lack for thrills.

G. U. May Start Heide In Baltimore U. Game

Herman Heide, a sophomore, who thus far has not figured prominently in the basket ball situation at Georgetown University, returned to practice yesterday in Ryan Gym, following an absence occasioned by death of a relative, and immediately stamped himself a strong contender for a regular position on Coach Freddy Mesmer's team.

At the conclusion of a long workout, Coach Mesmer indicated that Heide will be given a chance to perform under fire tomorrow night when Georgetown resumes its campaign in a game with Baltimore University at Tech High School.

Tilden Outclasses Burke, 6-3, 6-2

Big Bill Scores 4 Aces in Row; Richards Is Next Opponent.

Madison Square Garden, New York, Jan. 4 (A.P.).—Big Bill Tilden, now the peerless professional, gave a dazzling exhibition tonight in defeating the Irish champion, Albert Burke, 6—3, 6—2, in the feature match on a professional tennis program sponsored by Promoter Jack Curley.

The tall fellow, apparently just reaching his prime on the court, proved he had lost none of his terrific speed as he battered down the steady Irishman. Burke did his best to give the sparse crowd a run for its money, but he was no match for the wizard that opposed him.

In the final game of the second set, just to show what he could do, Tilden scored four consecutive service aces. Burke barely touched the first two with the end of his racket; the others he scarcely glimpsed as they passed.

The opening match on the night's card saw Vincent Richards mow down the veteran, Francis Hunter, 6—3, 6—4. Richards and Tilden are scheduled to meet Wednesday night after which the troupe will depart for an extended tour of the country.

Mat Game Setting Record For Durability of Leaders

Londos, Here Thursday, Working Mere 3 Bouts This Week; Some Punishment Involved Despite Synthetic Agony.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

JIM LONDOS is slowing down. He's going to rassle only three times this week, tonight in Baltimore, against one Scotty McDougal, the only Scotsman who ever gave a career to wrestling; Thursday night in our own little hamlet, against Sandor Szabo, and Friday night in Philadelphia, against George Kotsonaros. The rest of the time he is going to give over to sitting, intermixed with a little plain and fancy whittling.

This vast display of unemployment on the part of Serge Londos must be laid to the general trend of the times, and if things go along the way they have been going, it may be that Londos will become so inactive that he will not be defending his title more than 365 times more a year than does Max Schmeling.

Either wrestlers are made of sterner stuff or they do not absorb the punishment which boxers suffer in the plying of their respective trades. Jim Corbett was exhausted for eight months after he beat Peter Jackson in a 60-round bout. Dempsey's ring appearances were as frequent as Halley's Comet. Three bouts a year is considered downright cruelty in ring circles above the stumble bum class.

But the wrasslingers thrive on almost nightly appearances and for all their groans and synthetic agony do take and give what amounts to real punishment. Rudy Dusek's awful cradle rock stops circulation from the knees to the upper thighs, and the ordinary headlocks applied nightly would cause wholesale concussion if applied to normal craniums. Chief White Feather is as rough as he looks and his opponent's eyes are blacked more often than not. Recent shows have produced at least one bloody nose.

Yost Blames Grid Injuries On Hard Materials in Pads

NEW YORK, Jan. 4 (A.P.).—The contention of Glenn (Pop) Warner, coach of football at Stanford University, that the present hard helmets, knee, hip and shoulder pads worn by football players are responsible for many of the present day injuries has a supporter in Fielding H. Yost, athletic director at the University of Michigan.

The World-Telegram today quotes Yost as telling E. K. Hall, chairman of the football rules committee, that a survey he made showed that hard hip and leg pads were responsible for every death he investigated.

Fitting the semicyclindrical pad worn by football players on the front of the upper leg to his own leg, Yost pointed at it and told hall, "There is the killer!"

"You don't have to use your imagination," Yost said, "to realize what would happen when the timing of the runner's stride is such that his knee and upper leg, encased in that thing, come in sharp contact with the unprotected neck of the tackler.

"Perhaps only once in a hundred times is the timing and the contact such that a damaging hurt results. But the chance is always there, and, with more than a million college and high school boys engaged in organized and supervised football and goodness knows how many in unorganized play, the mystery to me is that pad hasn't done more damage."

Hall asked Yost to present the same material to the rules committee at its annual meeting next month.

Warner in a letter read before the Football Coaches Association meeting here last month charged that much of the present equipment was designed, not to protect the wearer, but to punish the opposing player. He said just as much protection could be afforded by more yielding and softer pads.

Fair Grounds' $1 Mutuels Innovation at U. S. Tracks

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

Special to The Washington Post.

JEFFERSON PARK RACE TRACK, Jan. 4.—Sale of $1 mutuel tickets for the field patrons at Fair Grounds here at the forthcoming racing season, marks the first time in this country that less than a $2 ticket has been sold in mutuel betting, though most pool rooms, even in New York, take $1 bets.

Bowie, Md., for years has had a ticket and pay-off window where $2 bets may be made on races from the outside without entering the grounds at $1.50 admission. It always has a crowd of a few hundred persons standing in line at these windows, until the lucky ones, after backing a winner or so, buy tickets of admission and go inside, where they can see the races.

Before the Kentucky Derby went modern, the center field, called the "free field," was open to all without admission fee, to see the Derby, but taking advantage of this offer cut off those in the field from betting in the mutuels. This popular gesture at Churchill Downs proved every year to be the gathering place of thousands of Negroes, and there arose rival 50-cent "books" where the women and men could bet their half-dollars not only on the Derby results but on all the races on Derby day. The 50-cent operators had runners and criers through the crowd, while the colored bookmakers made much noise beating on tin pans and other devices, drumming up trade.

In the free field was an army of lunch and red-lemonade caterers, and all the circus penny catchers were crying their wares. There was music also, fiddlers by the score, and dancing. They had jazz music, but it was not called that. Dice games also sprung up, and the performances

JAZ AGE EQUALS TROPICAL PARK TRACK MARK IN FEATURE

Heavy Choice, Traitor, Is Second

Five Favorites Score on Afternoon's Program.

Jockeys Allen, Mills Each Pilot Home Two Winners.

TROPICAL PARK RACE TRACK, Coral Gables, Fla., Jan. 4 (A.P.).—Over a fast track and with slightly colder weather the order of the day, M. S. Inglebright's 4-year-old gelding, Jazz Age, rewarded a fair portion of the crowd here this afternoon by leading all the way in the St. John's County Claiming Purse, 6-furlong headliner.

Vigorously urged by Buddy Hanford, Jazz Age got home by three parts of a length, while the hot favorite, Traitor, on his trail, eight lengths before Matadi. The winner equaled Bacciocco's record time of 1:12 and paid $8.80 for $2.

Totem refused to break at the start and was left with no chance, but the other six starters were away in motion. Traitor, a quick beginner which usually gets off flying, was away fourth this time, as Jazz Age was first to show. Jazz Age was sent into a lead of nearly two lengths and Elston urged Traitor to run up into second place on the way to the first turn. The two leaders quickly drew well clear of the rest of the field and Traitor vainly tried to menace the pacemaker. He cut down some of Jazz Age's margin in the final furlong, but was held safe. Matadi closed considerable ground the last quarter-mile and wore down Gracious Gift for third money. Jack Howe lacked his former speed.

H. M. Woolf's Lucille K, making her initial appearance, showed a smart effort to win the Baby Race by a head from the more educated Chuck B. Hildur Rock was third, four lengths off the pair. Lucille K. was an odds-on favorite, the word having gotten around fast that the Whiskalong filly could really step. She paid $3.80. Although she broke greenly and was last to leave, Jockey Allen quickly shot her forward and by the time the furlong pole was reached Lucille K. had her head in front of Chuck B., which broke on top. In a hard drive, the favorite gamely held her slight advantage.

Mae Sweep Easy Winner In Second.

Another heavy favorite registered in the second event when Mae Sweep, with the leading local rider, Hank Mills, in the pilot house, reached the judges with an advantage of four lengths over Sunny Susan. Regal Knight was third, another length and a half away. Regal Knight rushed to the front and opened up daylight for a brief period, but Mae Sweep quickly caught up and wore down the faint-hearted leader around the bend, drawing away steadily thereafter. The winner paid $3.00.

Bryant Is Most Versatile Virginia College Athlete

HERBERT BRYANT.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Jan 4 (A.P.).—To Herbert Bryant, Virginia's giant jack-of-all-sports, goes the honor of being the Old Dominion's most versatile athlete in 1931-32.

A mainstay of the Cavalier football team on both offense and defense, Bryant is in perfect condition for the winter and spring sports season. He has won his major "V" in football, boxing, baseball and track. He helped the Cavaliers win the Southern Conference boxing tournament and place second in the annual track meet at Atlanta. He was leading slugger on the baseball nine and earned all-State honors as a guard in football.

Bryant, who lives at Alexandria, is 6 feet sans shoes, and he tips the scales to a few pounds beyond 200. Since the graduation of Leigh Williams, who was a star at Washington and Lee in football, basket ball, track and baseball, Bryant has had an edge over other Virginia athletes in the race for all-around honors.

Two seasons a regular full back, Bryant was shifted this year to guard, and he distinguished himself in the new position. In late games, however, the big guard was frequently called back to carry the ball or to pass. He added several points after touchdown and kicked a field goal against V. M. I.

Bryant took up boxing for the first time last year and became a regular heavyweight on the team. He was successful in the first round of the conference tourney, but received a facial cut that forced him to retire without being defeated.

In baseball he is an outfielder and one of the most reliable batsmen on the Cavalier nine. At the conference track meet he placed second in the discus throw and fourth in the shot put.

Bryant is a member of the Delta Kappa Epsilon Greek letter fraternity.

BOLLING FIELD WINS.

The inexperience of the Department of Interior's court quint allowed Bolling Field to reach the top flight in the Government League at Bolling Field last night, the Airmen taking a 40-12 decision without effort.

Hager, forward, shone with 12 tallies. The Investigation-Patent Office tilt was postponed.

The Chevy Chase Grays scored another victory on the court last night, trimming the Northern Preps by a 22-17 count. Evans led the scoring with 10 points. The Grays deny that they lost to the Bethesda Fireman Sunday night, and are desirous of scheduling a game with the smoke-eaters to prove their superiority.

LUCILLE K. broke slowly from the outside, but moved up in resolute fashion after getting settled in her stride, caught CHUCK B. at furlong pole and fought it out with latter to end. CHUCK B. broke well and, quick to find his stride, hung after the winner made her challenge. HILDUR ROCK, tiring, was under hard drive to stall off PRINCESS VAL. Latter raced straight and true. FRANKIE MAE raced greenly. IREDELL, slow to begin, lacked speed.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—MAE SWEEP, $3.00, $2.60, $2.20; SUNNY SUSAN, $21.10, $8.00; REGAL KNIGHT, $2.90.

MAE SWEEP, moving up quietly going to half-mile pole, easily disposed of REGAL KNIGHT rounding the far turn and drew away into a commanding lead in final stages. SUNNY SUSAN, finishing with good courage under punishment, outgamed the tiring REGAL KNIGHT at end. Latter, a rapid breaker, drew away into a good lead first furlong, quit when the winner challenged. WINNIE C. closed with a rush on the extreme outside.

THIRD RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place same. Went to post at 3:21. Off at 3:22. Winner, W. L. Johnson's b. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—WHILEAWAY, $12.60, $9.20, $10.00; DEEMSTER, $4.70, $4.40; LAWYER, $5.40.

WHILEAWAY, outrun first half mile, began wearing the pacemakers down rounding far turn, was taken extremely wide at top of home stretch, and closing with a rush, was up in time to win. DEEMSTER had a lot taken out of him racing LAWYER into submission. He hugged the inside rail all the way and outlasted LAWYER. LAWYER, hustled to the front on back stretch and never given a breathing spell, weakened last hundred yards. CRACK PLAY broke slowly and raced in behind horses most of trip.

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,000; claiming. St. Johns County purse. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good for all but Totem. Won driving; place easily. Went to post at 3:52. Off at 3:54½. Two-dollar mutuels paid—JAZ AGE, $8.80, $3.70, $2.60; TRAITOR, $2.40, $2.10; MATADI, $4.60.

JAZ AGE sprinted into an easy lead first furlong and HANFORD then took him under slight restraint. He had something left when TRAITOR challenged in stretch run and outgamed the latter at end. TRAITOR began slowly and, nursed along in early stages, made a bold effort at top of home stretch, but hung under punishment. MATADI wore GRACIUS GIFT down. Latter raced well with the leaders to half-mile post and then began to drop back. His effort was a poor one.

FIFTH RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Purse, $1,000; allowances. Pinellas County Purse. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won easily; place driving. Went to post at 4:19½. Off at 4:21½. Winner, Edgar A. Two-dollar mutuels paid—BAY ANGON, $3.30, $2.60, $2.20; SONG HIT, $2.90, $2.50; PRINCE FOX, $3.50.

BAY ANGON moved into an easy lead before they had gone a furlong and kept drawing away after they had gone a quarter. SONG HIT, hustled along in stretch run, was doing her best at end. PRINCE FOX broke rapidly, but unable to keep up, was driving to the limit to stall off CAPTAIN ED. Latter broke slowly and went wide at top of home stretch.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place same. Went to post at 4:46. Off at once. Winner, O. Blank's ch. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—WORKLESS, $3.20, $2.40, $2.60; FRANCES ST. L., $5.70, $5.90. BLUE CLOUD, $5.60.

WORKLESS broke slowly and, shuffled back going to first turn, was taken around leaders and worked his way up on the outside, shook off BLUE CLOUD at top of home stretch and drew away under mild drive last furlong. FRANCES ST. L., a keen factor from the start, saved ground all the way. She outgamed the tiring BLUE CLOUD at end. Latter broke fast and was hustled along all the way, but had nothing left when winner challenged. NOSEGAY finished out in the middle of the track.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place same. Went to post at 5:11. Off at once. Winner, J. V. Stewart's ch. g. THREE BOUTS FOR LONDOS IN WEEK

There are more bandages and knee protectors visible today in wrestling than a year or two ago, when a tap on the wrist caused consternation in both ring and audience, and fearful faces found wholesale sympathy in the house. Wrestling populaces are changing. They have demanded and received, to a large extent, more action and less acting, more roughness and less rowdiness. But the elephants are standing up under it.

Londos Shows No Ill Effects.

Londos, having defended his title about 300 times in two years, remains in perfect shape. The wear and tear has shown a mite on Shikat, whose leg is bad, and on one or two others, but the main bulk of rassling is in astoundingly sound physical shape, despite a recent habit of ending their matches in the orchestra pit.

Ten of the hardiest of them all are here Thursday. Londos takes on Szabo and seems in little danger of relinquishing his ca-rown, although he is in for his toughest local competition. Rudy Dusek meets Jim Corrigan, a newcomer here, in the semi-final. In the other bouts Matros Kirilenko and Herby Freeman gather; Doc Wilson tangles with George Hagen and Tiger Nelson will carry on with Chief White Feather, whom I believe is the world's champeen party in a rough-and-tumble brawl.

The women will have to pay to see this show, which, it is prophesied, will attract something in the neighborhood of 7,000 burghers.

DOLLAR MUTUELS RACE INNOVATION

in the free field were as big a show for those in the grand stands as the Derby itself. The approximate odds-boards and the mutuel prices were in the infield, and the "books" paid the mutuel odds.

Wing Harvey, a cripple, who can always be found in the press stand at Jefferson Park or Fair Grounds, will like the $1 mutuel ticket plan. Wing's limit is $1, and for years he has been compelled to get some of his many friends to "go in" for $1 with him for a $2 ticket. His specialty is long shots. At Jefferson Park a few weeks ago Wing induced a friend to put a dollar with his own to buy a $2 ticket on the "daily double," a combined ticket on the winners of the second and third races, and on that day the double paid $1,145.50. Wing's share being $722.70. The horses thus coupled were Deceptive and Hazel Denson. It is Wing's custom to denounce the track, management and trainers as "crooked" after each race, but this day he withheld his criticism.

A few years ago he asked several of his friends to go in at a dollar with him to buy a ticket on a juvenile named Cherry Lane, but they all turned him down. Cherry Lane won and paid $334 for $2. Then Wing turned his wrath on his friends for being so dumb. He tore the dollar note he held in two, but pasted the pieces together again.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

CHARLES ZIMERLY can remember any auto license number after seeing it but once. In Williamsport, Md., he knows the car numbers of more than 700 residents, and whenever an owner's name is mentioned, he can immediately give from memory that person's auto number * * * whether it has been one month or ten months after seeing it. Many of Zimerly's friends test his mental faculties by writing down the license numbers of various residents and reading off the names to him. He has never once failed to give the numbers correctly.

Have you a little Chinese laundry in your town? Well, here's how Chinese laundries got started in America. During the California gold rush the men of '49 found laundering one of their many problems. For awhile the best thing to do when a shirt became soiled was to buy a new one and throw the old one away, for there were no up-to-date laundries, and every one was more interested in washing gold than in washing clothes.

Finally the problem was solved by sending the soiled garments to Hawaii and even China. At this time the cost of laundering a dozen pieces was from $6 to $8.

The Chinese took to washing, and it wasn't long until they began migrating to California, and setting up laundries. They were welcomed with open arms, for then a soiled shirt did not have to travel 12,000 miles before being worn again. And that is how "no tickee, no washee" got its start.

(Reg. U. S. Patent Office)

—Jefferson Park Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

JEFFERSON PARK, New Orleans, La., Jan. 4.—An interesting program of events has been arranged for tomorrow's racing at Jefferson Park, with the Lincoln Plaut Purse, an allowance affair for 3-year-olds and upward, a test over the mile and 70 yard route, as the outstanding attraction. Supporting the main event, a well balanced card of sprints and route races will be offered, together with an event for juveniles over the short 2-furlong distance.

In the headliner, Frank Seremba's NYACK, which finished second to Woten in the New Year's Handicap, figures to show enough improvement to capture the honors. GAILLARDIA and PROSE AND POETRY also raced in the above event and will undoubtedly offer stern opposition. WHO WIN, PLAYTIME and PRINCE ATHELING will complete the field.

FIRST RACE — THE OKAH has trained well since his arrival from Chicago, and on his midwestern form is selected to score. PETABIT showed a splendid effort against a cheaper group recently, and may finish in the runner-up position. OUTCRY is favored for the show.

SECOND RACE — ITSO, from the Green & Finn Stable, an easy winner of his last start, holds a slight edge over his opposition. In this 6-furlong sprint, VLADIMIR, a consistent plater, should go well. PRINCE PEROXIDE is on the improve and should shine in the purse.

THIRD RACE — KLINGSTONE is favored over this cheap lot. DURVA is erratic but on his best form may prove dangerous. THOMAS SETH, from the Nugent Brother's string, is the show choice.

FOURTH RACE—The fourth event, the juvenile dash at 2 furlongs, brings out the first group of youngsters of the season at the Shrewsbury course. With little to guide us in the matter of workouts, it is best to let the youngsters enjoy themselves.

SIXTH RACE—EFJAYBEE showed a clever performance recently to finish second and off that effort will be hard to beat. PEAL is another consistent plater which figures to place. DONNELLA is rated above SANDWRACK for the minor award.

SEVENTH RACE—UNDERDUN from the Miss A. Nelson Stable, was shuffled in his last but with better handling should gain the major award. SHONNA has shown improvement and should force the pace. DRYDOCK is the show selection.

EIGHTH RACE—The eighth event, a substitute race, for 3-year-olds and upward at the 6-furlong distance, should result in a victory for ELEANORA M., with PURPLE ROBE second. FLORENCE DOLAN may show.

NATIVITY HORNETS WIN.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

THE SOCIETY EDITOR REPORTS THE RADIO OPERA.

"CARMEN," as presented to the Great Unseen Audience last evening, was one of the outstanding triumphs of the radio season. The announcer was somewhat nervous in the opening moments, but soon recovered his confidence and at the final curtain was at his best. Mlle. Lila Titroni was quite adequate in the title role and fears of the radio audience that she would introduce a dentrifice aria by arrangement with a nationally advertised tooth paste proved quite unfounded.

Several million notables attended. Among those noticed were the following:

Col. and Mrs. Dudley T. Oleander and their daughter, Minnie. Mrs. Oleander looked quite charming in a bathrobe of orange and green. Miss Minnie was a fascinating figure in old rose pajamas as she lay on the living room couch, trying to read a magazine and follow the opera at the same time.

Mr. and Mrs. P. Hollyhocks Winch. Mrs. Winch wore a house wrapper of ample dimensions, bedroom slippers of pale blue and her bifocal spectacles, and baked a cake during intermission. Mr. Winch seemed his old self as he played solitaire in his nightshirt and muttered, "Turn off that junk and get something jazzy."

* * * *

The Duke and Duchess of Bayside. The Duchess, who was formerly Miss Helen Swatts, daughter of the vanilla extract king, looked quite attractive as she slumped in an easy chair, stared at the radio through a lorgnette and tried to determine whether it was a bum opera or a defective tube. The duke stuck it out for two acts, but then went to bed with the request that the duchess pipe down the radio and turn it off completely if any tenor began shrieking.

Maj. and Mrs. Addington P. Withergoof, their two daughters, Kittie and Jane, and their son, Edgar. Mrs. Withergoof wore an old house dress and the sandals she always wears around the home when her feet hurt. Kittie listened to the first act in the bathtub and seemed more beautiful than ever. Jane wore the clothes in which she had come home from work at the pickle shop. The Major looked pretty sloppy in a pair of brown pants, a blue shirt, open at the neck, and yellow wristlets. "You can't fool me," he declared. "Before this opera is over somebody will start lecturing on a cigarette, cigar or antiseptic soap."

* * * *

The Widow Gillahunty and her seven kids. The widow wore a calico skirt, gray waist and the conventional white apron. She was too busy washing dishes to get the opening aria. The seven kids, looking quite fetching in the same clothes they had worn all week, went out to a movie as soon as the widow turned into the opera. "We don't want to hear any o' that wop stuff," they said.

America seems to be about through judging its leaders by the size of their radiator ornaments, the amount of nickel on their sedans, their capacity for banquets, and the looseness with which they allow their names to be used on boards of directors.

STOCK PRICES CLOSE AT NEW LOW LEVELS

Wall Street Blames Failures of Banks and Lighter Day's Turnover.

New York, Jan. 4 (A.P.).—Moderate offerings falling on a market thinly supplied with buying orders depressed stocks to a new average low for the bear cycle today.

Except for a fractional recovery around noon, the market made little compromise with heaviness and ended the day with the 90-stock composite off 2 points to 60.1 against the December 17 minimum of 61.3.

That section of Wall street opinion which had been hoping for better things with the advent of a new year felt the market's action was not particularly significant, in view of the small turnover, since only 1,515,946 shares changed hands. Nevertheless, the fact that a score of pivotal issues, including a few rails, were at new lows for the major downswing bespoke the frozen condition of the buying power.

Losses On Leaders.

Net losses in active leaders ranged from a fraction to 6 points. Case and Eastman weakened sharply, while American Telephone, American Can, Allied Chemical, Santa Fe, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, New York Central, Consolidated Gas and North American were down 2 to 3. U. S. Steel touched 35½ and closed at 36¼, off ⅜. General Motors was again soft. There was a recurrence of air pockets on preferred shares, several of which lost 2 points or more.

Some of the weakness in the first two sessions of the new year was ascribed to the recent bank suspension. Undoubtedly, many persons expected the National Credit Corporation to serve as a preventive to such local difficulties, although bankers who formed the organization in October expressly stated that it could not be regarded as a guarantor of banking institutions which could not be considered good risks.

The corporation has now issued a call for the first 10 per cent of the capital subscriptions, a step which lead banking circles to assume that the corporation was actively at work but that the requests for aid had been relatively small.

Annual Bank Statements.

Annual bank statements, as anticipated, are disclosing an unusual degree of liquidity. Shrinkage in deposits reflects in part foreign withdrawals during the autumn "run," and also the contraction in commercial borrowings. The decline corresponds in the aggregate rather closely to the drop in total Federal reserve credit outstanding.

The beginning of 1932's first full week found very little evidence that a seasonal pick-up in heavy industries was imminent, although the absence of improvement in the first few days was not taken to mean that such gains are to be foregone. Steel producers are expecting a considerably better operating ratio before the month is out, and the annual automobile shows are counted on to stimulate demand for cars, as usual, even though new buying may be somewhat under normal.

Weakness in stocks appeared to influence the grain markets, although wheat's losses of about a cent and a half also reflected bearish weather news. Corn's decline was slightly smaller. Cotton was off 90 cents to $1.10 a bale net.

Foreign currencies were mostly firm, sterling being an exception, possibly because of the Indian unsettlement. Money developed an easier undertone and a small concession appeared in the rate on outside call funds. There was, however, no change in the official 3½ per cent rate.

Sinclair-Prairie Oil Merger Expected Soon

Tulsa, Okla., Jan. 4 (A.P.).—Tulsa oil and bank circles heard today that the prolonged delay over merger of the Sinclair and Prairie Oil Co.'s had ended, and that the deal would be consummated this month.

The reports, coming from persons high in the councils of both parties to the merger, who declined to be quoted directly, were followed by official announcement that any statement was unauthorized at this time. "Such an announcement," said a statement signed by Harry F. Sinclair, W. S. Fitzpatrick, and Clark Kountz, officials of the companies, "must follow meeting of our board of directors, which has not been held."

Sears, Roebuck Sales Drop $43,173,053

Chicago, Jan. 4 (A.P.).—The annual sales total of Sears Roebuck & Co., mail order and chain store firm, declined from $390,382,107 in 1930 to $347,209,054 for the year just ended. This was a drop of $43,173,053 or 11.1 per cent.

In the thirteenth month of its calendar, from December 4 to 31, Sears Roebuck sales totaled $33,167,501 against $39,075,133 last year, a decrease of 15.1 per cent.

BOND PRICES REACT IN DULLER MARKETS

Position of Recent Gains Lost in Light Turnover of $10,842,000.

New York, Jan. 4 (A.P.).—Bonds reacted today in a market notable principally for its dullness. In the latter part of the quiet session, many issues canceled a considerable portion of their recent gains. Even the United States Government obligations, which have had a steadying effect on the entire list, sagged from fractions to nearly 2 points.

The one encouraging feature of the day's trading, however, from the standpoint of dealers, was that offerings grew extremely scarce on the downward move. Sales for the day totaled but $10,842,000 par value.

There were special news developments to which the heaviness of securities could be attributed. Uncertainty as to congressional moves were believed by some observers to have made investors cautious.

The railroad and industrial loans finished with the same average loss, while the utilities were inclined to resist. Baltimore & Ohio lines rallied in the early part of the session, but closed lower. Among bonds that increased their prices moderately were some of the issues of Canadian National, Chesapeake & Ohio, Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, Chicago & Northwestern, Delaware & Hudson, Grand Trunk of Canada, Illinois Central, New Haven and Union Pacific.

Announcement of the St. Louis & San Francisco that the road would be unable to meet its State taxes caused some depression of the carrier liens. The bonds of this line, however, only dropped around 2 points. Some of the weak lines were those of Southern Pacific, Alleghany Corporation, Rock Island, Erie, Great Northern, Missouri Pacific, New York Central, Southern Pacific and Wabash.

Foreign loans were fairly strong. German 7s and 5½s recovered substantially, as did Japanese issues. French bonds were off and some of the Argentine obligations dropped as much as 4½ points. The latter were affected by news of a revolutionary movement in that republic, although it subseqquently was reported to have been quelled.

DEPOSITS IN CAPITAL TOTAL $259,109,393

39 Banks Report Decline in Cash, Due to Withdrawals for Christmas.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Total deposits of $259,109,393.20 in the 39 banks of the city were revealed by their returns to a call for statements of condition as at close of business December 31, issued yesterday by Comptroller of the Currency John W. Pole.

While this aggregate is lower than that registered by the last previous call for condition statements, as of September 29, the usual seasonal withdrawals and a record payment of Christmas savings to the extent of $8,500,000 are responsible for the lesser December figure.

The 12 National banks of Washington presented a total of $145,363,557.85; the five trust companies, $73,988,608.40, and the 22 savings banks, $39,757,226.95.

Washington banks now enjoy an exceptionally strong position and from the viewpoint of liquidity, they are in the best condition in their history, due to a large percentage of reserve funds. The strength of local banks is best evidenced by the fact that the loan committee of the Washington unit of the National Credit Association has not received one application for assistance.

Deposits of Banks.

Deposits of the bank were the following: National Bank of Washington, $9,368,433.10; Columbia National Bank, $4,534,986.23; Commercial National Bank, $13,867,972.73; District National Bank, $7,821,091.73; Federal-American National Bank & Trust Co., $16,514,115.61; Franklin National Bank, $4,603,126.07; Liberty National Bank, $3,033,148.12; Lincoln National Bank, $5,490,409.85; National Metropolitan Bank, $17,267,697.41; National Capital Bank, $1,574,331.14; Second National Bank, $6,231,056.88; Riggs National Bank, $54,054,229.98; American Security & Trust Co., $30,552,707.41; Munsey Trust Co., $4,338,266.63; National Savings & Trust Co., $13,953,303.10; Union Trust Co., $8,694,492.64; Washington Loan & Trust Co., $16,449,838.62.

Firemen's Insurance Elects.

William A. Hettinger, president of the American Building Association, and Leroy Gaddis, jr., real estate man, were elected to the directorate of the Firemen's Insurance Co. of Washington and Georgetown at the annual meeting of stockholders of that company held yesterday.

Directors reelected were Edward C Baltz, Millard T. Dixon, Parke A Galleher, William M. Hoffman, J Logan Hopkins, Albert W. Howard, Charles H. Kindle, John H. Snyder, Schuyler S. Symons, Albert W. Walker, James M. Woodward.

The Municipal Securities Association, an organization of investment bankers with headquarters at Jacksonville, Fla., that, through its Florida forces, has collected and compiled the most comprehensive financial information relating to that State now available, has completed its proposed plan and agreement for refunding the bonds of the City of Miami, Cocanut Grove and Silver Bluff, maturing on dates between June 30, 1931 and June 30, 1941. As made public by George W. Simons, jr., executive director of the association, the plan provides for the refunding of certain bond issues through their exchange, par for par, for bonds of an issue to be dated July 1, 1931, and aggregating $16,258,000. The new issue will consist of term bonds maturing July 1, 1963 and will be callable numerically on any interest date at 101 and interest.

Elmore F. Higgins, well-known among bankers in Washington and other Eastern cities because of his previous connection as national bank examiner in the Richmond Federal Reserve District and elsewhere, was elected yesterday president of the Exchange National Bank of Tulsa, Okla., one of the largest financial institutions of the Southwest. He succeeds H. H. Rogers, who becomes chairman of the board.

New York, Jan. 4 (A.P.).—December sales of the F. W. Woolworth Co. totaled $39,712,933, a decrease of 6 per cent from the sales of December, 1930. For the twelve months they were 2.2 per cent smaller.

The Buick Motor Co. division of General Motors Corporation produced and shipped 11,629 cars in December, compared with 9,053 in November and 4,092 in December, 1930.

It was reported today that the Paramount-Publix Corporation has arranged to defer payments on its remaining obligations in connection with the stock repurchase agreements incurred two years ago through property purchases. One such payment of $2,250,000 was due January 2, and another of $4,000,000 was to have become due on March 1.

Alton railroad shopmen at Bloomington, Ill., to the number of 650, are returning for a four-day week basis for at least a month. The Burlington Railroad is returning 550 men to work for a five-day week basis at its Burlington, Iowa, shops.

Several important dividend meetings are scheduled for this week. There is particular interest in the Santa Fe Railroad meeting to be held tomorrow. Other meetings include Westinghouse Electric, Nash Motors, American Smelting & Refining, Allis Chalmers and Cerro de Pasco Copper.

The admission of Charles D. Dickey as a partner of J. P. Morgan & Co. marks the "arrival" of another young man in the world of finance. Mr. Dickey is not 40, but he has had an extensive banking experience as a partner in Brown Bros. Harriman & Co.

Montgomery-Ward is said to plan the closing of 30 or 40 of its stores which have proved unprofitable.

Freight loadings of the Santa Fe Railroad have recently been running about 20 per cent under a year ago, says W. B. Storey, president. December gross revenues were disappointing and indicate that net operating income for last month was below a year ago. Detailed figures will not be available until later in January.

Stockholders of Simms Petroleum Co., will meet January 16 to approve purchase by the company of not more than 100,000 shares of the capital stock at an average price of $5 a share. Each holder would have the right to sell up to 1-7 of his stock. The company has approximately $1,000,000 in cash on hand, derived partly from the sale of some partnership interests in East Texas producing leases.

The New York Curb Exchange today suspended dealings in the common stock of American Natural Gas Corp., until further notice. The company, part of the Tri-Utilities system, is in receivership.

Copper production of the Phelps-Dodge Corporation, beginning immediately, will be reduced to 8,500,000 pounds monthly compared with a previous output of 17,500,000 pounds, it was announced today.

This is in connection with the agreement among copper producers closed recently, looking to restriction of output and a revision of selling policies abroad.

Hitting the Head Pin

both of Baltimore, which is booked for the Lucky Strike alleys. It will be the final block of a ten-game affair. The Washington couple hold a twelve-pin average over their opponents and are favored to cop the bacon.

The finals in the trials to determine the boy and junior champions of the District of Columbia will be held Saturday, with the boys rolling at the Rendezvous alleys and the juniors at Arcadia. The State finals for Maryland will be held the same day, the boys competing at Hyattsville and the juniors at the Boulevard alleys, Bethesda.

The Washington contestants and the alleys they represent are as follows: Juniors, Ouncie Harrison, Arcadia; Alphido Brigrizilio, Rendezvous; Noble Viers, Silver Spring; Abe Singer, Convention Hall; Nick Rinaldi, Lucky Strike, and Al Baer, Columbia. Boys, Stuart Patti, Rendezvous; Dick Faulconer, Silver Spring; Bob Chalfonte, Arcadia. Benjamin Potter, Boulevard, and Bob Temple, Hyattsville, will head the Maryland juniors. Rodney Harrison, of Hyattsville, is the lone entrant in the boys class at this date, but he is certain to be joined by a host of Baltimore entrants before starting time.

Elimination contests are also being held in Connecticut and Massachusetts.

A bunch of the boys were whooping it up in the Commercial League at Convention Hall, and another bunch weren't doing so much whooping, with the result that four teams won all three of the games and four others lost all three. W. R. Winslow, Thompson's Dairy, National Glass and Southern Dairies were the boisterous teams. Penn Electric, Thompson's Furniture and W. B. Moses needed the crying towels. Rose, of National Glass, turned in the best game, 139, and McCormick, of Southern Dairies, captured the set honors with his 374. Barber & Ross registered the only single game win, trouncing Kapneck Electric. National Glass' 598 game and Southern Dairies' 1,650 were the best team scores.

A match that should attract more than the usual amount of curiosity will be rolled Saturday night at 8 o'clock at Arcadia, when Sam Rice and Nick Altrock, two of the better-known members of the Washington Baseball Team, lock horns with Al Baer and Ouncie Harrison. Three games are scheduled, but it is reliably reported that Al and Ouncie, two youngsters who know their bowling A B C's inside out, backward and forward, are willing to call matters square at the end of the second game if Uncle Nick and Sam find the going too rough.

Temple increased its lead over the Hecht maple-mashers in the District League to three games by winning the long end of a 2-1 count in their match at Temple last night. The winners' scores were 613, 580 and 609 Hecht's games were 576, 653 and 592 Joe Freschi, of Hecht, led the individual list with a game of 149 and set of 384. Ollie Pacini, Temple ace, trailed his fellow countrymen by 4 pins in the set score.

The pins were popping like the well known corn in the Eastern Star loop at Lucky Strike. Washington Centennial No. 2 chalked up a game of 467, and Milans ripped off a set of 1,356 to outscore the teams. Miss Kamm's 116-game was the best individual effort of the evening. Bethany, Miriam and Unity took the odd game from La Fayette, Joppa and Mispah. Milans and Washington Centennial No. 2 took all three from Brookland and Acacia.

The whitewash supply in the Sanico League was well nigh exhausted after the Fagans, Uppermans and La Billies had finished with their opponents at Convention Hall. In stopping the Kings, the Fagans hung up a new all-time game record, 622, and also made the highest set score of the evening, 1,681. Reed was the big gun of the team, topping the timber for a game of 155 and 372 set. The Wynns were the Uppermans' victims, and La Bille handed the goose egg to Foster. McFall took a fall out of Tiencke for a one-game victory.

A poor second game of 499 cost Young & Simon the victory over Farnan's Shoes in the National Capital League at Lucky Strike. The losers' scores were 612, 499 and 536. The Shoe Dealers turned in games of 592, 536 and 602. Frank Mischou, with a game of 145 and set of 377, led the individual scoring.

Only one clean sweep, Caslon Press' win over Gibson Brothers, was rolled in the Typothetae League at Lucky Strike. National Publishing, Leftovers, Haywood Printing, Judd & Detweiler and Craftsmen proved themselves one game better than Columbia Printing, Maxwell Jones, H. L. Potter and R. P. Andrews. Kinnahan, of Washington Linotype, had a game of 145 and R. Smith a set of 393. National Publishing's 1,679 set was high for the teams, and Washington Typos took the game honors with its 589.

The leading Lansburgh team received a bad shock in the King Pin Business Men's League at King Pin No. 2 last night when the lowly Maccabees tripped the department store crew for a one-game victory. In the other matches Hecht Annex put the skids under National Lithographers for the odd game and the First Americans took a whole loaf from Lansburgh No. 2. Whittington's 344 set topped the individual scoring.

Charley Morgan, brother of the sorrel-top bearing the same name was the star of the Petroleum League at Columbia. Rolling for Gulf, Charley scored a game of 139 and set of 370 to lead his team to a clean sweep over Tidewater. Gulf, by the way, was in pretty good form, obtaining a game of 614 and set of 1,666. Crew-Levick took all three from Texas, and Chapman applied the same strict measures to the duckpin ambitions of American. Standard hung up a 2-1 win over Lord Baltimore.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Total deposits of $259,109,393.20 in the 39 banks of the city were revealed by their returns to a call for statements of condition as at close of business December 31, issued yesterday by Comptroller of the Currency John W. Pole.

While this aggregate is lower than that registered by the last previous call for condition statements, as of September 29, the usual seasonal withdrawals and a record payment of Christmas savings to the extent of $8,500,000 are responsible for the lesser December figure.

The 12 National banks of Washington presented a total of $145,363,557.85; the five trust companies, $73,986,608.40, and the 22 savings banks, $39,757,226.95.

Washington banks now enjoy an exceptionally strong position and from the viewpoint of liquidity, they are in the best condition in their history, due to a large percentage of reserve funds. The strength of local banks is best evidenced by the fact that the loan committee of the Washington unit of the National Credit Association has not received one application for assistance.

Deposits of Banks.

Deposits of the bank were the following: National Bank of Washington, $9,366,433.10; Columbia National Bank, $4,534,386.23; Commercial National Bank, $13,867,972.73; District National Bank, $7,821,091.73; Federal-American National Bank & Trust Co., $16,514,115.61; Franklin National Bank, $4,603,126.07; Liberty National Bank, $3,033,148.12; Lincoln National Bank, $3,490,409.85; National Metropolitan Bank, $17,267,697.41; National Capital Bank, $1,574,331.14; Second National Bank, $6,231,056.88; Riggs National Bank, $54,054,229.98 American Security & Trust Co., $30,552,707.41; Munsey Trust Co., $4,338,266.63; National Savings & Trust Co., $13,953,303.10; Union Trust Co., $8,694,492.64; Washington Loan & Trust Co., $16,449,838.62.

Anacostia Bank, $1,492,443.56; Bank of Brightwood, $393,956.74; Chevy Chase Savings Bank, $1,041,255.85; Bank of Commerce & Savings, $1,751,813.86; Departmental Bank, $1,262,603.69; East Washington Savings Bank, $790,398.79; Industrial Savings Bank, $557,968.40; International Exchange Bank, $618,146.40; McLachlen Banking Corporation $2,056,999.53; Morris Plan Bank, $1,604,747.21; Mount Vernon Savings Bank, $3,732,400.43; orth Capitol Savings Bank, $1,267,479.55; Northeast Savings Bank, $1,582,804.14; Park Savings Bank, $3,187,833.63; Potomac Savings Bank, $3,417,193.44; Prudential Bank, $330,182.21; Security Savings & Commercial Bank, $5,924,501.40; Seventh Street Savings Bank, $1,733,651.46; United States Savings Bank, $2,483,785.33; Washington Mechanics Savings Bank, $2,906,642.36; Washington Savings Bank, $604,056.42; Woodridge-Langdon Savings & Commercial Bank, $516,367.50.

Firemen's Insurance Elects.

William A. Hettinger, president of the American Building Association, and Leroy Gaddis, jr., real estate man, were elected to the directorate of the Firemen's Insurance Co. of Washington and Georgetown at the annual meeting of stockholders of that company held yesterday.

Directors reelected were Edward C Baltz, Millard T. Dixon, Parke A Galleher, William M. Hoffman, J Logan Hopkins, Albert W. Howard, Charles H. Kindle, John H. Snyder, Schuyler S. Symons, Albert W Walker, James M. Woodward.

The Municipal Securities Association, an organization of investment bankers with headquarters at Jacksonville, Fla., that, through its Florida forces, has collected and compiled the most comprehensive financial information relating to that State now available, has completed its proposed plan and agreement for refunding the bonds of the City of Miami, Cocanut Grove and Silver Bluff, maturing on dates between June 30, 1931 and June 30, 1941. As made public by George W. Simons, jr., executive director of the association, the plan provides for the refunding of certain bond issues through their exchange, par for par, for bonds of an issue to be dated July 1, 1931, and aggregating $16,258,000. The new issue will consist of term bonds maturing July 1, 1963 and will be callable numerically on any interest date at 101 and interest.

Elmore F. Higgins, well-known among bankers in Washington and other Eastern cities because of his previous connection as national bank examiner in the Richmond Federal Reserve District and elsewhere, was elected yesterday president of the Exchange National Bank of Tulsa, Okla., one of the largest financial institutions of the Southwest. He succeeds H. H. Rogers, who becomes chairman of the board.

New York, Jan. 4 (A.P.).—December sales of the F. W. Woolworth Co totaled $39,712,933, a decrease of 6 per cent from the sales of December, 1930. For the twelve months they were 2.2 per cent smaller.

The Buick Motor Co. division of General Motors Corporation produced and shipped 11,629 cars in December, compared with 9,053 in November and 4,092 in December, 1930.

It was reported today that the Paramount-Publix Corporation has arranged to defer payments on its remaining obligations in connection with the stock repurchase agreements incurred two years ago through property purchases. One such payment of $2,250,000 was due January 2, and another of $4,000,000 was to have become due on March 1.

Alton railroad shopmen at Bloomington, Ill., to the number of 650, are returning for a four-day week basis for at least a month. The Burlington Railroad is returning 550 men to work for a five-day week basis at its Burlington, Iowa, shops.

Several important dividend meetings are scheduled for this week. There is particular interest in the Santa Fe Railroad meeting to be held tomorrow. Other meetings include Westinghouse Electric, Nash Motors, American Smelting & Refining, Allis Chalmers and Cerro de Pasco Copper.

The admission of Charles D. Dickey as a partner of J. P. Morgan & Co. marks the "arrival" of another young man in the world of finance. Mr. Dickey is not 40, but he has had an extensive banking experience as a partner in Brown Bros. Harriman & Co.

Montgomery-Ward is said to plan the closing of 30 or 40 of its stores which have proved unprofitable.

Freight loadings of the Santa Fe Railroad have recently been running about 20 per cent under a year ago, says W. B. Storey, president. December gross revenues were disappointing and indicate that net operating income for last month was below a year ago. Detailed figures will not be available until later in January.

Stockholders of Simms Petroleum Co., will meet January 16 to approve purchase by the company of not more than 100,000 shares of the capital stock at an average price of $5 a share. Each holder would have the right to sell up to 1-7 of his stock. The company has approximately $1,000,000 in cash on hand, derived partly from the sale of some partnership interests in East Texas producing leases.

The New York Curb Exchange today suspended dealings in the common stock of American Natural Gas Corp., until further notice. The company, part of the Tri-Utilities system, is in receivership.

Copper production of the Phelps-Dodge Corporation, beginning immediately, will be reduced to 8,500,000 pounds monthly compared with a previous output of 17,500,000 pounds, it was announced today.

This is in connection with the agreement among copper producers closed recently, looking to restriction of output and a revision of selling policies abroad.

CURB MARKET REVIEW

New York, Jan. 4 (A.P.).—The curb market was unsettled by light selling today, drifting moderately lower in a day whose chief characteristic was apathy of trading. Transactions approximated only 300,000 shares.

Prices worked off in the early dealings and then found themselves in a narrow range. Electric Bond & Share, for instance, moved in a half point path between 10¼ and 9¾, closing at 9⅞, where the net loss was ⅜. American Gas and Consolidated Gas each lost 1½. American Superpower preferred was heavy. Brazilian Traction was down nearly a point.

The more active oils were easier, Standard of Kentucky was sold with some persistence, reaching a point net. South Penn was off 2¼, but for Indiana, International Petroleum and Gulf the net declines were small fractions. Humble declared ¾, duplicating the old low at 44¼. Standard of Ohio lost 4 in a thin market.

There were a few firm spots in the industrials and specialties. Woolworth, Ltd. and New York Steam each returned advances of ⅝. Singer also closed higher. On the other hand, Great Atlantic & Pacific, Parker Rust and the Canadian Ford shares

both of Baltimore, which is booked for the Lucky Strike alleys. It will be the final block of a ten-game affair. The Washington couple hold a twelve-pin average over their opponents and are favored to cop the bacon.

The finals in the trials to determine the boy and junior champions of the District of Columbia will be held Saturday, with the boys rolling at the Rendezvous alleys and the juniors at Arcadia. The State finals for Maryland will be held the same day, the boys competing at Hyattsville and the juniors at the Boulevard alleys, Bethesda.

The Washington contestants and the alleys they represent are as follows: Juniors, Ouncie Harrison, Arcadia; Alphido Brigrizilio, Rendezvous; Noble Viers, Silver Spring; Abe Singer, Convention Hall; Nick Rinaldi, Lucky Strike, and Al Baer, Columbia. Boys, Stuart Patti, Rendezvous; Dick Faulconer, Silver Spring; Bob Chalfonte, Arcadia. Benjamin Potter, Boulevard, and Bob Temple, Hyattsville, will head the Maryland juniors. Rodney Harrison, of Hyattsville, is the lone entrant in the boys class at this date, but he is certain to be joined by a host of Baltimore entrants before starting time.

Elimination contests are also being held in Connecticut and Massachusetts.

A bunch of the boys were whooping it up in the Commercial League at Convention Hall, and another bunch weren't doing so much whooping, with the result that four teams won all three of the games and four others lost all three. W. R. Winslow, Thompson's Dairy, National Glass and Southern Dairies were the boisterous teams. Penn Electric, Thompson's Furniture and W. B. Moses needed the crying towels. Rose, of National Glass, turned in the best game, 139, and McCormick, of Southern Dairies, captured the set honors with his 374. Barber & Ross registered the only single game win, trouncing Kapneck Electric. National Glass' 598 game and Southern Dairies' 1,650 were the best team scores.

A match that should attract more than the usual amount of curiosity will be rolled Saturday night at 8 o'clock at Arcadia, when Sam Rice and Nick Altrock, two of the better-known members of the Washington Baseball Team, lock horns with Al Baer and Ouncie Harrison. Three games are scheduled, but it is reliably reported that Al and Ouncie, two youngsters who know their bowling A B C's inside out, backward and forward, are willing to call matters square at the end of the second game if Uncle Nick and Sam find the going too rough.

Temple increased its lead over the Hecht maple-mashers in the District League to three games by winning the long end of a 2-1 count in their match at Temple last night. The winners' scores were 613, 580 and 609. Hecht's games were 576, 653 and 592. Joe Freschi, of Hecht, led the individual list with a game of 149 and set of 384. Ollie Pacini, Temple ace, trailed his fellow countrymen by 4 pins in the set score.

The pins were popping like the well known corn in the Eastern Star loop at Lucky Strike. Washington Centennial No. 2 chalked up a game of 467, and Milans ripped off a set of 1,356 to outscore the teams. Miss Kamm's 116-game was the best individual effort of the evening. Bethany, Miriam and Unity took the odd game from La Fayette, Joppa and Mispah. Milans and Washington Centennial No. 2 took all three from Brookland and Acacia.

The whitewash supply in the Sanico League was well nigh exhausted after the Fagans, Uppermans and La Billies had finished with their opponents at Convention Hall. In stopping the Kings, the Fagans hung up a new all-time game record, 632, and also made the highest set score of the evening, 1,681. Reed was the big gun of the team, topping the timber for a game of 155 and 372 set. The Wynns were the Uppermans' victims, and La Bille handed the goose egg to Foster. McFall took a fall out of Tiencke for a one-game victory.

A poor second game of 499 cost Young & Simon the victory over Farnan's Shoes in the National Capital League at Lucky Strike. The losers' scores were 612, 499 and 536. The Shoe Dealers turned in games of 592, 536 and 602. Frank Mischou, with a game of 145 and set of 377, led the individual scoring.

Only one clean sweep, Caslon Press' win over Gibson Brothers, was rolled in the Typothetae League at Lucky Strike. National Publishing, Left-overs, Haywood Printing, Judd & Detweiler and Craftsmen proved themselves one game better than Columbia Printing, Maxwell Jones, H. L. Potter and R. P. Andrews. Kinnahan, of Washington Linotype, had a game of 145 and R. Smith a set of 393. National Publishing's 1,679 set was high for the teams, and Washington Typos took the game honors with its 589.

The leading Lansburgh team received a bad shock in the King Pin Business Men's League at King Pin No. 2 last night when the lowly Maccabees tripped the department store crew for a one-game victory. In the other matches Hecht Annex put the skids under National Lithographers for the odd game and the First Americans took a whole loaf from Lansburgh No. 2. Whittington's 344 set topped the individual scoring.

Charley Morgan, brother of the sorrel-top bearing the, same name was the star of the Petroleum League at Columbia. Rolling for Gulf, Charley scored a game of 139 and set of 370 to lead his team to a clean sweep over Tidewater. Gulf, by the way, was in pretty good form, obtaining a game of 614 and set of 1,666. Crew-Levick took all three from Texas, and Chapman applied the same strict measures to the duckpin ambitions of American. Standard hung up a 2-1 win over Lord Baltimore.

MORE ASSOCIATIONS OF CITIZENS OPPOSE MAPES TAX PROJECT

Forest Hills Indignant at Plans for Levies Upon District Incomes.

'APPEARS INEQUITABLE' TO CLEVELAND PARK

Manor Park and Georgetown Also Join Wide Protest on Bills.

The Mapes bill to provide for District taxation of incomes was described last night as "appearing inequitable" in a resolution adopted by the Cathedral Heights-Cleveland Park Citizens Association. The resolution which was drawn up by John W. Townsend, tax counsel, and president of the association, went on to say that the House of Representatives passed the Mapes bill "without having held public hearings with reference to the enactment of such income tax legislation."

The action of the Cleveland Park group was similar to that taken by several associations throughout the city, which last night condemned the income tax provisions of the Mapes bills at their regular monthly meetings.

"The proposed legislation appears inequitable in many respects and to provide for the determination of taxable income upon a basis different in certain respects from the basis long established in the Federal income tax acts," the Cleveland Park resolution said.

The Cleveland Park Association in other resolutions approved the proposed tax on the transfer of estates, approved an increase in the gasoline tax, but condemned an automobile tax based on the weight of the vehicle.

Forest Hills Indignant.

The Forest Hills Citizens Association adopted a resolution in which it said "That the association views with amazement and indignation the scheme of taxation proposed for the District of Columbia in the so-called Mapes bills of the House of Representatives and it deplores and resents the spirit of hostility and animosity that animates the House of Representatives in its administration of the affairs of the District."

The Forest Hills group went on to say that, "it is opposed to any new or additional methods of taxation or any increase in present taxes which has for its object the reduction in the Federal appropriation to the District of Columbia."

"The recent action of the House of Representatives in passing with small consideration and no debate the ill-considered and unwarranted Mapes Bill affords ample evidence of the fact that the citizens of the District need and are entitled to some voice in the levying of taxes upon the private property of the District," the Forest Hills resolution continued.

Manor Park Association.

Further opposition to the Mapes tax bill was expressed when the Manor Park Citizens Association, meeting in the Whittier School, adopted a resolution pointing out that it was "unfair and inequitable."

The association's approval of the Capper bill which proposes that members of the District School Board be elected, was given in the adoption of a resolution.

The Georgetown Citizens Association went on record in opposition to the report of the Mapes committee in a resolution which was adopted last night.

The resolution, copies of which were ordered sent to the Senate committee, brought out that in the opinion of the members the Mapes bills are inequitable, their conclusions are not supported by fact and that they would break the just and equitable division of District maintenance between the residents and the Federal Government.

The citizens believe that the tax burden imposed by the bills would be neither just nor necessary.

Georgetown Architecture.

B. H. Meyer, chairman of the parks and reservations committee, reported that the new P street bridge would be an arched structure of stone. He also recommended that citizens of Georgetown should endeavor to maintain the antique charm of their locality by encouraging all new construction to conform to the colonial character of old Georgetown.

The association ordered that a testimonial be drawn to the memory of Richard V. Oulahan late New York Times correspondent, who was a member.

Approval of the Board of Education's efforts to secure a junior high school near Wisconsin and Massachusetts avenues and to obtain more playground space for the Curtis Hyde Addison School group was made in a resolution. The continuance of efforts in these cases was urged.

The members of the Manor Park Association were addressed by a Community Chest worker and also heard a brief talk by John Claggett Proctor on the historical associations of their locality. Seven new members were admitted by the group.

Maj. Sidney Morgan, secretary of the United States Tariff Commission and a trustee of the Community Chest, spoke to the Cathedral Heights-Cleveland Park Citizens Association regarding the Community Chest drive.

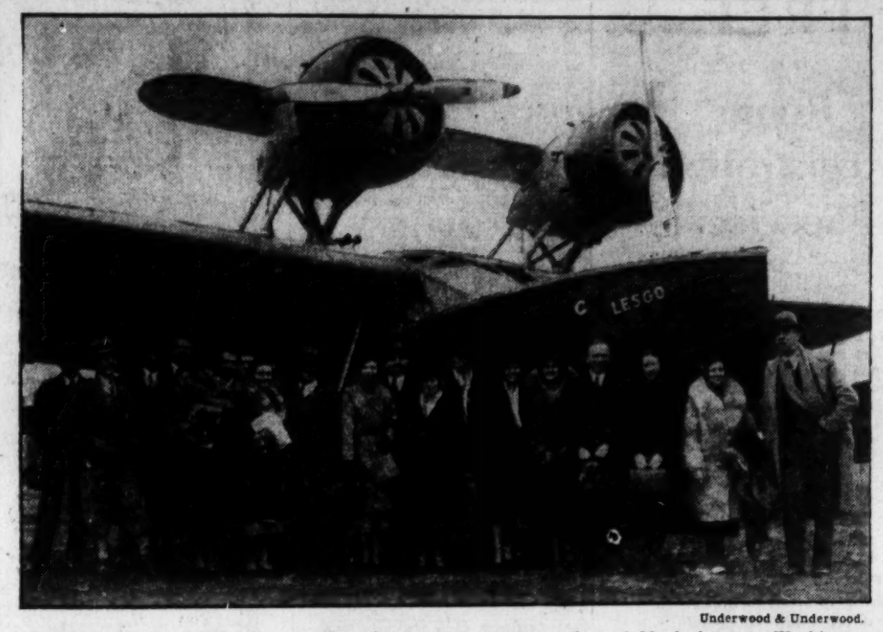
Miss Jessie McBride spoke briefly on the need for active cooperation on the part of the citizens in the work of the National Symphony Orchestra.

Driver Injured as Auto Is Damaged in Collision

William Loeffler, 48 years old, of 921 Eleventh street northeast, was treated at Casualty Hospital yesterday for contusions about his right shoulder and chest, and lacerations about his forehead and ear, when he was injured in a collision at Twelfth and I streets northeast.

Mr. Loeffler's car was badly damaged in a crash with a machine operated by William H. Spriggs, 24 years old, colored, of 1724 Willard street northwest. Spriggs escaped injury. After treatment, Mr. Loeffler was returned to his home.

MEMBERS OF 1,300-MILE AIR SPORT CRUISE



Underwood & Underwood.

PARTY 'CRASH' DEATH IS CALLED ACCIDENT

Youth Held in Tragedy at New Year Fete Freed by Coroner's Jury.

Edward M. Benjamin, 19, of 1104 Trinidad avenue northeast, was exonerated by a coroner's jury yesterday when they returned a verdict of accident in the death of Edward McCarthy, 15, of 715 Allison street northwest, who died after an argument when he and four other boys attempted to "crash" a New Year's party at 635 Fifth street northeast early Saturday morning.

Deputy Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald performed an autopsy on McCarthy's body and declared he had found evidence of cardiac failure of the heart and that there was nothing to indicate he had been beaten.

According to Dr. MacDonald, the boy had a brain cyst of long standing and any sudden rise in blood pressure could have ruptured a blood vessel. It was the result of such a rupture that McCarthy died and not a fractured skull as was previously believed.

The result of the post mortem was announced after the testimony of Miss Bertha Walter, 18, of 631 Fifth street northeast, one of the principal witnesses, failed to reveal any evidence against Benjamin. She was called on after Detective Sergt. John Flaherty had read a statement that Benjamin had signed, admitting he had pushed McCarthy and caused him to fall and strike his head.

According to the testimony, Miss Walter, who is a secretarial school student, was sitting in a parked automobile in front of 637 Fifth street northeast, with Donald Kneesi, 5601 Sixteenth street northwest, when McCarthy fell.

The morgue was thronged and when the verdict was returned, a cheer arose. Benjamin rushed to the phone and called his mother, shouting "It's accidental!" into the phone several times.

The funeral for McCarthy will be conducted today after requiem high mass is said at St. Gabriel's Church at 9 o'clock. Burial will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery.

Police to Install Officers Tonight

District Association Will Seat Three Victors in Recent Election.

Newly elected officers of the Police Association will be installed tonight when the group meets in Odd Fellows Temple at 8 o'clock. Brig. Gen. Glassford, superintendent of police, will attend. He was elected to membership at the last meeting.

Private W. H. McGrath, of the First Precinct, assigned to the corporation counsel's office, will be inducted as president, and Privates P. C. Wheeler, of the Ninth Precinct, and D. A. Davis, of the Second, will be installed as vice presidents.

All other officers were reelected. President McGrath is past commander of Washington Police Post of the American Legion and chaplain of the Police and Fire Post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Woman's Auto Death Is Called Accidental

A coroner's jury yesterday returned a verdict of accidental death in the case of Mrs. Marie L. Tompkins, 68, of 610 Third street northwest, who died at Casualty Hospital December 31 as the result of being struck by an automobile December 29.

Mrs. Tompkins was struck by a car driven by John Ballinger, 25, of 1627 West Virginia avenue northeast, at Fourth and G streets northwest. She was taken to the hospital, but never regained consciousness. She suffered a fractured skull, hemorrhage and shock.

Prairie Wolf Captured As It Roams in Capital

Just why a prairie wolf was wandering along Sixteenth street at 1 o'clock in the morning, is a question that Gordon Rains, of 1729 Church street northwest, is unable to answer.

However, as long as it was there, and as it took a great deal of time and trouble to capture it, he has decided that, unless objections are raised at home, he will keep it.

Early yesterday Mr. Rains was riding his motorcycle near Sixteenth and P streets northwest, when suddenly, trotting down the middle of the street, appeared an animal strangely resembling a wolf.

With the aid of several cab drivers and milk men, the creature was finally captured in a vacant lot. A close examination revealed that, sure enough, it was a wolf.

Fliers Crash In Elevator Amid Cheers

Fifteen aviators, most of them nationally known, crashed in Washington last night without injury to one of them.

Among the victims were Col. Clarence Chamberlin, first pilot to fly the Atlantic with a passenger; Senator Hiram Bingham (Republican), Connecticut, war-time commander of the American Flying School at Issoudon, France; Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the Naval Bureau of Aeronautics; Maj. Gen. James E Fechet (retired), former chief of the Air Corps; Col. Clarence M. Young, Assistant Secretary of Commerce; Miss Ruth Nichols and other well-known fliers and promoters of flying.

The craft which suddenly dropped them harshly to earth was an elevator in the Carlton Hotel. It was descending from the sixth floor to the first, where a banquet was in progress.

"Why don't you keep your hand on the controls?" asked Col. Chamberlin.

"It's no use," the elevator operator responded without enthusiasm as the car made a fourteen-point landing on the shock absorbers.

At any rate, the extent of the damage was a broken skylight in the elevator car and a great joke for the aviators who cheered loudly.

Barber, 60, Accused of Assault on McKinley High Student.

Two men were held by Tenth Precinct police last night in connection with the case of Bromslow "Barney" Golkoski, 15-year-old McKinley High School student, who was found bound and gagged in Rock Creek Park early New Year's morning. The boy, a ward of the Board of Public Welfare, later admitted to police that he was tied up at his own request "to break a connection with" an elderly man.

One of the men held is Willard Sheridan Ritts, 60 years old, a barber, who gave his address as 815 Tenth street northwest. He is held on a charge of assault. The other man, who police said is also a barber, is Charles Arthur Settlemeyer, 49 years old. He was booked for investigation.

Settlemeyer, according to police, is one of the two men who tied Golkoski and left him in the beating rain on New Year's morning. Ritts will be taken to Police Court this morning and Golkoski has agreed to testify against him, police said.

Taxicab Driver Is Robbed And Thrown Into Road

Raymond Edelin, taxicab driver, of 109 E street southwest, Washington, is just unlucky. He was robbed early yesterday of $7 and his cab in Arlington County, Va., hurried through Alexandria and thrown out on the road in Fairfax County. He reported it all to the Alexandria police, who said it happened out of their jurisdiction and they could do nothing for him.

According to Edelin, two passengers picked up in Washington directed him to drive toward Alexandria, and on reaching a turn in the road they told him to drive eastward. When they entered the underpass before reaching Alexandria proper they held him up, took his car and money and then drove through Alexandria. At a point a mile south of Hunting Creek Bridge they put him out of the car and drove away.

The automobile, according to Edelin, is owned by Crounse & Zirkle, of Washington. One of the men is described as being about 22 years old. The other was about 25 years old and wore a blue suit. Neither wore a hat.

50 AMATEUR FLIERS LAND SAFELY HERE

Participants in Aerocade Are Guests of Davison and Ingalls at Hotel Dinner.

More than half a hundred amateur aviators, passing through Washington on their way to Miami, Fla., were guests last night of two major figures in official aeronautics. The hosts, although they could not be present, were F. Truebee Davison, Assistant Secretary of War for Aviation, and David S. Ingalls, Assistant Secretary of the Navy. The dinner which celebrated the aerocade's safe arrival in Washington was held at the Carlton Hotel.

Senator Hiram Bingham (Republican), Connecticut, acted as substitute host and also as toastmaster. He called on about a dozen flying celebrities for brief addresses.

Among these were Charles S. (Casey) Jones, Serge Seversky, Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the Naval Bureau of Aeronautics; Col. Clarence M. Young, Assistant Secretary of Commerce for Aeronautics; Maj. Gen. James E. Fechet (retired) former chief of the Army Air Corps; Miss Ruth Nichols, and Col. Clarence Chamberlin.

All speakers pointed to the fact that although yesterday's weather was exceptionally bad for flying, all of the amateur pilots got through from New York or Pittsburgh. Col Chamberlin brought six passengers in a plane of his own design from New York.

The group of planes which arrived at Hoover Airport yesterday afternoon comprises the most ambitious cross-country mass flight ever undertaken by a group of sportsmen pilots.

The fliers will leave in the morning for Richmond where they will be tendered a luncheon by Gov. John G. Pollard and the Richmond Chamber of Commerce. Later in the afternoon they will fly to Pinehurst, N. C., where they will stop overnight Wednesday they will go on to St Simons Island, near Savannah, Ga., and Thursday they will complete the trip to Miami, where they will participate in the all-American air races.

Among the fliers in the group are: A. Felix duPont, jr., fleet captain in charge of the cruise; Dr. H. A. Brock, of Kansas City; Robert Buck, holder of a number of junior flying records; Maj. Thomas J. Lanphier, of New York, and George M. Pynchon, jr., of New York.

Former Hotel Cashier Indicted as Embezzler

On a charge of embezzlement, Ward Adolphus Cheshire, formerly a cashier at the Shoreham Hotel, was indicted by the grand jury yesterday.

Cheshire is alleged to have taken $858.74 of the hotel's money after he had been notified that he was to be dismissed. The alleged embezzlement occurred September 29. He surrendered to authorities December 15.

TAXI-METER ORDER DATE FACES DELAY; NEW HEARING SEEN

Additional Evidence Offered in Appeals of City and Bell Companies.

JUSTICE ADKINS HINTS RETURNING ENTIRE CASE

May Refer Question Back to Utilities Commission, to Obtain Other Views.

Postponement of the effective date, if not a modification of the order of the Public Utilities Commission relating to taxicabs, appeared inevitable yesterday following a hearing on the appeals of the City and the Bell Cab companies before Justice Jesse C. Adkins in equity division of District Supreme Court.

On account of the introduction of new evidence the court indicated that the whole matter may be referred back to the commission for another public hearing. In fact William A. Roberts, special assistant corporation counsel, was instructed to ask whether the commission would voluntarily hold such a hearing.

Maj. Gen Mason M. Patrick chairman, declined to say what the attitude of the commission will be as to this question pending a report today to the court. Indications are, however, that the commission feels that ample opportunity was given for the presentation of all evidence at the hearing last fall.

Hearing May Be Forced.

Even though the commission should decline to hold the hearing voluntarily, the court has authority to require it to consider the new evidence while the proceedings are delayed for a period of fifteen days. This authority is specified in paragraph 67 of the public utility act.

Another blow to the order, which is intended to require all of the more than 5,000 taxicabs in the District to be equipped with meters by next Sunday, came yesterday from one of the strongest proponents of the meter system. The Independent Taxi Owners Association, Inc., operators of the Diamond Cabs, asked a 40-day extension after the appeals are settled in court because of an inability to obtain meters.

"We have always been heartily in favor of such a regulation, and we trust that pending court suits will result in the enforcement of this order relative to meters as soon as possible," reads the Diamond Cab letter.

Purchase of Meters.

The communication continues, however, that the association "could not buy meters for resale to its members, as it was practically impossible to ascertain the number of meters needed and the particular make that our members would desire due to different types of cabs, &c. Apparently, 400 additional taximeters must be purchased for the balance of the Diamond Cab fleet."

Representatives of the Bell and City companies yesterday stated in court that they were under the impression when the public hearing was held by the commission that the meter requirement was not being contemplated; hence they did not introduce certain evidence relating to meters that they would have otherwise.

Testimony was also offered that the number of cabs in Baltimore had been reduced from 3,000 to 900 on account of the recent change from the zone to the meter system.

People's Counsel Richmond B Keech and counsel representing the Federation of Citizens Association and the Federation of Business Men's Associations appeared yesterday in court in opposition to the meter order. Representatives of the citizens organization were Henry I. Quinn, William McK. Clayton and George E. Sullivan.

4 Held for Jurors On Drug Charges

Other Seven Seized by U. S. Agents to Be Given Hearings This Week.

Four men, three Negroes and one Chinese, arrested with seven others last month in a narcotic dragnet, yesterday were ordered held for grand jury action on charges of sale and possession of narcotic drugs in violation of the Harrison law by United States Commissioner N. C. Turnage.

The four, Thee Moy, and Andrew Toyer, of 147 L street southeast; Irving West, of 1126 Cushing place southeast, and Charles Riley, of 1004 New Jersey avenue southeast, were the first of the group to be given hearing by the commissioner.

Commissioner Turnage said the other seven would be given hearings this week. Arrest of the eleven came after a six-month period of undercover investigation by Federal agents. The charges allege, Commissioner Turnage said, that sales of cocaine and heroin were made to the officers.

Wilson Will Become Chief Of Homicide Squad Today

Sergeant Who Joined Force in 1903 Takes Post of Springmann.

Detective Sergt. Harry K. Wilson will assume duties as the new chief of the police headquarters homicide squad this morning, according to Inspector Frank S. W. Burke, chief of detectives, who made the announcement yesterday.

Sergt. Wilson will fill the vacancy created by the death of James H. Springmann, who died recently after serving 33 years in the Police Department.

Sergt. Wilson was appointed to the force January 1, 1903 and was promoted four years later to precinct detective. After serving three years in this capacity he was promoted to detective sergeant at headquarters. He received many commendations for the solution of several major robberies.

In the recent headquarter's reorganization he was detailed to the First Precinct and has been serving there since.

DETECTIVE SERGT. HARRY K. WILSON.

6 BURGLARIES ADDED TO DISTRICT'S CRIME

Thieves Have Busy Week-End; Oil Station Attendant Bound and Robbed.

Thieves in the District spent an active week-end, according to reports made to headquarters yesterday. Six cases of housebreaking and one of holdup and robbery were reported.

Fred B. Clair, 19 years old, of 24-A Bates street northwest, night manager of a gasoline filling station at 3535 Connecticut avenue, was held up and robbed of $52 by two colored bandits early yesterday morning.

He reported he was sitting in the office of the filling station when two masked men entered, drew guns and told him to sit still. They produced ropes and bound his wrists and ankles and tied a soiled rag about his mouth. They then took the money from his change carrier and his pockets.

Found by Motorists.

Clair later managed to work himself to the door and push it open. He then rolled out into the driveway, where he remained, shivering for half an hour before he was found by passing motorists, who freed him and notified police.

The William H. Allen Coal Co., at 609 New York avenue northwest, was entered some time over the week-end by breaking the lock on the gate, according to William J. Holtman, manager.

The thieves took a truck out of the garage, loaded it with coal and drove away.

The locker room in the basement of the West Chester Apartments at Thirty-ninth street and Cathedral avenue, was broken into and $36 in cash stolen. Gordon W. Rule, of 1190 Sixteenth street, night manager of the apartment, furnished police with the name of a suspect.

Grocery Store Looted.

A window of a grocery store at 1100 Fourth street northwest was broken open and the store ransacked. According to Allen Oliver, proprietor, the thieves stole cigarettes, cigars, groceries and cash to the amount of $18.25.

Two revolvers, four air rifles, ammunition and 75 cents in cash was stolen from the hardware store of H. Colman & Sons, at 1319 Seventh street northwest. Entrance was gained by cutting the glass in the transom. Police obtained fingerprints.

Entrance was gained to a lunch room at 1407 First street northeast through the skylight in the kitchen and $20 in cigarettes and cash stolen.

Cigarettes worth $65 were stolen from the A. & P. store at 3909 Fourteenth street northwest, according to Raymond Nello, manager. Entrance was gained by removing glass from the skylight. The thieves used tire chains to lower themselves into the store.

Two men who were busily engaged in knocking the combination dial from a safe in the offices of the Schlingers Peanut Products Co., at 1339 South Capitol street, were frightened away from their task last night by a passerby who looked in the window.

Beggar Asks Glassford For Dime and Is Jailed

When a panhandler stopped a man on the street yesterday and asked him for a dime for a bite to eat, he picked the wrong man, for it was Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, in plain clothes, walking near Judiciary Square on his way to police headquarters after a week's absence.

The police chief then summoned the patrol.

The beggar was booked for soliciting alms and gave his name as Harry Edward Shipley, 39, of Baltimore, Md. He will appear in court today. It was the general's first case as arresting officer.

'SOAKING' TOURISTS ASSAILED IN HOUSE

Capital Hostelries Already Raising Rates, Is Claim; Fete Funds Rapped.

Washington hostelries, lodging and boarding houses already have "lifted prices" so they can "soak" tourists coming here for the 1932 George Washington Bicentennial Celebration, Representative George Huddleston (Democrat), Alabama, charged yesterday on the floor of the House.

Assailing the George Washington Bicentennial Commission as a "racket" used to promote the interests of some individuals and charging it with "advertising" with the object of drawing people to Washington, Representative Huddleston urged that this year's celebration be "decentralized."

His remarks were provoked by Representative Joseph W. Byrns' deficiency estimates, reducing appropriations for the George Washington Bicentennial Commission $177,000 below the $427,000 asked by Associate Director Sol Bloom.

Prefers Seeing People Fed.

"I would rather see some of this money spent to feed the people," said Chairman Byrns, in announcing the cut.

Representative Huddleston was on his feet at once, charging members of the commission with "lip service," "advertising" and "a hullabaloo like trying to draw people into a circus."

"What does it all matter, anyway," he said. "I would rather some of the starving school children of my District would have a loaf of bread than a picture of George Washington."

Representative Byrns interceded to say that the purpose of the celebration was "to inculcate patriotism," and Representative Harold Knutson (Republican), Minnesota, ventured that it was "money well spent."

LaGuardia Hits Exploitation.

Representative Fiorello LaGuardia (Republican), New York, objected to sale of stamps in the name of the commission, after Mr. Byrns had said the body expected to realize $1,500,000 from the stamp sale begun last week.

"The Bicentennial Commission has had nothing to do with the sale of these stamps except to exploit them as one of its own achievements," Mr. LaGuardia said. He said certain members of the commission had "exploited" George Washington, and left themselves open to "ridicule."

Remarks became personal when Leonidas C. Dyer (Republican), Missouri, asking that no appropriation at all be made for the commission pending further hearings, called on Chairman Byrns for the names of witnesses appearing for the commission at the deficiency hearings.

Mr. Byrns called the name of Representative Sol Bloom, and hesitated.

"That's right, Sol Bloom," said Representative LaGuardia. "Sol Bloom, and Sol Bloom."

Car Crash Causes First Tag Arrest

Case of Driver Without New Title to Be Tested Today.

The first arrest involving a lack of title to an automobile was made last night by Park Policeman W. E. Riley after an accident in front of the White House.

Garnett Wabington, colored, 36, of 1211½ Seventh street northwest, is alleged to have collided with a machine driven by Adolph Weyl, of the Broadmoor Apartments. When asked for his new registration card, police said Washington was unable to exhibit it.

The man was booked at the First Precinct Station on a charge of driving with dead tags. The case will be tested in Police Court this morning.

Arrival of 88 Rare Toads Creates Sensation at Zoo

Arrival of 88 Surinam toads at the National Zoological Park yesterday created more excitement than if the most ferocious beast of the jungle had been brought to Washington.

Dr. William M. Mann, director of the zoo, had not been so elated since the new snake house was completed and occupied. The Surinam toad, it appears, is one of the rarest creatures in existence and, from a biological standpoint, one of the most interesting.

The manner in which these toads bring their young into the world is one of the wonders of nature. The male, with a four-fingered hand, each finger appended by a perfectly shaped little star, picks up the eggs the female has laid and shoves them into the latter's back. The eggs are hatched in the tiny indentations made by the male. These little cavities later serve as pouches for the young. More than 100 can be carried on the back of a mother at a time. As soon as the female has shed her brood of young she sheds her skin so that all the pouches, which are essentially ulcers caused by the irritation disappear.

Dr. Mann went to Dutch New Guinea last summer to find some of the toads, but he was obliged to come away disappointed. Last Saturday, he received a cable from friends in New Guinea informing him that a shipment of the toads was due in New York on Sunday. The zoo director hastened to New York and remained awake all Sunday night on the railway trip here to keep watch over his valuable charges.

APPROPRIATION BILL OF $125,886,262 IS PRESENTED IN HOUSE

$50,000,000 for Highways Is Largest Single Amount Listed.

The keen paring knife of the Byrns appropriations committee, which trimmed $13,443,900 from Federal deficiency estimates, left the District's deficiency item of $100,250 untouched, when the bill was presented to Congress yesterday.

The bill, which will be further debated and passed on today called for Federal appropriations of $125,886,262, instead of the $139,330,162 asked by the Budget Bureau.

Defending the committee's use of the knife, Charman Joseph W. Byrns (Democrat), Tennessee, warned against governmental extravagance in his presentation of the measure.

Challenges Low Rates.

He deviated to challenge the low rates of real estate assessments in the District, pointing out that the $321,201 fixed by a condemnation jury for purchase of land for the Library of Congress, was 128 per cent in excess of its assessed valuation.

The largest single appropriation provided in the bill as reported was $50,000,000 for Federal-aid highways. The largest local item was $31,000 for furnishing and equipping schools. Superintendent of Schools Frank W. Ballou told the committee the amount was necessary at this time because the schools are six months ahead in their building program; that during this school year they will open the largest number of school buildings that have ever been opened in any school year in the history of the District.

There was a $12,000 item in the bill for alterations to No. 2 Precinct to fit it for use as a House of Detention. Superintendent of Police Pelham D. Glassford told the committee it was "very much of a makeshift proposition;" that eventually the House of Detention would have to have a new building.

Poverty-Stricken Mothers.

Other local items provided $1,500 for printing opinions of the District Court of Appeals; $2,500 for payments to poverty-stricken mothers of dependent children; $3,000 for returning to their homes in other States Gallinger Hospital patients. In addition, the bill made available $464,000 for District use from unexpended balances.

It makes available $260,000 of the unexpended balance of the appropriations for sites and construction of refuse incinerators, contained in the first deficiency act of 1930.

Another item provides $154,400 for paving Benning road northeast from Fifteenth street to the culvert, and for construction of a pedestrian underpass at Twenty-fourth street and Benning road northeast.

Exclusion of a $3,000,000 estimate for remodeling the State, War and Navy Building precipitated a short debate on the floor of the House yesterday, after Chairman Byrns declared the old Government structure architecturally pleasing, and expressed the hope it would never be remodeled. Representative LaGuardia (Republican), New York, took issue with this view.

No Estimates Increased.

Mr. Byrns announced that another provision of the bill prohibits use of public funds for demolishing the Municipal Building and the old Southern Railway Building at Thirteenth and E streets northwest.

The committee in no instance increased the Budget Bureau's estimates.

The estimate of $60,000,000 submitted by the Bureau of Public Roads for Federal highway aid was cut to $50,000,000. For military and naval compensation, $46,872,975 was authorized, in response to an appeal by Veteran Administrator Hines. Supervising Architect James A. Wetmore was allowed $18,206,000 for the administration's public building program, $3,000,000 less than asked.

Site Clearing Planned.

The clearing of the site for one more new Government building was planned by the Treasury Department, while the House appropriations committee moved yesterday to delay indefinitely a part of the Government's building program because of the depleted state of the country's finances.

A contract was let to the American Wrecking Co. of this city to clear the site bounded by Sixth and Seventh streets, Pennsylvania and Constitution avenues. The bid for the contract was for $1,760 and work is expected to start soon.

The Treasury also advertised for bids for foundations for the new Archives Building to be erected on the site of the old Center Market. The excavation work on this site has been completed and bids are to be opened January 13.

Suspect Is Caught In Purse Snatching

Seizes Bag Containing $20 From Woman, Fleeing in Car.

While walking on Adams Mill road near Clydesdale place northwest, yesterday morning, Mrs. Ethel Daniels, of 2801 Adams Mill road, lost her pocketbook when a white man snatched it and escaped in an automobile.

Mrs. Daniels gave chase and when the man jumped into the car, screamed for help. F. H. Deland, 3131 Adams Mill road, and M. L. Gillman, 1825 Ontario place, chased the thief in another car.

As the pursued car turned into the Zoo, Deland Gillman said they saw a man jump out. They held him until police arrived. He gave his name as Romney L. Harvill, 22, of 1217 B street southeast.

Mrs. Daniels said her pocketbook contained $20 in cash and a larger amount in checks and postal savings
